IN THE SECTION 194 INQUIRY

HELD AT THE NATIONAL ASSEMBLY, CAPE TOWN

In respect of

THE PUBLIC PROTECTOR OF SOUTH AFRICA

THE PUBLIC PROTECTOR'S APPLICATION(S) FOR RECUSAL

A: INTRODUCTION

1. In terms of Rule 129 AD (2) of the Rules of the National Assembly:-

   "The Committee must ensure that the enquiry is conducted in a reasonable and procedurally fair manner, within a reasonable timeframe."

2. In terms of clause 10.2 of the Directives issued by the Chairperson of the Section 194(1) Committee dated 14 July 2022

   "Any person wishing to make an application to the Committee which is not otherwise provided for in this Procedure, or in the Assembly Rules, must do so in writing to the Chairperson."

3. In terms of the letter received from the Chairperson, following notification of this application,

   "… in addition to the notice that you intend giving by no later than 10h00 on Monday 19 September 2022, also provide the application setting out the basis for the application, by no later than 10h00 on 20 September 2022."

4. In terms of the remarks made and warnings repeatedly issued, on behalf of the Public Protector since the start of the enquiry proceedings on 11 July 2022 and more specifically on 26 August 2022 and 13 September 2022, indications were made directly and indirectly that serious consideration was being given to the contemplated application for the recusal of the Chairperson. None of these warnings were heeded. Instead, the situation was worsened and further aggravated by the conduct of the Chairperson outlined below. The day has now arrived to make good on those warnings.

5. In the same breath complaints, which were brought to the attention of the Committee and/or its Chairperson regarding the inherent bias of Honourable Kevin Mileham, were not adequately entertained and were ultimately overruled by the Chairperson.

6. This then is the recusal application which has been "threatened" since 26 August 2022, in the hope that some improvements would be observed. In actual fact, none of these serious warnings were heeded and instead the situation worsened and deteriorated to the present intolerable levels where it is impossible to continue with the enquiry before this application is resolved one way or the other. The unfortunate reaction was to generate and fuel fake outrage about the warnings issued.

7. This application has been compiled at the instructions of the Public Protector, which will be confirmed at the relevant sitting of Committee, if necessary.

A1: The duty to act fairly

8. Rule 129 AD prescribes that the Committee must operate according to the standards of fairness, reasonableness and/or transparency. In the view of the Public Protector all the Chairperson has breached all three standards. However, this application is largely based on the compulsory standard of fairness.

A2: The meaning of fairness

9. It is not easy to define fairness and unfairness. It is however very easy to identify or perceive unfairness and injustice when it is directed at one.

10. The legal standard of fairness derives from the well-established two rules of natural justice. They are:-

    10.1. the audi alteram partem rule which simply means the other side must be heard; and

    10.2. nemo iudex in rem sua also known as the rule against bias, which simply means that no person can be a judge in his or her own cause. It is also referred to as the conflict of interest rule which is applied in many situations involving the exercise of power and decision making conduct. Finally, it is also the rule which prohibits predetermined or prejudiced outcomes in respect of processes in which fairness is an inherent prerequisite.

11. There is always an irresistible overlap between the two rules of natural justice. This present application is no exception. However, in this application major reliance will be placed more on the nemo iudex rule.

12. In addition to the two rules of natural justice, the Public Protector will also place reliance on the doctrine of legitimate expectations in terms of which she is legally entitled to expect fairness from the Chairperson, Honourable Mileham and/or the Committee of which they are members. The basic features and requirements of this rule will be further explained during the oral hearing. In short it refers to a situation such as the present case where the applicable rules or previous conduct or promises to create a legitimate expectation that fairness will be afforded. A failure to do so is then in breach of the doctrine as well as the relevant duties of the public body in question.

13. In order to save time and not bring piecemeal applications, this application will separately cover two separate recusal applications directed at:-

    13.1. The Chairperson of the section 194(1) Committee, Honourable Richard Qubudile Dyantyi; and 13.2. Mr Kevin Mileham who is a member of the Committee representing the Democratic Alliance (“the DA”) in the Committee.

14. The purpose of this document is to outline the basis of these applications by setting out non-exhaustive but sufficient grounds thereof. The details of the issues raised below will be elaborated upon during the envisaged oral presentation of the application(s).

B: THE RECUSAL APPLICATION IN RESPECT OF HONOURABLE DYANTYI AS CHAIRPERSON

15. It is important to start this section with a reminder of what was articulated on behalf of Adv Mkhwebane, the Public Protector of South Africa, literally on day one of the enquiry namely that her participation was offered under protest for various reasons including reasons connected with her perceptions of inherent fairness of the process.

16. As articulated at that time and reiterated on a few subsequent occasions, the Public Protector was of the view that the assurances given by some members of the Committee, and more particularly by its Chairperson that an open mind would be brought to the enquiry deserved to be taken at face value and given a chance to be believed, unless or until the contrary could be established.

17. That point has now been reached and sadly exceeded. This will be demonstrated by reference to the countless examples of unfair treatment of the Public Protector and/or her legal representatives at the hands of the Chairperson (and/or Mr Mileham).

18. The methodology adopted is to mention each topic or ground and then to furnish a high-level summary of the underlying facts. These will be elaborated upon during the oral presentation of the application. It is not intended to call any witnesses in support of the recusal application, but reliance will be placed on the record of the proceedings.

19. Specific reference will be made to the address made on behalf of the Public Protector by her Senior Counsel, on 26 August 2022. However, the proverbial last straw that broke the camel's back was the events of 13 September 2022.

20. In support of the recusal application relating to Honourable Dyantyi we raise the primary grounds dismissed in sections B1 to B2 below and which ought to provide sufficient for the granting of the relief sought. Thereafter a brief expression of the applicable legal test to be applied will be given, with reference to some of the relevant decided cases from our Courts, including the Constitutional Court.

21. We now turn to dealing with each of the grounds which will be invoked by the Public Protector.

B1: First Ground: Scope of the enquiry

22. In response to the objection raised by the Public Protector on 11 July 2022 and subsequently reduced to writing, the Chairperson, unfairly and unreasonably exhibited bias and/or substantial prejudice against the Public Protector by ruling that the enquiry would proceed on the basis of the original motion of Ms Mazzone and/or the DA dated 21 February 2020, in spite of the substantial and effective amendment of the motion in the Independent Panel Report (specifically Annexure A hereof) released on 21 February 2021.

23. This ruling will cause material prejudice in that the Public Protector will be called upon to produce evidence to rebut charges in respect of which the Independent Panel has ruled that no prima facie evidence or case exists.

24. As a result thereof, the Public Protector harbours a reasonable apprehension of bias more particularly in that no reasonable Chairperson would, in the same circumstances, issue or support such a patently unreasonable and unfair ruling.

B2: Second Ground: Unlawful and unilateral amendment of Directives and the misapplication thereof

25. On or about 26 August 2022 the Chairperson issued a purported "Addendum" or "amendment" of the Directives which govern the procedures employed in the inquiry, in the middle of the process, without any consultation and to the prejudice of the Public Protector. Copies of the original Directive, adopted on 14 July 2022 in spite of protestations by the Public Protector and the purported addendum are annexed hereto marked "RA1" and "RA2" respectively.

26. In so doing the Chairperson knowingly acted procedurally irrationally and/or unreasonably, to the prejudice of the Public Protector and in breach of the applicable Rules and/or Directives. No reasons were given why the new rule must operate retrospectively.

27. He amended directive specifically refers to the issue of recalling witnesses.

28. Having agreed that witnesses in respect of whom cross-examination was not concluded would be recalled, the Chairperson has unfairly shifted the goalposts by imposing a "new" rule requiring a complicated application for recall. This was clearly intended to and/or had the predictable effect of rendering such recalls difficult and subjectively determined.

29. This issue is related to sections B3 above as well as the Public Protector's predicaments which prevent her from properly preparing her own witnesses. It will be impossible to lead her evidence without first resolving this issue. It will also be prejudicial to force her to do so.

B3: Third Ground: Refusal to subpoena Mr Ramaphosa

30. In August 2022 the Chairperson refused the request of the Public Protector to be assisted in securing the relevant evidence of Mr Cyril Ramaphosa who had made certain scatting remarks against the Public Protector which form part of the impeachment motion, with particular reference to the so-called CR17/BOSASA litigation referred to at paragraph 11 of the Charge Sheet/Motion.

31. In the process the Chairperson unfairly and unreasonably rejected the proposal made by Honourable Herron to seek further information from the Public Protector regarding the relevance of Mr Ramaphosa's evidence.

32. In so doing the Chairperson acted unreasonably, unfairly and in a manner which exhibited manifest bias against the Public Protector and in favour of Mr Ramaphosa who, is also the President of the African National Congress of which the Chairperson is a loyal member.

B4: Fourth Ground: Unduly Favouring the Evidence Leaders and unwarranted proximity to collusion with them and generally adopting an oppositional posture towards the Public Protector and/or her representatives

33. There are unnumerable examples of conduct on the part of the Chairperson which exhibits undue bias and favouritism in his dealings with the Evidence Leaders. This phenomenon has manifested itself in various rulings and/or other forms of conduct which will be elaborated upon during the oral presentation, notably:-

33.1. Rejecting almost all objections by the Public Protector including those dealing with relevance while entertaining as serious similar objections made by the Evidence Leaders. A case in point was the objection of the Evidence Leaders pertaining to the allegations of sexual harassment against him in the context of disciplinary proceedings against him, which the Chairperson had ruled to be "relevant" in respect of his and other witness testimony.

33.2. Allowing the Evidence Leaders to lead witnesses for whatever duration they want while unduly curtailing the Public Protector's cross-examination or giving it an unreasonably short duration than warranted.

33.3. Conferring with the Evidence regarding formal requests made by the Public Protector, to the exclusion of the Public Protector and/or her legal team and to the extent of making decisions on the Evidence Leaders written and/or added input.

33.4. During the written exchanges which led to the unnecessary and unfortunate events of 13 September 2022 referred to below, the Chairperson wrote to the Public Protector a long 5-page letter which was clearly written or heavily influenced by the Evidence Leaders. One of the tell-tale signs was the inclusion in the said letter of information which had been exclusively shared with the Evidence Leaders and which the Chairperson could not have known but for the undue collusion with the Evidence Leaders. This was not happening for the first or even the last time.

33.5. Unidirectional hostility and negative remarks directed only at the Public Protector's team while not censuring the same conduct on the part of the Evidence Leaders. This includes undue level of impatience, shouting at and suppression of the Public Protector's legal representatives in violation of the clear ruling of the Constitutional Court.

33.6. Instinctively rejecting proposals made by the Public Protector unless and/or until they get the support of the Evidence Leaders and/or a member of the Committee.

34. A further example relates to prior conversations between the Evidence Leaders and the Public Protector's legal team in which a "gentleman's agreement" had been reached to the effect that a two-week break would be granted between the last witness called by the Evidence Leaders and the first witness called by the Public Protector. This would allow proper scheduling and preparation of witnesses to ensure the smooth running of the evidence.

35. This arrangement was communicated to the Chairperson.

36. When the Evidence Leaders missed two of their self-imposed deadlines before calling their last witness, the Chairperson reneged on the arrangement and now wants to give the Public Protector one working day to make the abovementioned arrangements which is in the circumstances an impossibility.

37. This attitude is both unfair and unreasonable and a clear sign of the selective treatment of the teams and related bias on the part of the Chairperson.

38. These examples, which are by no means exhaustive, are indicative, individually and/or cumulatively, of undue bias on the part of the Chairperson.

B5: Fifth Ground: Undue comments interference in High court litigation

39. On or about 24 August 2022 the Chairperson instructed the lawyers representing the National Assembly and the Committee to deliver a Notice to the Western Cape High Court advising that court of a judgment of the Constitutional Court in which the Public Protector's application regarding the leaking of a previous judgment was dismissed and she was ordered to pay personal costs. This notice was delivered literally within hours of the Constitutional Court ruling. The intention was clearly to influence the outcome of the then reserved and pending judgment of the Western Cape High Court.

40. As it turned out, the Western Cape High Court refused to entertain the said Notice. However, that does not detract from impropriety of submitting it on the part of the Chairperson. It was another clear display of his bias.

41. As if that were not enough and on the same day the National Assembly and/or the Chairperson issued a media statement celebrating and supporting the order of personal costs against the Public Protector. This was also uncalled for from institutions which are supposed to be sitting in the impartial judgment of the Public Protector.

42. These issues were raised sharply with the Chairperson and Committee on 26 August 2022. An early warning was given that such conduct constituted recusal conduct. The warning was ignored in the same way as the subsequent one issued on 13 September 2022.

B6: Sixth Ground: Rulings related to cross-examination and/or re-examination

43. This section relates to the misapplication of the (disputed) directives

44. The chairperson not only unduly dismissed the objection related to the undue and direct questioning of the Public Protector by members at the end of a witness' evidence but has now twice allowed members to ask their questions even before the end of cross-examination. This arbitrary application of the disputed rule shows manifest bias. It has never been explained whether, and why and when the relevant "rule" has been abandoned. This brings undue uncertainty and inherent unfairness.

45. Most significantly, the Chairperson has thrice unlawfully allowed a situation where the Committee members question a witness before his or her cross-examination is concluded or even commenced. This happened with the witnesses Van Loggerenberg, Pillay and Thejane, respectively. Apart from the inherent unfairness of this procedure, it is in direct contravention of paragraphs 6.7 to 6.9 of the Directives which make it clear that the Evidence Leaders must ask the witness questions, followed by cross-examination by the Public Protector and only "thereafter" shall the members pose questions, if any.

46. The related refusal to afford the Public Protector the right similar to the Evidence Leaders, to ask questions arising out of the questions asked by the members and/or the Chairperson in terms of Rule 6.16 represents an incurable and irreversible taint of bias to the proceedings. To continue without having addressed this issue will only be a waste of time and resources.

47. Finally in this regard, the conduct of the Chairperson on 8 August 2022 in allowing, despite the emphatic and repeated objections of the Public Protector, the Evidence Leaders to cross-examine Mr Thembinkosi Muntu Sithole, a witness called and prepared by the Evidence Leaders was the most egregious violation of the Directives.

48. The Chairperson's ruling to the effect that the questioning did not amount to cross-examination cannot withstand any objective scrutiny. It was also correctly refuted by the witness himself who is a qualified attorney and whose evidence was credible, balanced and exemplary.

B7: Seventh Ground: Rulings related to the concept of relevance

49. This ground relates to the skewed and unfair application and abuse of the Chairperson's powers conferred in terms of Clauses 6.1 and 8 of the Directives.

50. This has resulted in the calling of several witnesses whose evidence is irrelevant and related to human resources grievances which have no bearing on the charges (on any version thereof).

51. The Chairperson's refrain that these rulings will be revisited at the time of deliberation are inappropriate and highly prejudicial to the Public Protector.

52. The said breach has resulted in the calling of 15 mostly irrelevant witnesses and the conversion of the enquiry into the CCMA or the labour desk of the Office of the Public Protector.

53. A particular egregious example of the misapplication of the relevance rules occurred on 5 August 2022 when the Public Protector raised the valid objection that members should not be permitted to asks irrelevant questions in respect of the very question with which the Committee is seized, namely whether or not the Public Protector is guilty of misconduct.

54. The Chairperson's response which was repeated afterwards, was to the effect that the members "may ask any questions that they deem fit" and do so "in any manner which they may deem fit". This is clear breach of the relevance rule but more seriously an unlawful abdication by the Chairperson of his lawful role and duties to control the proceedings.

55. It has been conclusively established that the Public Protector had no involvement in the payment and/or approval of attorneys' invoices. It has been also established that she did not necessarily and directly prescribed which advocates would be engaged by the attorney. There were at least 7 alternative ways in which advocates were engaged on behalf of PPSA.

56. In spite of the above and despite valid objections based on privacy and relevance having been raised, the Chairperson has and continues to allow the wanton display of earnings by professionals who rendered legal and related services to PPSA. The intention seems to embarrass members of the present legal team representing the Public Protector. In pursuit thereof inaccurate and misleading figures have been allowed to be bandied about in the public domain. For example, the total figure of R48 million spent over a period of 5 to 6 years is portrayed as current expenditure. The Evidence Leaders have also stated that Seanego Attorneys was paid R49 million which is false. The correct figure is below R40 million, of which only about R10 million (less VAT) over a period of 5 years was earned by Seanego Attorneys and the balance was paid out to a number of senior and junior advocates handling the relevant briefs and depending on the size and duration thereof.

57. The root cause of all this malicious misinformation is the Chairperson's refusal to exclude irrelevant "evidence" even when the nature of the prejudice has been sufficiently explained to him.

B8: Eighth Ground: Previous utterances made by the Chairperson prejudging the issues

58. It has also been brought to the attention of the legal team that the Chairperson has actually made express statements which show conclusively that he had prejudged the crucial and relevant issue of the Public Protector's alleged incompetence.

59. We attach hereto, marked "RA3", a copy of an accurate report in which among others the Chairperson is quoted as having said in or about July 2019 to the Public Protector:-

"Here we have to budget for incompetence. I will use that word. You said you are being called incompetent and on the basis of the facts before us I think I can venture into that".

B9: Ninth Ground: Refusal to postpone on 13 September 2022 (Availability of legal representatives)

60. On the eventful day of the 13 September 2022 the Chairperson unreasonably and unfairly refused to entertain and/or grant a postponement of the proceedings despite a reasonable request based on the non-availability of the Public Protector's legal team as a result of a related emergency playing itself out in the courts.

61. The biased and unreasonable ruling on this issue resulted in gross prejudice to the Public Protector and a denial of her fairness rights.

B10: Tenth Ground: Refusal to postpone on 13 September 2022 (Temporary medical unfitness)

62. The proverbial last straw which broke the camel's back was the Chairperson's dismissal of a postponement application based on the medical condition of the Public Protector even when it was made clear that there was independent support thereof in the form of a medical certificate. A copy of the said medical certificate which was tendered, is annexed hereto and marked "RA4".

63. The refusal of the Chairperson to listen to aspects of the application and for the submission of the relevant medical evidence to the members was grossly unreasonable, unfair, insensitive, cruel and malicious.

64. This unacceptable, unlawful, unconstitutional and patriarchal conduct was only underscored by the subsequent and unilateral about-turn by the Chairperson when he (unilaterally) postponed the proceedings scheduled by him for 14 September 2022. See Annexure "RA5" hereto.

B11: Eleventh Ground: Rejection of requests by members to be consulted

65. Related to the above two grounds were numerous requests by Committee members Honourable Maotwe, Holomisa and Zungula for the Chairperson to adjourn the meeting shortly so as to allow for the consultation of Committee members, which requests were unduly rejected by the Chairperson. In the process the Chairperson ordered that Honourable Maotwe be electronically expelled and/or excluded from further participation in the enquiry.

66. Such dictatorial tendencies are clear signs of manifest bias and disqualifying impropriety on the part of the Chairperson. He is not fit to fill the position of Chairperson with the requisite levels of impartiality and ethical conduct.

B12: Twelfth Ground: Misrepresentations made in the public domain

67. In aggravation of the abovementioned misconduct the Chairperson went on to present false facts in the public domain during interviews with the Newsroom Afrika and SABC News television channels.

68. In those interviews, the Chairperson went on to call for the investigation by the Legal Practice Council of the Public Protector's legal representative merely for allegedly "threatening" him with he present application, not for the first time and which he was entitled to do. In so doing the Chairperson was merely restating the unduly hostile position adopted by the DA, Freedom Front Plus and the ANC.

69. Such conduct is clear evidence of a lack of impartiality and a negative attitude which is calculated to strip the Public Protector of her right of legal representation.

70. The grounds related to the unfortunate events of 13 September 2022 will best be articulated by making reference to the relevant transcripts and/or audio-visual evidence of the hearing held on that day and the subsequent media interviews. It is otherwise not possible to capture here the demeanour, tone and hostility exhibited by the Chairperson. Several appeals were made to him, all in vain, to refrain from shouting and to listen to what was being said to him. His reaction is summed up by his conduct in unduly ordering the muting the Public Protector's legal representative as well as one of the members who was correctly calling him to order and thereby attempting to assist him.

71. Upon any objective observation of the evidence referred to above, it ought to be self-evident that the Public Protector cannot reasonably be expected to continue with the enquiry before the role of the Chairperson is conclusively addressed, one way or the other.

C: THE RECUSAL APPLICATION IN RESPECT OF HONOURABLE MILEHAM

72. It is common cause that Honourable Mileham is the lawfully married husband or spouse of the complainant, Honourable Mazzone.

73. It is also undeniable that Honourable Mileham has consistently displayed a hostile and condescending attitude towards the legal representative of the Public Protector.

74. These issues have been previously raised with the Chairperson who failed to address them adequately.

C1: First Ground: Inherent bias based on relationship with the complainant

75. It is legally and ethically untenable to allow a person who suffers from a conflict of interest of the kind which affects Honourable Mileham, to sit in the purported impartial determination of the guilt or innocence of the Public Protector, or any other person in her current position.

76. This example demonstrates the most serious indication of a pre-determined outcome on the part of the decision maker.

C2: Second Ground: Twitter attacks on Public Protectors legal representatives

77. We attach hereto, marked "RA6", evidence of recent twitter activity on the part of Honourable Mileham making gratuitous unsolicited and unwarranted attacks on lead counsel for the Public Protector.

78. Not only is this patently and grossly inappropriate but the content of the exchanges contains evidence of a poisoned and biased mind. It is impossible to expect Honourable Mileham to bring a neutral mind to the decision making table.

C3: Aggravating factors: Association with public statements of the DA Leader

79. Although these factors affect other members of the DA, it provides aggravation in the case of Honourable Mileham when read in conjunction with his other conduct.

80. Firstly, it is now well documented that the DA Leader John Steenhuisen stated on national television that members of the DA were popping champagne at the news of the unlawful, biased and improper subpoena of the Public Protector by the President on 9 June 2022.

81. More recently, the DA has committed gross misconduct by attaching witness statements in the section 194 Committee to court papers. More seriously the DA also attached the Public Protector's confidential witness list which was only rendered to the Chairperson of the Committee. This has resulted in the predictable reluctance of some of the potential witnesses to assist the Committee. This will result in irreversible prejudice to the Public Protector.

D: APPLICABLE AND RELEVANT PRINCIPLES

82. In this section we briefly outline some selected and well-established principles which are applicable to recusal applications and on which reliance will be placed to support the recusal application in this and any other appropriate forum.

83. Bias can be classified into actual bias and a reasonable apprehension of bias on the part of the affected party, in this case the Public Protector. Although it sometimes happens that actual bias is proved, the majority of cases involve a reasonable suspicion or apprehension of bias, which has the same legal effect as actual bias.

84. Recusal applications must not be brought lightly. While it is legally permissible for legal practitioners to bring and/or to threaten to bring recusal applications, they must do so, as in the present case, as a matter of last resort and only once the situation truly becomes untenable. In the very recent case of Bennett v the State[1] the following was correctly stated:

> "More and more recusal applications are brought as a tactical device or simply because the litigant does not like the outcome of an interim order made during the course of the trial. The seeming alacrity with which legal practitioners bring or threaten to bring recusal applications is cause for concern. The recusal of a presiding officer, whether it be a magistrate or a judge, should not become standard equipment in a litigant's arsenal, but should be exercised for its true intended objective, which is to secure a fair trial in the interests of justice in order to maintain both the integrity of the courts and the position they ought to hold in the minds of the people whom they serve".

85. The following pronouncement by Ngcobo CJ sitting in the Constitutional Court[2] which is relevant against both the Chairperson but more directly to Honourable Mileham, demonstrates that to continue to sit under the circumstances described above is a breach of the Constitution:

[1] Bennet v The State 2021 (2) SA 439 (GJ) at paragraph [113]
[2] Bernert v Absa Bank 2011 (3) SA 92 (CC) at paragraph [28]

"The apprehension of bias may arise from the association or interest that the judicial officer has in one of the litigants or in the outcome of the case. Or it may also arise from conduct or utterances by a judicial officer prior to or during (the) proceedings. In all these situations a judicial officer must ordinarily recuse himself or herself. The apprehension of bias principle reflects the fundamental principle that courts must be independent and impartial."

86. In this regard it must be added that enmity and/or hostility towards a party also constitutes sufficient reason for recusal.

87. Where the presiding officer has communication with either party in the absence of the other party in relation to issues directly affecting that other party, this also constitutes a good ground for recusal.

88. Whereas in the present case, the presiding officer has heard inadmissible evidence and is unable to disabuse his mind of the effect of what was heard, he or she ought to recuse himself or herself.

89. In contrast to the televised conduct of Honourable Dyantyi and Mileham, the propriety of a party's legal representative's motives in bringing a recusal application or other objections, should not be lightly questioned. The gratuitous suggestion of misconduct on the part of such representatives is a ground for recusal by its maker. Judge Kotze in State v Bam[3] put it like this:

[3] 1972 (4) SA 41 (E) at 43H-44A

"It should always be borne in mind that an accused or his representative, who finds it necessary to apply for the recusal of a judicial officer is confronted with an unenviable task and the propriety of his motives should not be lightly questioned. The proceedings in the magistrates court are set aside."

90. Another crucial dilemma is usually whether to bring the application as soon as possible or to wait until an adverse outcome before raising the issue of recusal. The better view was articulated by the Constitutional Court as follows:-

"It is not in the interests of justice to permit a litigant, where that litigant has knowledge of all the facts upon which recusal is sought, to wait until an adverse judgment before raising the issue of recusal. Litigation must be brought to finality as speedily as possible. It is undesirable to cause parties to litigation to live with the uncertainty that, after the outcome of the case is known, there is a possibility that litigation may be commenced afresh, because a late application for recusal which should have been brought earlier. To do otherwise would undermine the administration of justice."[4]

91. Finally, it is important to note that the High Court will intervene in unfinished proceedings if grave justice would otherwise result or where justice may not be obtained by other alternative means.

[4] Per Ngcobo CJ in the Bernert case (supra), at paragraph [75]

E: CONCLUSION AND RELIEF SOUGHT

92. Applying these and other related well-established principles which will be expanded upon during the oral presentation of the application, it seems self-evident that the present circumstances present multiple grounds and bases for the recusal application to be granted upon any one or more or all of the grounds which cannot be refuted on the common cause facts. Whether or not actual bias exists is immaterial. What cannot be denied is that there is sufficient objective upon which a reasonable person in the position of the Public Protector may perceive, apprehend and/or suspect bias on the part of the identified persons.

93. The application must accordingly be granted. In the present circumstances of multiple and material grounds going to the root of the fairness of the proceedings, it would be both untenable and undesirable to simply brush off these grave concerns and happened. That would mount to a serious violation of the rights conferred by the Directives, the Rules of the National Assembly, the applicable legislation and more importantly the rights and values enshrined in the South African Constitution.

94. In the circumstances, the relief sought must be granted.

5.8. As confirmed in paragraph [45] of the Speaker of the National Assembly v Public Protector and Others; Democratic Alliance v Public Protector and Others [2022] ZACC 1, a legal representative cannot give evidence on behalf of Adv Mkhwebane.

5.9. A Member of the Committee, either directly, or through the Evidence Leaders, may ask Adv Mkhwebane directly to respond to certain questions posed orally, or in writing, including factual disputes that may arise, even if she is not at that time giving evidence. Adv Mkhwebane must respond to such questions immediately, unless she requests a reasonable period of time within which to submit a response, in which case the Chairperson shall determine that reasonable time frame, and must have due regard to any request made by Adv Mkhwebane in this regard and the Chairperson's duty to ensure that the Committee is able to properly fulfil its mandate and carry out its oversight function. All such answers must be made under oath or affirmation as provided for in the Powers Act.

6.12 Members shall not, for purposes of the hearing, make speeches, or present argument to the Committee, but shall limit their questions to establishing facts in respect of the grounds of incompetence and/or misconduct set out in the Motion. Such arguments and speeches may form part of and may be reserved for the later deliberations of the Committee.

6.13 A member shall address the witness in question for no more than five minutes in total; provided that the Chairperson may, on good cause shown, grant a member an extension of up to three additional minutes.

6.14 Notwithstanding clause 6.13, a member posing questions shall only be afforded one opportunity to address questions to a witness, irrespective of whether that opportunity utilises the member's full-time allocation; provided that the Chairperson may, on good cause shown, grant a member one additional opportunity to address a follow-up question or a question of clarity to a witness.

6.15 If a dispute arises, the Chairperson's determination of whether a particular member has exhausted his or her permitted time, or complied with this Procedure, shall be final.

6.17 In relation to any witnesses called by the Public Protector, the Evidence Leaders may put any questions, relevant to the grounds in the Motion, to such witness, subject to any reasonable restrictions, including time restrictions, the Chairperson may impose.

8.2. In the event there is any objection as to relevance of evidence the Chairperson shall make an immediate determination as to the admissibility thereof. The Chairperson may make a provisional determination that the question and/or evidence and/or submission is relevant and, once the Committee has heard the evidence in full and closing arguments, if any, the Committee in its deliberation may make a final determination regarding such evidence and/or submission and indicate whether in its report whether

'We can’t please everyone,' Mkhwebane tells MPs at fiery meeting

Public protector Busisiwe Mkhwebane says her decisions can’t please everyone. Image: SANDILE NDLOVU

Public Protector Busisiwe Mkhwebane has told parliament that no matter what her office did, someone would be unhappy.

She said every person in the republic had their own ideas as to how the public protector's work should be done.

“If we take decisions they do not like, we are incompetent, biased, involved in political factionalism and not fit for office. It is almost as though everyone is a public protector in their own right.

"We can’t please everyone. We can only do our best,” she said.

was there to table the annual performance plan and her office's budget plans.

During her appearance she also complained about ministers who attacked her office and her person by accusing her of venturing into politics.

She said the reality was that some of her office's decisions would not go down well with some of the affected parties, but such parties have recourse in that they can approach a court of law to have the decisions reviewed - and many had done that.

“But we find that this process is severely misunderstood.

“There are certain quarters in society who seem to believe that to have a report taken on review is an indication of ineptitude on the part of the author of the report concerned. It gets worse if that report is eventually reviewed and set aside by the courts,” she said.

She repeated an argument she's previously made that court decisions are appealed successfully all the time.

“Strangely, when this happens, we never hear the high courts being accused of a lot of things we have been criticised for.

“We have taken it upon ourselves to continuously explain to detractors, hoping that one day we will all see things from the same perspective,” she said.

The meeting got heated as MPs discussed her contribution, with the ANC's Richard Dyantyi criticising her for raising “irrelevant” issues.

“This which you have just presented is a presentation of a public protector who is very angry and aggrieved.... Basically, who is raising issues that don't necessarily live in this committee; they should not be here,” he said while suggesting that Mkhwebane could have addressed her grievances in a press statement, not in parliament.

“I was disappointed that more than seven slides [as part of her presentation] ... where you were really offloading the kind of disappointment that you have, and I thought that was irrelevant to be honest,” he added.

Dyantyi also attacked the office for what he called “budgeting for incompetence”.

He said an increase in legal fees had to do with the quality of the reports, which are taken on review and set aside.

“Here we have to budget for incompetence. I will use that word. You've said you are being called incompetent and on the basis of facts and evidence before us, I think I can venture into that,” he said.

But EFF MP Mbuyiseni Ndlozi begged to differ.

He praised Mkhwebane for “admirable” service to the country and “very competent” work of her office. Ndlozi literally applauded at the end of Mkhwebane's address.

He objected to other MPs who questioned Mkhwebane about her reports, some of her recommendations and the processes she followed, saying this was abuse of power.

“It's wrong for MPs, who were colleagues of ministers [Pravin Gordhan and Gwede Mantashe] to come here and want to subject the reports of the public protector to a review. That's what they are doing,” he warned.

“Now she must come here and explain her reports; details of her reports, many of which are in front of the courts...”

to court for a judicial review, ask MPs to question Mkhwebane about her reports.

"It is wrong and an abuse of power to come here and subject this office to have to explain itself in relation to reports it releases about your colleagues in parliament," he added.

Mkhwebane explained that she raised the issues because the MPs were

So it's okay for all political parties (representing the people of SA) to agree on rules of conduct in parliament, and then for Adv. Mpofu to come in and tramp on those rules? Just like the court room, there is expected behavior, and again, he ignores that at his peril.

I haven't made up my mind on Adv. Mkhwebane's fitness to hold office yet. Adv. Mpofu is rude, disrespectful and unwilling to accept the rules of Parliament. I will continue to stand up fo the rights of witnesses and our right as MPs to ask whatever we like.

As for expecting him to "bow down" to me: No. Just no.

I do, however, expect him to follow the rules of Parliament & the decorum of the house.

I have called him by his title. I have asked respectful questions. I have observed the rulings of the chair.
Unlike Adv. Mpofu, who saw fit to tell me to shut up and called me by my surname.

Hmm. No. I don't need any validation. I do expect that Adv. Mpofu treat parliament, its rules & members with respect. That he obeys the rulings of the chair & doesn't talk over other people or scream abuse when he doesn't get his way & that witnesses are given respect & dignity.
