GENERAL INFORMATION

Background And Legislative Mandate

The Film and Publication Board (FPB) derives its mandate from the Films and Publications Act (Act 65, 1996), amended in 2004 & 2009. The Act is the enabling legislative framework and thus outlines the key functions, powers and duties as conferred to the Board. Through the above mentioned legislation, the FPB is mandated to regulate the creation, production, possession and distribution of films, games and certain publications in order to:

- Provide consumer advice that will enable adults to make informed viewing, reading and gaming choices – both for themselves and for children in their care.
- Protect children from exposure to disturbing and harmful materials and from premature exposure to adult experiences.
- Make punishable the use of children in pornography or exposure thereto.

The onus is thus on the FPB to develop policies, procedures and processes which will ensure successful execution of the Act's objectives.

In pursuit of these key outcomes and objectives, the organisation also plays a significant leadership role running its flagship project, the Campaign Against Child Pornography.

The FPB further contributes towards the implementation of the National Crime Prevention Strategy; which is part of a multi-sectoral strategic approach and is carried out through partnerships with the South African Police Services (SAPS) and other crime fighting agencies. To inform its strategic direction and address issues pertinent to the industry, the FPB periodically commissions research exploring mainly compliance, trends analysis; as well as levels of social tolerance to the nature and content of products offered by the industry.

FPB Vision and Mission

The FPB strategy sets out a bold and ambitious vision as well as a long term challenge for the organisation and all involved in delivering services as per the mandate. The above vision and mission statements capture the essence of the FPB's strategic direction and purpose. To this end, by 2014, the FPB intends to have optimised performance with regard to its existing core mission while being better poised to tackle the ever evolving challenges of new media.

FPB Values

The FPB embraces the Batho Pele principles of government as the core values of the organisation, which must be observed at all times and demonstrated by all employees in all its engagements with both internal and external stakeholders. The principles are summarised as follows:

- Consultation - there are many ways to consult users of services including conducting customer surveys, interviews with individual users, consultation with groups, and holding meetings with consumer representative bodies, NGOs and CBOs. Often, more than one method of consultation will be necessary to ensure comprehensiveness and representativeness.

- Setting service standards - this principle reinforces the need for benchmarks to constantly measure the extent to which citizens are satisfied with the service or products they receive from state institutions, the Film and Publication Board in this case. It also plays a critical role in the development of service delivery improvement plans to ensure a better life for all South Africans. Citizens should be involved in the development of service standards.
- Increasing access - one of the prime aims of Batho Pele is to provide a framework for making decisions about delivering public services to the many South Africans who do not have access to them. Batho Pele also aims to rectify the inequalities in the distribution of existing services. Examples of initiatives by government to improve access to services include such platforms as the Gateway, Multi-Purpose Community Centres and Call Centres. Access to information and services empowers citizens and creates value for money, quality services. It reduces unnecessary expenditure for the citizens.
- Ensuring courtesy - this goes beyond a polite smile, 'please' and 'thank you'. It requires service providers to empathize with the citizens and treat them with as much consideration and respect, as they would like for themselves.
- Providing information - as a requirement, available information about services should be at the point of delivery, but for users who are far from the point of delivery, other arrangements will be needed. In line with the definition of customer in this document, managers and employees should regularly seek to make information about the organisation, and all other service delivery related matters available to fellow staff members.

- Openness and transparency - a key aspect of openness and transparency is that the public should know more about the way national, provincial and local government institutions operate, how well they utilise the resources they consume, and who is in charge. It is anticipated that the public will take advantage of this principle and make suggestions for improvement of service delivery mechanisms, and to even make government employees accountable and responsible by raising queries with them.
- Redress - this principle emphasises a need to identify quickly and accurately when services are falling below the promised standard and to have procedures in place to remedy the situation. This should be done at the individual transactional level with the public, as well as at the organisational level, in relation to the entire service delivery programme. Public servants are encouraged to welcome complaints as an opportunity to improve service, and to deal with complaints so that weaknesses can be remedied quickly for the good of the citizen.

MINISTER'S STATEMENT

Ms. N. Pandor
MINISTER OF HOME AFFAIRS

I am pleased to present the Film and Publications Board's annual report for the 2012/13 financial year. It has been an exciting year for the organisation, with the finalisation and gazetting of the Classification Guidelines, the storm surrounding 'The Spear', and the licensing of TopTV reinforcing the need to protect children from access to dangerous visual material. The Classification Guidelines are an important tool in a conversation over the type of images our society finds acceptable. The FPB undertook extensive public consultation on these Guidelines and I was pleased to approve the revised Guidelines for implementation this year. Members of the public should now be familiar with the new age restrictions that have been introduced.

The uproar over artist Brett Murray's controversial painting entitled, 'The Spear' has brought to the fore the need for the FPB to be innovative in its review of public expression. Although the FPB classification of 'The Spear' was overturned by the Appeals Tribunal (an independent Tribunal of the FPB), it reinforced the importance of the FPB's overview of visual images.

The Independent Communications Authority of South Africa recently granted a license to TopTV to broadcast pornography. Currently, broadcasters have separate jurisdiction under the auspices of ICASA and the Broadcasting Complaints Commission of South Africa. This has previously not been an issue, but with technology convergence these regulators as well as members of the public need to have constructive dialogue on how we can have uniform content regulatory mechanisms without removing the guaranteed independence of content creators as well as our broadcasting services.

I wish to thank the FPB Council and staff for their hard work and dedication. Indeed, with a mandate such as child protection, focus needs not only to be on regulation, but also on the role of advocacy and consumer education. May you continue rising to the challenge of ensuring that South Africa's children are protected from premature exposure to harmful material.

DEPUTY MINISTER'S STATEMENT

The Executive Authority of the FPB is pleased to present the Annual Report for the 2012/13 financial year. The year under review has been an interesting one, requiring a great deal of reflection by the organisation on how best to classify media content in the country. Great strides have been made in better regulating physical media platforms. Our focus tuned to online media. This it is felt is particularly important if we are to secure greater protection of children from unsuitable harmful content.

In the year under review, the Ministry was pleased to participate in the review and approval of the Classification Guidelines of the FPB. The organisation has now presented to the industry the introduction of more specific age categories containing additional consumer advisories for sensitive viewers. We will be monitoring with keen interest acceptance of the new guidelines through assessment of the number of appeals received , and analysing the results from the annual convergence surveys conducted by the institution. In the year under review, there is a recorded 74% convergence between the Classification decisions of the FPB, and the values and norms of those surveyed. It is our intention to have these numbers increase as our classification decisions and guidelines are meant to be representative of the values and norms of South Africans across the spectrum.

Ms. F. Cohan
DEPUTY MINISTER OF HOME AFFAIRS

The Ministry has been watching with a keen interest has been the review of the FPB legislation to ensure it is technologically neutral and adequately responds to the changes in the industry. These changes include the shift of content distribution from cinema and DVD to digital and online media. The legislative review was also brought about by the Constitutional Court judgement impacting on the regulation of publications by the FPB. As the Executive Authority, we have received the legislative review report and are currently considering amendments to the current Films and Publications Act and will be consulting members of the public as part of the legislative processes

In pursuit of enhanced public awareness of the mandate of the FPB, the organisation has embarked on a number of outreach and awareness campaigns aimed both at school children and parents across the country. Illicit content is becoming increasingly prominent in our society and it is vital for institutions such as the FPB to effectively educate the public on the impact that constant exposure to such content can have on an individual.

Greater consumer education will enable better compliance within communities and homes. The Ministry will continue to provide the necessary support and presence through these FPB campaigns.

Allow me to express thanks to the Council and Staff of the FPB on the sterling work being done in pursuance of the mandate of the institution.

CHAIRPERSON'S FOREWORD AND CORPORATE GOVERNANCE REPORT

Introduction

The Film and Publication Board (FPB) is a public entity established in terms of the Films and Publications Act, Act No 65 of 1996, as amended, and reports to the Department of Home Affairs as its Executive Authority. The FPB's mandate is to regulate the distribution of films, games and certain publications in the country. At the heart of the FPB's mandate as stipulated in the Act is the protection of children against premature exposure to adult experiences and harmful materials, particularly films, games and publications. Furthermore, the Act makes the use of children in pornography a punishable offence, which is the message we constantly strive to communicate to the public.

During this reporting year the FPB increased its reach to members of the public, particularly in rural communities, through outreach and awareness campaigns, with consistent messages about the potential dangers posed by the internet and access to it via mobile devices such as cell phones and other smart devices. The proliferation of digital content distribution platforms has also been a key focus of our 'Back-2-School Campaign on Cyber-safety'.

Our vast outreach and public education campaigns have contributed to putting the FPB message in the hearts and minds of South Africans and by extension, public awareness about the role and importance of age-appropriate classification of materials.

Mrs N.F.T. Mpumlwana
CHAIRPERSON OF FPB COUNCIL

Council and Committees

The FPB Council was established in terms of Section 3(1) of the Act and is the Accounting Authority in terms of Section 49(1) and (2)(a) of the Public Finance Management Act. The Council reports on the FPB's performance to the Executive Authority in terms of Section 4A(1) of this Act. The FPB Council, its Committees and the Appeals Tribunal are still fully constituted and have been effective in carrying out their respective mandates.

The following is a brief outline of the activities of the Council and its Committees for this reporting year.

Council

The Council reviewed the FPB Classification Guidelines and held a successful stakeholder workshop to consolidate submissions into the review process. The final revised Guidelines were gazetted on 8 October 2012. It is noteworthy that there has been great industry acceptance of the new guidelines, resulting in fewer appeals against classification decisions to date.

The respective reviews of the Films and Publications Act and the Regulations have been completed. The draft Films and Publications Amendment Bill is currently under review by the Executive Authority, and the draft Regulations are with the State Law Advisors.

Audit and Risk Committee

The Audit and Risk Committee, being the 'conscience' of the Council, continues to play a pivotal role in ensuring general compliance with the Council's regulatory obligations. The Committee has been rigorous in ensuring that it adheres to sound financial controls and mitigation of risks. Through the Committee's efforts, the FPB has continuously received confirmation and assurance that it is fully compliant with the provisions laid out in the Public Finance Management Act.

Chairpersons Committee

This Committee, comprising Chairpersons of all Council Committees, has the responsibility of attending to urgent corporate governance matters in between Council meetings. The Committee was instrumental in timeously responding to the furore that followed the classification of the infamous 'The Spear' painting. The greatest realisation the FPB gained out of this experience was that the Board is still regarded by various sections of the South African community as a censor. This unfortunate view is still prevalent despite our overreaching public awareness and education campaigns.

Finance Committee

The Finance Committee is one of the most important Council Committees as it ensures that the organisation is financially sound. The vigour with which the Committee scrutinises the financial statements and ensures accurate financial reporting is highly valued. During the year under review, the Finance Committee held four (4) meetings in line with the Annual Council Schedule and one special meeting to approve the Audited Annual Financial Statements.

The Film and Publication Board has over spent by 9.7% against its actual revenue during the 2012 – 2013 financial year. The deficit is as a result of additional outreach program on the revived classification guidelines that took place in the last quarter of the financial year. Costs saving measures are to be put in place in the 2013 – 2014 financial year to move from the unfavourable results to a surplus.

Under collection on the projected revenue from classification and registration fees contributed to the deficit. Other additional revenue generating streams are to be exploited in the coming financial years.

Human Resources and Remuneration Committee

The Human Resources (HR) and Remuneration Committee is primarily responsible for the human capital management policy and all related aspects. During this reporting year the Committee held all four scheduled meetings and one special meeting. The Committee reviewed no less than 19 HR policies and ensured they were appropriately updated and aligned to the legal framework; more specifically, the Labour Relations-, Employment Equity- and Basic Conditions of Service Acts. The Committee oversaw the recruitment of the Shared Services Executive and the Chief Operations Officer.

Operations and ICT Committee

The Operations and Information & Communications Technology (OPTICOM) Committee is responsible for overseeing all aspects of the organisation's strategic operations, including Classification, Registrations, Compliance Monitoring, Child Protection, Communications, Research and ICT Governance. During the period under review the Committee successfully guided the processes of reviewing the legislation, Regulations and Guidelines. The Committee also facilitated the development of the Communications and Repositioning Strategy, the 3 Year Research Plan and the ICT Governance Framework.

All Governance Structures, which include Council, its Committees and the Audit and Risk Committee and Appeals Tribunal, are in good standing. They all possess a full complement of members and have held all scheduled meetings. The Appeals Tribunal has held all hearings based on the number of appeal applications received and as a matter of policy, has at all times managed to issue awards within 14 days of receipt of the appeals. It is noteworthy that since the implementation of the new Classification Guidelines, which were promulgated on 8 October 2012, there have been fewer appeals against classification decisions. In fact, there has not been a single appeal during the months of January to March 2013.

All Council members have filed their declarations of interests within the stipulated time in compliance with the Public Finance Management Act (1999) and the Public Service Act (1994), as amended.

Council members have been remunerated in accordance with National Treasury Guidelines.

Performance assessments of Council members have been conducted to test their effectiveness as a collective and as individuals. The performance of the Audit and Risk Committee was also evaluated.

An up-to-date Policy Register covering all aspects of the FPB's operations has been maintained, and policies are updated on a regular basis.

FPB uses an outsourced internal audit service, which reports to the Audit and Risk Committee. ICT governance has been incorporated into the mandate of the Operations and ICT Committee, and the Audit and Risk Committee has an overall compliance responsibility in respect of ICT governance.

Conclusion

In conclusion, may I say that although we have made strides in contributing to nation building in our small way, it has remained difficult to achieve the mind-shift required to ensure compliance with our classification ratings and, ultimately, the effective protection of children.

I would like to thank Council and Appeals Tribunal members as well as staff for their contribution and commitment in discharging the FPB mandate during this reporting year. I look forward to more energetic and resilient engagements as we implement activities outlined in our five-year strategic plan.

Finally, I would like to thank the Minister and Deputy Minister of Home Affairs for the continuous support they give to the FPB as one of its agencies.

CEO'S REMARKS

Ms. Y Makhasi
Chief Executive Officer

The Film and Publication Board is established through the Film and Publication Act 65 of 1996 (as amended) to regulate the creation, production, possession and distribution of films, games and certain publications. The main intentions of this regulatory function is to:

- Provide consumer advice that will enable adults to make informed viewing-, reading and gaming choices for themselves and their children;
- Protect children from premature exposure to adult material and other disturbing and harmful material; and
- Prevent the use of children in the creation of child pornography and their exposure to such material.

The FPB has sought to fulfil its mandate through use of the following regulatory tools:

- Registration of distributors as defined by Section 1 of the FP Act.
- Classification of material (films, games and certain publications) with clear consumer advice.
- Compliance Monitoring to ensure individual distributors comply with regulations as outlined by the FPB.
 - Consumer education, with specific focus on learners and educators in terms of the dangers posed by child pornography.

The year under review has seen significant changes in the structure of the organisation as reflected in the Turn Around Project, approved by Council in the 2011/12 financial year. Management put in place systems to ensure that there is little disruption to the work of the organisation as employees change positions within the organisational structure. This report will discuss advances made by the organisation in fulfilling its mandate, highlighting achievements as well as challenges that have been met along the way.

Regulation

Classification Guidelines

The FPB has attained a number of achievements in the regulatory arena in as far as ensuring sound regulatory framework through the review and gazetting of FPB Classification Guidelines and implementation thereof. The review of the Guidelines entailed extensive research, and public consultation. This led to changes in how the actual classification process is carried out by Classifiers, with additional age ratings provided to ensure greater clarity for consumers on which material is suitable for each age group. Gazetting of the guidelines was followed by training of Classifiers and implementation of the guidelines on 16 November 2012. Distributors were also given training on what the new age ratings mean as well as given an explanation as to how the new Classification processes would be carried out. Thus far, little or no sector resistance has been encountered. The FPB will also be rolling out an extensive media campaign in the incoming financial year with public education messaging on the new age ratings and the role of parents in ensuring adherence.

Content Classification

Content Classification is one of the tools used to regulate content through ensuring that appropriate age restrictions are provided for material submitted.

In the current year under review, the FPB was able to classify 96% of material submitted. The Classification team was unable to achieve 100% classification of all content submitted as some material is rejected due to extenuating circumstances such as the submission of faulty discs, outstanding payments, outstanding documents and incompatible formats.

The FPB also encountered a decline in the number of submissions made in the fourth quarter of the 2012/13 financial year in comparison with content submitted during the same quarter in the previous financial year. Management has already commenced quarterly trends analysis to be able to monitor reasons for declines or submission peaks at certain periods. One of the reasons could however be the steady decline in the home entertainment industry (i.e. DVD hire) as more and more consumers opt to obtain material online or through digital means such as the DSTV Box Office offers.

Although there was a slight decrease in the number of materials classified during the 2012/13 financial year, as compared to the previous year, an interesting trend was noted highlighting that DVDs top the list in the category of film formats. The 2011/2012 financial year saw a classification of 3 094 DVD submissions, 643 Theatrical submissions and 231 Blu-Ray submissions, compared with the classification of 2 061 DVDs, 576 Theatrical submissions and 165 Blu-Ray submissions in the 2012/13 financial year. Although preliminary investigations into the general decrease of submission points to industry dynamics, with the film distribution now taking a sharp curve towards digital distribution of content, DVD consumption still remains high, though this trend is being subjected to further investigations. Another notable trend was a slight increase in the number of mainstream films as compared with adult films. The previous year had recorded 2 068 adult classifications and 1 898 general classifications, while during the 2012/13 financial year, 1 703 general classifications were recorded with 1 102 adult classifications being processed.

The year 2012/13 saw a considerable reduction in the amount of appeals lodged against the Board's classification decision. During the 2011/12 financial year 14 appeals were heard by the Appeal Tribunal, whereas in 2012/13 only five appeals were heard. This significant reduction can be directly linked to training interventions that were instituted by the Board. Amongst others, this included the introduction of the mentorship programme and quality assurance. A report compiled at the end of the eight month-long mentorship programme in August 2012 highlighted significant gains and appreciation by the Classifiers in general.

Classification Interns

In the financial year under review, the FPB introduced an Internship Programme for the Classification function as well as acquiring work experience in other administrative aspects of the organisation. In the first pool of recruits, the FPB appointed nine interns for a period of one year. Guided by the organisational Internship Policy Framework, interns were gradually introduced to the Classification process as well as the administrative functions within the unit. All interns have been placed with mentors who provide professional guidance in the process of their training and personal development. Management has also introduced a structured Career Management Programme to assist the interns to carve career paths beyond the internship programme at the FPB. The Internship Programme also has a Structures Training Programme which focused on the following areas:

- Phase 1 – Constitutional Principles and Statutory Obligations, The Science of Classification, Telecoms Industry, QA Process & Report Writing and Classification Process (completed).
- Phase 2 – Assessments on Phase 1 Learnings and New Classification

Guidelines Training (due for implementation in 2013/14).

- Phase 3 – Classifiable elements and other issues as contained in the manual (due for implementation in 2013/14), Mentorship in Operations and Career Management.

Online Content Regulation

The FPB has noted the industry shift towards online content distribution and it has started investigating various innovative regulatory tools that can be adopted with a view of regulating this market. There are several tools on the market which allow self regulation making use of an approved Classification system with the regulator conducting compliance audits within the market.

The organisation further commissioned market research on the prevalence of online content distribution and consumption in the country. Indications are that even though the market is not large, there is rapid expansion and the FPB needs to have regulations and systems in place to assist with content regulation without impeding on industry expansion.

The current financial year also saw the launch of an Online Submission System to allow for electronic registration by distributors, and submission of material electronically to the FPB. This would decrease the time spent completing registration and submission forms at the FPB and allow all approval and payments to occur prior to material being delivered for the actual Classification process. The system is currently being tested within a test group of distributors on the FPB database.

Convergence with Societal Values and Norms

In the year under review, the FPB conducted surveys with 20 000 cinema patrons in Gauteng to assess whether they agree with FPB Classification standards as articulated through material they view in cinemas. Of the respondents surveyed, there was a 74% convergence between FPB ratings and what is expected by members of the public. This shows that the FPB guidelines reflect the values and norms of the majority of South Africans. The FPB will continue to roll out these surveys on an annual basis as they are an essential testing tool to ensure that what the Board is doing in terms of Classification ratings, is acceptable to the public.

Compliance Monitoring

Monitoring legislative and regulatory compliance is an essential component of the FPB mandate which is done through distributor and consumer awareness programmes, and regular visits to distributors to ensure adherence. Through the FPB Turn Around Project, FPB introduced online content monitors who assess content distributed in the online space. As this was a new function within Compliance Monitoring, online content monitoring guidelines were developed. A total of 1 373 inspections were conducted.

All in all, 207 URLs (websites) containing harmful and disturbing content were discovered and reported to the South African Police in this financial year. At this stage it is not clear how many of these were investigated as no reports have been shared with the FPB, and most of the sites are still in operation.

Legal Matters

Legal matters dealt with in the year under review led to extensive investigation by the FPB of the mandate as provided by the FP Act of 1996, leading the Board to start a review of the legislation proposing amendments to the law and its regulations.

Classification of 'The Spear'

In May 2012, the Goodman Gallery, as part of an art exhibition entitled 'Hail to the Spear' exhibited an artwork of an African male in a 'Lenin' pose, fully clothed but revealing male genitalia. The exhibition received immense media coverage and was followed by a mass protest as the male figure's facial features bore resemblance to President Jacob Zuma.

Around the same time the FPB, in terms of Section 16(1) of the Films and Publications Act, received two complaints from members of the public who said that they found the portrait in question to be offensive and pornographic.

Upon receipt of the complaints, the Board conducted an assessment to establish if there is merit in the complaint and whether it warrants a classification process in terms of Section 19 of the Films and Publications Act, Act 65 of 1996, after which the Board took a decision to initiate Classification proceedings. The Classification Committee came to a decision and classified 'The Spear' 16N on the basis that there was undue display of male genitalia and nudity on the portrait.

Subsequent to that, the Goodman Gallery took the matter on appeal to the Appeal Tribunal and the Tribunal ruled in their favour and set aside the 16N Classification decision. The Appeal Tribunal found that the Classification Committee erred and acted beyond the scope of Section 16(4)(d) of the Act by seeking to protect the right to dignity of African males and sensitive views. Although the Appeal Tribunal ruled against the FPB, the Tribunal has on the other hand reaffirmed the FPB's authority and jurisdictions over certain publications that are being distributed in the Republic of South Africa. The Tribunal also lauded the manner in which the Classification Committee conducted the entire Classification process of 'The Spear'. Most importantly the Appeal Tribunal confirmed that the FPB may reclassify 'The Spear' should the Goodman Gallery reinstate it.

Due to the immense public interest in the matter, the FPB received widespread public coverage but the public interest also extensively scrutinised the FPB processes which resulted in the Board's decision to hone processes in terms of the classification of publications, in addition to optimising communication with members of the public.

Due to the immense public interest in the matter, the FPB received widespread public coverage but the public interest also extensively scrutinised the FPB processes which resulted in the Board's decision to hone processes in terms of the classification of publications, in addition to optimising communication with members of the public.

Constitutional court judgement

On 28 September 2012, the Constitutional Court of South Africa handed down judgement in the matter between Print Media and another vs. DHA and the FPB in which the court declared Section 16, 16(2)(a) and Section 24A(2) (a) of the Films and Publications Act constitutionally invalid to the extent that they do not apply to magazines. Prior to the judgement, Section 16 exempted newspapers falling under the press ombudsman, to the exclusion of magazines, falling under the same body from the regulatory authority of the FPB. As a result magazines were forced to submit their publications to the FPB for prepublication classification. The duty to submit applied to all magazines regardless of form or content. Failure to submit constituted a criminal offence in terms of Section 24A (2) (a) of the Films and Publications Act. This allegedly unfairly discriminated against certain mainstream magazines that were known for publishing similar content as mainstream newspapers.

The Constitutional Court has now brought drastic changes to the Section 16 publications regime. Magazines are now afforded the same status as newspapers provided that they, too, are subject to the regulation of the Press Ombudsman. All other newspapers not falling under the Press Ombudsman are, notwithstanding the judgement, still required to submit their materials to the FPB for pre-publication Classification, provided that the publications in question advocate harm, hate speech or propaganda for war. Sexual conduct in a publication is no longer one of the elements that trigger the duty to submit material to the FPB for pre-publication Classification. However, post classification, the FPB may, on the basis of a complaint from a member of the public that a publication that has sexual conduct, is found to be offensive, classify such a publication and impose distribution conditions.

Similarly to the 'Spear' Award, as it is dubbed, there are also positives arising from this judgement for the FPB. For instance, the court has now made it clear that the exemption granted to newspapers and magazines is only in relation to the duty to submit material to the FPB for Classification and does not extend to the application of certain sections such as Section 24A, 24B and 24C that criminalises the distribution of pornography outside adult premises.

As indicated above, the two cases impact significantly on the mandate of the FPB. To this end, the FPB has put certain measures in place to implement some of the lessons learned from the 'Spear' Award and to align its process to be consistent with the Constitutional Court judgement.

Legislative Review

The judgement of the constitutional court aforementioned and the 'Spear' Award highlighted some of the gaps in our legislation which necessitated legislative amendments. Furthermore, the migration of content from physical to digital platforms and the convergence of distribution platforms due to technological advancements also made it peremptory for the FPB to consider reviewing its legislation to ensure that it reflects current societal norms and values.

Against this backdrop the FPB appointed two consultants to conduct a study on content regulation with a view to identify further gaps in our legislations in the year 2012/2013. These studies became a precursor to the subsequent legislative review that was conducted by a Team appointed by the FPB. The Team consisted of Prof. Van Rooyen, Chair person of the BCCSA, core author of the 2009 Films and Publications Amendment Act, Adv. Chetty, author of the 1996 Films and Publications Act, former Head of Legal of the Film and Publication Board; and Adv. Mayosi, a practicing advocate from Cape Town.

The Team has since completed its work, compiled a report and drafted the Films and Publications Act Amendment Bill. The report and draft have since been shared with the Minister of Home Affairs and is currently with the DHA legal department with a view of taking the Bill through the parliamentary process.

Communications and Public Education

Public Education Campaigns

The year under review has been an exciting yet challenging year for the Board's Communications and Public Education Campaigns. The campaigns against child-pornography and cyber-safety have grown to involve new and exciting partners, thereby enhancing the work of the FPB.

The Board intensified its work in creating awareness amongst learners and educators and at the same time. The FPB's rural presence was increased in all nine provinces of the Republic of South Africa, and rural schools and communities were targeted in its education on cyber-safety and child-pornography.

The Board has, over the period under review, partnered with numerous non-governmental organisations including religious groups as well as youth and women's groups in various parts of country in order to improve their reach and messaging to communities. Over the 2012/13 period the Outreach of the FPB has reached all nine provinces and over half a million people through partnerships and programmes. Many of the people were reached through school visits, workshops, public or national events as well as electronic media and social networks.

Media Relations

The period under review was in all likelihood the busiest in terms of media relations since the establishment of the Film and Publication Board in 1996. The furore which surrounded the classification of Brett Murray's artwork, entitled 'The Spear', led to unprecedented media interest and coverage of the FPB by both national and international media.

It must be noted that the FPB has over the last two financial years recorded significant growth in media coverage and presence but not to the extent to which the above debacle catapulted the FPB into the spotlight.

A thorough analysis of media coverage over the period reflected that a majority of the coverage was neutral and reported on developments without prejudice whilst there were some limited negative reports noted that were potentially harmful to the FPB brand and image.

Regardless, the FPB achieved media coverage for the period under review with an estimated advertising value of R 59 million and an exposure to over two billion people via national and international online, electronic and print media platforms. FPB's media relations are positive and continue to improve, with regular media enquiries and feeds attended to timeously.

People Issues

The FPB underwent extensive change in organisational structure as per recommendations of the Turn Around Project. The Turn Around structure recommended a new business model which required a new structure which was approved by Council when the project's recommendations were presented. A significant component of the Film and Publication Board's Turnaround Structure was implemented (88% of appointments concluded), including the full implementation of the Assistant Manager / Specialist level in the structure. This level provides the basis for the implementation of the organisations succession planning framework that has been identified as a key deliverable for the 2013/14 review period.

In addition the implementation of the FPB Turnaround Structure has addressed strategic issues such as the creation of new work units (Risk, Client Support and Research, Policy and Advocacy) and the expansion of capacity in existing work units (for example, Communications and Public Education, Human Resources and Operations). These structural developments are crucial to the achievement of the goals and objectives outlined in the FPB Turnaround Strategy and Implementation Plan.

Migration to the Turnaround Structure has further involved an extensive internal and external recruitment exercise over the reporting period and the FPB is pleased to announce that 51% of the posts filled in the Turnaround Structure consist of internal staff appointments. This migration process was supported by a competency assessment intervention and has consequently provided an important development opportunity for a significant number of staff members. The final phase of the Turnaround Structure Implementation Plan is scheduled for completion in the first quarter of the 2013/14 financial year.

During the course of the 2012/13 review period the FPB was active in developing an appropriate Remuneration policy and analysis to support the Turnaround Structure Implementation and processes. To this end a Recognition and Reward Policy and Remuneration Scales were developed, and a Pay Analysis exercise was conducted.

Concurrent with the implementation of the Turnaround Strategy the FPB also successfully implemented a pilot change management project focusing on the Operations Division Classification Unit as a core business intervention. This project served to highlight essential organisational issues relating to implementation of the strategy and the learning from this process will be incorporated into a broader change management programme for the new financial year.

In further support of the Turnaround Strategy, the FPB implemented an Emotional Intelligence and Strategic Leadership training intervention which was attended by all Executive, Senior and Assistant Manager / Specialist level staff members. This training equipped the new Assistant Management level with the competence to lead within their units as well as have the emotional intelligence to deal with often-challenging situations an individual may encounter within the course of their duties.

Skills Development

For the 2012/13 reporting period the FPB invested a total of R739 189 (equivalent to 209 training days) in individual and team-based skills training and development. A further R156 230 was invested in employee part-time educational assistance and four staff members were assisted. This translates to an average development cost of R12 700 per employee (three training days per employee) for the reporting period. Future skills development planning will now be conducted within the context of the succession planning framework and the needs identified through the performance management process.

Employee Wellness

A new Employee Wellness Service Provider was appointed to coordinate the wellness programme. A call centre facility has been set up, and the service provider has overseen the compulsory wellness debriefing sessions in the Classification and Compliance units – for staff dealing with disturbing materials or work activities that may be traumatic. With the move to the new offices last year the FPB has also re-implemented the Health and Safety function and conducted regular inspections of the new office environment.

For the reporting period the FPB maintained a Sick Leave / Absenteeism rate of 1.44% against the target that sick days are within 2% of days worked.

Labour Relations

The FPB dealt with a total of six grievances lodged during the reporting period. These ranged from matters relating to terms and conditions of employment through to interpersonal conflict issues. Five cases were referred to the CCMA dealing with matters of contract expiry, non selection to Turnaround structure posts and breach of contract. Further details on misconduct and grievances are contained in the HR Annual Report Section – see Labour Relations Section.

Risk Management

The FPB had since appointed a Risk Management Service Provider to provide specialised Risk Management services. This option was recommended to allow the organisation to seek external expertise where necessary on Risk Management and still have an in-house resource to oversee and monitor implementation of Risk Management processes within the organisation.

Risk Management Process

The Risk Management Framework, Risk Management Policy and Enterprise Risk Management Strategic Plan were developed and approved by Council. These Risk Management documents provide a structured and coherent approach to identifying, assessing and managing risk in the organisation. A process for regularly updating and reviewing the risk assessment based on new developments or actions taken, has been built in to the documents. Furthermore, these documents have reinforced the importance of Risk Management as an integral function of FPB employees and provides the assurance to Senior Management and employees that they are making every effort to reduce / eliminate risks of not achieving strategic objectives.

In terms of the Enterprise Risk Management Strategic Plan, all but two projects were implemented for the period under review. These projects are the Risk Maturity Assessment Level and the Combined Assurance Model. These projects require the services of an independent body that can be objective and can exercise independence and provide better results for improvement of Risk Management processes and Compliance Management in the organisation.

Approval was sought to appoint the Internal Audit Service Provider to perform these projects. It is anticipated that the projects will be finalised by end of the first quarter of the 2013/2014 reporting year as these were included in the 2013/2014 Risk Management Annual Plan.

An annual risk assessment workshop was held on 23 April 2012. The objective of this workshop was to update the existing Strategic and Operational Risk Registers, assess any emerging risks and prioritise the risks that need to be managed in order to achieve the strategic objectives of the FPB for the 2012/13 financial year. Monthly and Quarterly Progress Reports were presented and tabled at Exco, Manco, Audit and Risk Committee and Council for further discussion. The Risk Management Dashboard was then developed to indicate the organisational risk profile.

In entrenching risk compliance, Awareness sessions were held with staff and Classifiers in November 2012 and March 2013 respectively.

Fraud Prevention

As required, the Fraud Prevention Plan is in place. The FPB convened an Awareness workshop on promotion of ethical behaviour and fraud prevention in February 2013. The aim of the workshop was to create awareness amongst FPB employees/officials on vital issues related to conflict of interests, fraud, ethics, values and professionalism in the workplace. The message on how to report fraud and any corrupt related activities was also communicated to staff.

Business Continuity Management

Business Continuity Management and Disaster Recovery plans were developed and approved and are ready for implementation. The appointment of the Crisis Management Team as well as the Business Recovery Team has also been finalised.

Compliance Management Matrix

This document is derived from various legislation including the FP Act, the PFMA, the Constitution, the BCEA, the Electronic Communication Act, the Intergovernmental Relations Framework Act, the Labour Relation Act, the OHS Act, PPPFA and PAIA. The Matrix stipulates compliance actions that the organisation is required to perform with timelines and responsible individuals. The Compliance Matrix was reviewed to include current controls, future actions and evidence columns to ensure that the document adds value to the organisation. The status of compliance was fairly accepted by Council during the reporting period.

Internal Audit Services

The Film and Publication Board had since appointed the Internal Audit Service Provider to provide specialised Internal Audit Services. This option was recommended to allow the organisation to have an independent body and also to comply with the PFMA. The Internal Audit exists to evaluate internal controls and to ensure their adequacy. The following audits were performed namely, Performance Information Audit, Governance and Compliance Audit, Human Capital Management Audit, Supply Chain and Expenditure Management Audit, Fixed Asset Management Audit, Cash Management Audit and Follow-up Audits. Action plans on the previous Audit Reports were also presented at Exco, Manco, Audit and Risk Committee and Council meetings, and were accepted.

All in all the FPB Risk Management unit has acted in fulfilment of its mandate during 2012/13 on implementation of Risk Management processes. Risks were identified through the risk assessment process, action plans for managing risks are in place and progress reports were tabled before governance structures including Council on a monthly and quarterly basis. The Fraud Prevention plan, the Risk Management framework, Risk Management Policy, Enterprise Risk Management Strategic plan, Business Continuity Management and Disaster Recovery Plans are in place and progress on implementation were presented at every meeting.

Financial trends

Grant Subsidy, Regulation Fees and Other Income

A Grant Subsidy of R69,835,000 was received from the Department of Home Affairs during the financial year. The Grant Subsidy has increased by 6% as compared with R65,458,000 received in the previous financial year. Regulation fees of R5,458,106 were generated during the financial year as compared with R6,695,615 in the previous financial year. There has been a decline in the regulation fees as result of a decline in the number of materials submitted for classification and decline in the number of new registration of movies and games distributors. One possible reason might be attributable to the move from the physical distribution platform to online distribution which the FPB does not classify currently. A study to scientifically establish the reason for the decline is to be conducted in the 2013/14 financial year. A system for registration of online distributors and classification of content distributed online is being developed for implementation in the 2013/14 financial year. The tariff structure will also be reviewed to include fees to be levied for the registration of online content distributors and classification content distributed online.

Revenue consists of the Grant Subsidy from the Department of Home Affairs, Classification fees of films, games and some publications and registration fees of new movie distributors.

Income and expenditure

Personnel and other operating expenditure

Personnel expenditure increased by 13% as a result of implementation of the turnaround strategy (88% vacancies in the new structure filled by year); the organisation in full capacity as some staff members(12%) from the old structure are in the process of being migrated to the new structure. Operational expenditure increased by 20% from the previous financial year as result in inflationary increase in general prices.

The Film and Publication Board recorded a deficit of R11,758,116 compared with a surplus of R3,953,966 in the previous financial year. The recorded deficit is as a result of extra invitations for outreach on the work of the Film and Publication Board and outreach on the new classification guidelines. Cost saving measures are put in place to limit expenditure only to what is planned are put in place in order to move the organisation from a deficit to a surplus in future financial years. The Film and Publication Board has adopted full implementation of Supply Chain Management which is compliant with the Preferential Procurement Policy Framework Act (PPPFA) and Broad-Based Black Economic Empowerment (BBBEE). All procurement made during the financial year has been in line with the aforementioned. Procurement plans and reports have been submitted to the National Treasury during the financial year as required by the treasury regulations.

All assets are safeguarded and have been adequately insured. Quarterly asset verifications are conducted and the assets register is reconciled on a monthly basis.

APPEAL TRIBUNAL REPORT

Introduction

The Appeal Tribunal is an administrative tribunal that is empowered in terms of Section 20 of the Films and Publications Act 65 of 1996 (as amended). The broad mandate of the Appeal Tribunal is to hear appeals against classification decisions made by classification committees in respect of publications, films and games. The Appeal Tribunal determines whether, on the merits, the correct decision has been made by a classification committee. It is required by the FPB Act to be independent and to carry out its functions without any bias. Parties appearing before the Appeal Tribunal are entitled to be legally represented at the appeals. Generally a decision is made immediately after the hearing, and reasons for the decisions are provided with 14 working days. A draft award is prepared by the chairperson and circulated amongst all the participating members for comments. All the comments are incorporated into the final version, which is made available to the parties and to the classification committee, and placed on the FPB website. The purpose of drafting detailed awards is to create a coherent jurisprudence on how to interpret the Act and guidelines in a manner that is consistent with the Constitution, so as to assist classification committees and other persons relying on the FPB Act.

Professor K Govender
CHAIRPERSON OF THE REVIEW BOARD

Overview of appeals heard in 2012

Twelve appeals were heard in 2012; no appeals were lodged in the first few months of 2013. 2012 was an eventful year: new classification guidelines were gazetted, affording a greater degree of flexibility to the classifiers through a wider range of classification categories from which to choose. The year 2012 was the first in which, in a single year, the Appeal Tribunal considered appeals in respect of films, magazines, trailers, games, and works of art. Appeals were lodged in respect of a number of Hollywood blockbusters, such as The Hunger Games, Safe House, Skyfall, and The Hobbit: An Unexpected Journey. The appeal in respect of the painting 'The Spear' (heard in September 2012) must rank as one of the more challenging appeals considered by the Appeal Tribunal.

The following is a list of the decisions handed down by the Appeal Tribunal

Film/Film trailer/Publication/Work of art	Case Number	Decision by the Classification Committee	Decision by the Appeal Tribunal
Safe House	1/2012	16(V)	13(V)
Trailer for: The Dictator Snow White and the Huntsman Paranoman	2/2012	10 10(M) 10	PG 10(M) 10(M)
Video game: The Secret World	3/2012	13(V)	13(V)
Hustler Magazine (Australian edition May 2010)	4/2012	X18	X18
The Hunger Games	5/2012	16(V)	13(V)
Battleship	6/2012	13(V)	10(V)
Video game: Skylander Giants	7/2012	13(V)	13(V). On resubmission under new guidelines, changed to 10(V)
Painting: 'The Spear'	8/2012	16(V)	Classification set aside
Video game: Army of Two	9/2012	16	18

Film/Film trailer/Publication/Work of art	Case Number	Decision by the Classification Committee	Decision by the Appeal Tribunal
Trailer: Twilight: Breaking Dawn, Part 2	10/2012	13	10
Skyfall	11/2012	16	13
The Hobbit: An Unexpected Journey	12/2012	13(V)	10-12 PG(V)

In all instances, a reasoned award was provided within 14 working days of the hearing of the matter, and in most cases the parties were represented by legal representatives.

Discussion of appeals heard in 2012

The Classification of the painting by Brett Murray entitled 'The Spear' attracted considerable public attention and no small amount of controversy. The Classification Committee had to consider its decision amidst the public outrage generated by the painting, and had to exercise a difficult judicial discretion in this matter. By a majority, it decided on a restrictive age Classification of 16(N). The Goodman Gallery appealed the decision to the Appeal Tribunal. The essence of the finding of the Appeal Tribunal was that any Classification decision has to be in accordance with the Films and Publications Act. The powers of the Classification Committee and those of the Appeal Tribunal are defined by the empowering provisions of the enabling Act. In this case, it was found that the Classification Committee erred by acting beyond its powers and by acting for purposes not authorised or warranted by the empowering provisions. The Appeal Tribunal found that the intricate and appropriate balance to be struck between President Jacob Zuma's right to dignity and the artist and gallery's freedom of expression is a matter for the High Court. The decision of the Classification Committee was set aside; and, as the painting had been defaced shortly after the original classification decision and was in any case no longer in South Africa, no classification was assigned to it. The reasons for this conclusion, together with all the other awards handed down, are available on the FPB website.

The classification of electronic games

As the table above reflects, the Appeal Tribunal had to consider appeals in respect of several electronic games, and a number of issues arose from these appeals. In our awards, we mentioned our concerns about the manner in which games are being classified. Both the Classification Committee and the Appeal Tribunal were shown versions of the gameplay footage. It was clear that these applications for classifications were brought considerably in advance of the launch date of the game so as to maximise the marketing and advertising of the game. Thus the games were still being developed even after having been classified. In terms of Section 18(3) of the FPB Act, the Classification Committee is obliged, in the prescribed manner, to examine the film or game referred to it and then to classify the film or game. Viewing the gameplay footage selected by the appellant, determining a classification, and then simply attaching this classification to the game after it has been developed would not, in the opinion of the Appeal Tribunal, meet the legal obligation on the Classification Committee to “examine the film or game.” Much more needs to be done in order to meet the legal obligation of thoroughly examining the game before a classification is assigned. To this end, the following was determined in one of the awards:

- A) The distributors must, in a written report, accurately and fully describe the game, and they are required to make full disclosure as to whether there any scenes or segments that may be harmful or disturbing to children. They must be notified that if there are any significant omissions, and if these are subsequently drawn to the attention of the Board, then a different classification may be assigned to the game.
- B) The classifications assigned to the game in other jurisdictions must be placed before the classification committee by the distributor.
- C) The distributors must, if it is possible, remove the bars preventing players graduating to more advanced levels for the purposes of the classification, and they must ensure that a person familiar with the game demonstrates at least one hour of gametime to the classification committee. A reasonable explanation must be provided if the the distributors cannot comply with either of these requests.
- D) The classification committee may require the demonstrator to display segments or scenes from different levels of the game, if they deem this to be necessary and if the nature of the game permits this.

We have been informed that the Board has undertaken research as to how games are classified in other jurisdictions, and are considering various options on how to regulate electronic games more effectively and thus deal with the concerns expressed.

To conclude, I wish to extend my sincere appreciation to the following colleagues who form part of the Appeal Tribunal and who render exemplary service:

The Effectiveness of Internal Controls

The Film and Publication Board Council is accountable for the overall governance, risk management processes and systems of internal control for the organization. The Audit and Risk Committee is responsible for the review and assurance of the effectiveness of these processes. The Committee reports to Council on its activities on a quarterly basis and makes recommendations on necessary improvements from Internal and External Audit findings.

The Committee is not satisfied that the internal controls and systems that have been put in place have been effective in this reporting year. The Committee is satisfied that internal audit has employed a risk-based internal audit approach as outlined in the Internal Auditing Standards and has applied the Generally Accepted Auditing Standards in the performance of its function.

The Committee reports that the regular evaluation of internal controls and financial management systems were undertaken by both Internal and External Audit.

The control, governance and risk environment is severely weakened by resignation of senior and other staff. Certain job vacancies existing are being performed by persons in an acting capacity or have not been filled. Internal The Committee is satisfied that Internal Audit has discharged its function effectively and its findings and conclusions are correct and relevant for prioritised attention and improvement of FPB.

Risk Management

The Film and Publication Board uses a matrix based enterprise-wide risk governance model. The Committee evaluate quarterly reports on risk management and has advised Council that risk tolerance levels as well as mitigation of certain realised risks needs attention.

FPB has appointed a full time Risk Specialist who ensures there is continuous risk assessment which highlights critical risks and identifies emerging risks when they occur, A Risk Register is used to record risks and allocate them to a risk owner for managing and mitigation.

FPB is aware of the dangers of theft, corruption and fraudulent activities that will negatively affect its business performance, It has developed a Fraud Prevention and Awareness Plan. There is a process for declaration of interests by Council members and staff to manage FPB transactions and ensure they are sufficiently at arms length,

Internal Audit

In line with the PFMA and King Code on Corporate Governance (King III) Report, Internal Audit provides the Committee and management with reports on internal controls, risk management, governance and compliance throughout the organisation. The Committee requires the cooperation between internal and external auditors to avoid duplication of audit effort and maximize feedback to the committee and Council.

The Committee approved the Internal Audit Charter and three year Rolling Internal Audit Plan. Internal Audit has submitted its progress and assignment reports together with recommendations to the Committee for review and reporting to Council. The Chief Audit Executive has unrestricted access to the Committee and its Chairperson. Internal audit has unrestricted access to auditee officials and records.

REPORT OF THE AUDITOR-GENERAL TO PARLIAMENT ON FILM AND PUBLICATION BOARD REPORT ON THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

Introduction

1. I have audited the financial statements of the Film and Publication Board (FPB) set out on pages 62 to 102, which comprise the statement of financial position as at 31 March 2013, the statement of comprehensive income, statement of changes in equity and the statement of cash flows for the year then ended, and the notes, comprising a summary of significant accounting policies and other explanatory information.

Accounting authority's responsibility for the financial statements

2. The council members which constitutes the accounting authority is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of these financial statements in accordance with South African Statements of Generally Recognised Accounting Practice (SA Standards of GRAP) and the requirements of the Public Finance Management Act of South Africa (PFMA), 1999 (Act No. 1 of 1999) and for such internal control as the accounting authority determines is necessary to enable the preparation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

Auditor-General's responsibility

3. My responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on my audit. I conducted my audit in accordance with the Public Audit Act of South Africa, 2004 (Act No. 25 of 2004) (PAA), the General Notice issued in terms thereof and International Standards on Auditing. Those standards require that I comply with ethical requirements and plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free from material misstatement.
4. An audit involves performing procedures to obtain audit evidence about the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. The procedures selected depend on the auditor's judgement, including the assessment of the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error. In making those risk assessments, the auditor considers internal control relevant to the entity's preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the entity's internal control. An audit also includes evaluating the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of accounting estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial statements.

5. I believe that the audit evidence I have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for my audit opinion.

Opinion

6. In my opinion, the financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the FPB as at 31 March 2013, and its financial performance and cash flows for the year then ended in accordance with SA standards of GRAP and the requirements of the PFMA.

REPORT ON OTHER LEGAL AND REGULATORY REQUIREMENTS

7. In accordance with the PAA and the General Notice issued in terms thereof, I report the following findings relevant to performance against objectives, compliance with laws and regulations and internal control, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion.

Predetermined objectives

8. I performed procedures to obtain evidence about the usefulness and reliability of the information in the annual performance report as set out on pages 62 to 102 of the annual report.
9. The reported performance against predetermined objectives was evaluated against the overall criteria of usefulness and reliability. The usefulness of information in the annual performance report relates to whether it is presented in accordance with the National Treasury's annual reporting principles and whether the reported performance is consistent with the planned objectives. The usefulness of information further relates to whether indicators and targets are measurable and relevant as required by the National Treasury Framework for managing programme performance information. The reliability of the information in respect of the selected programmes is assessed to determine whether it adequately reflects the facts.

The material findings are as follows:

Usefulness of information

Reported targets not consistent with planned targets

10. Treasury Regulation 30.1.3(g) requires that the strategic plan should form the basis for the annual report, therefore requiring consistency of objectives, indicators and targets between planning and reporting documents. A total of 23% of the reported targets are not consistent with the targets as per the approved strategic plan.

Compliance with laws and regulations

11. I performed procedures to obtain evidence that the entity has complied with applicable laws and regulations regarding financial matters, financial management and other related matters. My findings on material non-compliance with specific matters in key applicable laws and regulations as set out in the General Notice issued in terms of the PAA are as follows:

Procurement and contract management

12. Public invitations for the competitive bids were not always advertised for a required minimum period of 21 days in the Government Tender Bulletin as required by Treasury Regulations 16A6.3(c).

Annual financial statements

13. The financial statements submitted for auditing were not prepared in all material respects in accordance with the requirements of section 55(1) (b) of the PFMA. Material misstatements on accounts payables, accruals, leases and expenses identified by the auditors were subsequently corrected, resulting in the financial statements receiving an unqualified audit opinion.

Internal control

14. I considered internal control relevant to my audit of the financial statements, annual performance and compliance with laws and regulations. The matters reported below under the fundamentals of internal control are limited to the significant deficiencies that resulted in findings on non-compliance with laws and regulations included in this report.

Leadership

15. Controls over monitoring of compliance with laws and regulations were found to be inadequate as a result of which several instances of non compliance with various legislations were noted.

Financial and performance management

16. Non-compliance with laws and regulations could have been prevented had compliance been properly reviewed and monitored.
17. As indicated in paragraph 13 of this report, the financial statements contained numerous misstatements that were corrected. This was mainly due to staff members not fully understanding the requirements and the application of the financial reporting framework.

Governance

18. Non-compliances with laws and regulations could have been prevented had oversight responsibility by the audit committee, over internal audit function been exercised in a timely manner. At year end measures had been put in place to address the internal control deficiency.

ACCOUNTING AUTHORITY'S RESPONSIBILITIES AND APPROVAL

The annual financial statements are based upon appropriate accounting policies consistently applied and supported by reasonable and prudent judgements and estimates.

The members of council acknowledge that they are ultimately responsible for the system of internal financial control established by the entity and place considerable importance on maintaining a strong control environment. To enable the members of council to meet these responsibilities, the accounting authority sets standards for internal control aimed at reducing the risk of error or deficit in a cost effective manner. The standards include the proper delegation of responsibilities within a clearly defined framework, effective accounting procedures and adequate segregation of duties to ensure an acceptable level of risk. These controls are monitored throughout the entity and all employees are required to maintain the highest ethical standards in ensuring the entity's business is conducted in a manner that in all reasonable circumstances is above reproach. The focus of risk management in the entity is on identifying, assessing, managing and monitoring all known forms of risk across the entity. While operating risk cannot be fully eliminated, the entity endeavours to minimise it by ensuring that appropriate infrastructure, controls, systems and ethical behaviour are applied and managed within predetermined procedures and constraints.

The members of council are of the opinion, based on the information and explanations given by management, that the system of internal control provides reasonable assurance that the financial records may be relied on for the preparation of the annual financial statements. However, any system of internal financial control can provide only reasonable, and not absolute, assurance against material misstatement or deficit.

The entity is wholly dependent on the Department of Home Affairs for continued funding of operations. The annual financial statements are prepared on the basis that the entity is a going concern and that the Department of Home Affairs has neither the intention nor the need to liquidate or curtail materially the scale of the entity.

Accounting Policies

1. Presentation of Annual Financial Statements

The annual financial statements have been prepared in accordance with the Standards of Generally Recognised Accounting Practice (GRAP) including any interpretations, guidelines and directives issued by the Accounting Standards Board.

These annual financial statements have been prepared on an accrual basis of accounting and are in accordance with historical cost convention unless specified otherwise. They are presented in South African Rand.

A summary of the significant accounting policies, which have been consistently applied, are disclosed below. These accounting policies are consistent with the previous year.

1.1 Significant judgements and sources of estimation uncertainty

In preparing the annual financial statements, management is required to make estimates and assumptions that affect the amounts represented in the annual financial statements and related disclosures. Use of available information and the application of judgement is inherent in the formation of estimates. Actual results in the future could differ from these estimates which may be material to the annual financial statements. Significant judgements include:

Trade receivables and receivables

The entity assesses its trade receivables and receivables for impairment at the end of each reporting period. In determining whether an impairment loss should be recorded in surplus or deficit, the surplus makes judgements as to whether there is observable data indicating a measurable decrease in the estimated future cash flows from a financial asset.

The impairment for trade receivables and receivables is calculated on a portfolio basis, based on historical loss ratios, adjusted for national and industry-specific economic conditions and other indicators present at the reporting date that correlate with defaults on the portfolio. These annual loss ratios are applied to loan balances in the portfolio and scaled to the estimated loss emergence period.

Impairment testing

Property, plant and equipment and Intangible assets are considered for impairment if there is a reason to believe that an impairment may be necessary.

The future cash flows expected to be generated by the assets are projected taking into account market conditions and the expected useful lives of the assets. The present value of these cash flows, determined using an appropriate discount rate, is compared to the current carrying value and, if lower, the assets are impaired to the present value.

Provisions

Provisions were raised and management determined an estimate based on the information available. Additional disclosure of these estimates of provisions are included in note 9 - Provisions.

Going Concern Assumption

The Annual Financial Statements have been prepared on a going concern basis. Despite the accumulated deficit and total liabilities exceeding total assets, as the entity is wholly dependent on the Department of Home Affairs for continued funding of operations. The annual financial statements are prepared on the basis that the entity is a going concern and that the Department of Home Affairs has neither the intention nor the need to liquidate or curtail materially the scale of the entity.

Accounting Policies

Offsetting

Assets, liabilities, revenues and expenses have not been offset except when offsetting is required or permitted by a Standard of GRAP.

1.2 Property, plant and equipment

Property, plant and equipment are tangible non-current assets (including infrastructure assets) that are held for use in the production or supply of goods or services, rental to others, or for administrative purposes, and are expected to be used during more than one period.

The cost of an item of property, plant and equipment is recognised as an asset when:

- it is probable that future economic benefits or service potential associated with the item will flow to the entity; and
- the cost of the item can be measured reliably.

Property, plant and equipment is initially measured at cost.

The cost of an item of property, plant and equipment is the purchase price and other costs attributable to bring the asset to the location and condition necessary for it to be capable of operating in the manner intended by management. Trade discounts and rebates are deducted in arriving at the cost.

Where an asset is acquired through a non-exchange transaction, its cost is its fair value as at date of acquisition.

Where an item of property, plant and equipment is acquired in exchange for a non-monetary asset or monetary assets, or a combination of monetary and non-monetary assets, the asset acquired is initially measured at fair value (the cost). If the acquired item's fair value was not determinable, its deemed cost is the carrying amount of the asset(s) given up.

When significant components of an item of property, plant and equipment have different useful lives, they are accounted for as separate items (major components) of property, plant and equipment.

Costs include costs incurred initially to acquire or construct an item of property, plant and equipment and costs incurred subsequently to add to, replace part of, or service it. If a replacement cost is recognised in the carrying amount of an item of property, plant and equipment, the carrying amount of the replaced part is derecognised.

Recognition of costs in the carrying amount of an item of property, plant and equipment ceases when the item is in the location and condition necessary for it to be capable of operating in the manner intended by management.

Property, plant and equipment are depreciated on the straight line basis over their expected useful lives to their estimated residual value.

Property, plant and equipment is carried at cost less accumulated depreciation and any impairment losses.

The residual value, and the useful life and depreciation method of each asset are reviewed at the end of each reporting date. If the expectations differ from previous estimates, the change is accounted for as a change in accounting estimate. Each part of an item of property, plant and equipment with a cost that is significant in relation to the total cost of the item is depreciated separately.

The depreciation charge for each period is recognised in surplus or deficit unless it is included in the carrying amount of another asset.

Items of property, plant and equipment are derecognised when the asset is disposed of or when there are no further economic benefits or service potential expected from the use of the asset.

Accounting Policies

The gain or loss arising from the derecognition of an item of property, plant and equipment is included in surplus or deficit when the item is derecognised. The gain or loss arising from the derecognition of an item of property, plant and equipment is determined as the difference between the net disposal proceeds, if any, and the carrying amount of the item.

The useful lives of items of property, plant and equipment have been assessed as follows:

Item	Average useful life
Furniture and fittings	3-10 years
Motor vehicles	5 years
Office equipment	3-6 years
Computer equipment	3-6 years
Leasehold improvements	2-10 years
Leased Assets	3-5 years

1.3 Intangible assets

An asset is identified as an intangible asset when it:

- is capable of being separated or divided from an entity and sold, transferred, licensed, rented or exchanged, either individually or together with a related contract, assets or liability; or
- arises from contractual rights or other legal rights, regardless whether those rights are transferable or separate from the entity or from other rights and obligations.

An intangible asset is recognised when:

- it is probable that the expected future economic benefits or service potential that are attributable to the asset will flow to the entity; and
- the cost or fair value of the asset can be measured reliably.

Intangible assets are initially recognised at cost.

An intangible asset acquired through a non-exchange transaction, the cost shall be its fair value as at the date of acquisition. Expenditure on research (or on the research phase of an internal project) is recognised as an expense when it is incurred.

An intangible asset arising from development (or from the development phase of an internal project) is recognised when:

- it is technically feasible to complete the asset so that it will be available for use or sale.
- there is an intention to complete and use or sell it.
- there is an ability to use or sell it.
- it will generate probable future economic benefits or service potential.
- there are available technical, financial and other resources to complete the development and to use or sell the asset.
- the expenditure attributable to the asset during its development can be measured reliably.

Intangible assets are carried at cost less any accumulated amortisation and any impairment losses.

An intangible asset is regarded as having an indefinite useful life when, based on all relevant factors, there is no foreseeable limit to the period over which the asset is expected to generate net cash inflows or service potential. Amortisation is not provided for these intangible assets, but they are tested for impairment annually and whenever there is an indication that the asset may be impaired. For all other intangible assets amortisation is provided on a straight line basis over their useful life.

The amortisation period and the amortisation method for intangible assets are reviewed at each reporting date.

Reassessing the useful life of an intangible asset with a finite useful life after it was classified as indefinite is an indicator that the asset may be impaired. As a result the asset is tested for impairment and the remaining carrying amount is amortised over its useful life.

Internally generated brands, mastheads, publishing titles, customer lists and items similar in substance are not recognised as intangible assets.

Amortisation is provided to write down the intangible assets, on a straight line basis, to their residual values as follows:

Item	Useful life
------	-------------

Computer Software	2-4 years
-------------------	-----------

Intangible assets are derecognised:

- on disposal; or
- when no future economic benefits or service potential are expected from its use or disposal.

The gain or loss is the difference between the net disposal proceeds, if any, and the carrying amount. It is recognised in surplus or deficit when the asset is derecognised.

1.4 Financial instruments

Classification

The entity classifies financial assets and financial liabilities into the following categories:

- Held-to-maturity investment
- Loans and receivables
- Available-for-sale financial assets

Classification depends on the purpose for which the financial instruments were obtained / incurred and takes place at initial recognition. Classification is re-assessed on an annual basis, except for derivatives and financial assets designated as at fair value through surplus or deficit, which shall not be classified out of the fair value through surplus or deficit category.

Initial recognition and measurement

Financial instruments are recognised initially when the entity becomes a party to the contractual provisions of the instruments. The entity classifies financial instruments, or their component parts, on initial recognition as a financial asset, a financial liability or an equity instrument in accordance with the substance of the contractual arrangement.

Financial instruments are measured initially at fair value, except for equity investments for which a fair value is not determinable, which are measured at cost and are classified as available-for-sale financial assets.

For financial instruments which are not at fair value through surplus or deficit, transaction costs are included in the initial measurement of the instrument.

Accounting Policies

Subsequent measurement

Loans and receivables are subsequently measured at amortised cost, using the effective interest method, less accumulated impairment losses.

Held-to-maturity investments are subsequently measured at amortised cost, using the effective interest method, less accumulated impairment losses.

Available-for-sale financial assets are subsequently measured at fair value. This excludes equity investments for which a fair value is not determinable, which are measured at cost less accumulated impairment losses.

Gains and losses arising from changes in fair value are recognised in equity until the asset is disposed of or determined to be impaired. Interest on available-for-sale financial assets calculated using the effective interest method is recognised in surplus or deficit as part of other income. Dividends received on available-for-sale equity instruments are recognised in surplus or deficit as part of other income when the entity's right to receive payment is established.

Changes in fair value of available-for-sale financial assets denominated in a foreign currency are analysed between translation differences resulting from changes in amortised cost and other changes in the carrying amount. Translation differences on monetary items are recognised in surplus or deficit, while translation differences on non-monetary items are recognised in equity.

Financial liabilities at amortised cost are subsequently measured at amortised cost, using the effective interest method.

Trade and other receivables

Trade receivables are measured at initial recognition at fair value, and are subsequently measured at amortised cost using the effective interest rate method. Appropriate allowances for estimated irrecoverable amounts are recognised in surplus or deficit when there is objective evidence that the asset is impaired. Significant financial difficulties of the debtor, probability that the debtor will enter bankruptcy or financial reorganisation, and default or delinquency in payments (more than 30 days overdue) are considered indicators that the trade receivable is impaired. The allowance recognised is measured as the difference between the asset's carrying amount and the present value of estimated future cash flows discounted at the effective interest rate computed at initial recognition.

The carrying amount of the asset is reduced through the use of an allowance account, and the amount of the deficit is recognised in surplus or deficit within operating expenses. When a trade receivable is uncollectible, it is written off against the allowance account for trade receivables. Subsequent recoveries of amounts previously written off are credited against operating expenses in surplus or deficit.

Trade and other receivables are classified as loans and receivables.

Payables from exchange transactions

Trade payables are initially measured at fair value, and are subsequently measured at amortised cost, using the effective interest rate method.

Cash and cash equivalents

Cash and cash equivalents comprise cash on hand and demand deposits, and other short-term highly liquid investments that are readily convertible to a known amount of cash and are subject to an insignificant risk of changes in value. These are initially and subsequently recorded at fair value.

1.5 Leases

A lease is classified as a finance lease if it transfers substantially all the risks and rewards incidental to ownership. A lease is classified as an operating lease if it does not transfer substantially all the risks and rewards incidental to ownership.

Accounting Policies

Finance leases - lessee

Finance leases are recognised as assets and liabilities in the statement of financial position at amounts equal to the fair value of the leased property or, if lower, the present value of the minimum lease payments. The corresponding liability to the lessor is included in the statement of financial position as a finance lease obligation.

The discount rate used in calculating the present value of the minimum lease payments is the interest rate implicit in the lease.

Minimum lease payments are apportioned between the finance charge and reduction of the outstanding liability. The finance charge is allocated to each period during the lease term so as to produce a constant periodic rate of on the remaining balance of the liability.

Any contingent rents are expensed in the period in which they are incurred.

Operating leases - lessee

Operating lease payments are recognised as an expense on a straight-line basis over the lease term. The difference between the amounts recognised as an expense and the contractual payments are recognised as an operating lease asset or liability.

1.6 Impairment of cash-generating assets

Cash-generating assets are those assets held by the entity with the primary objective of generating a commercial return. When an asset is deployed in a manner consistent with that adopted by a profit-orientated entity, it generates a commercial return.

Impairment is a loss in the future economic benefits or service potential of an asset, over and above the systematic recognition of the loss of the asset's future economic benefits or service potential through depreciation (amortisation).

Carrying amount is the amount at which an asset is recognised in the statement of financial position after deducting any accumulated depreciation and accumulated impairment losses thereon.

A cash-generating unit is the smallest identifiable group of assets held with the primary objective of generating a commercial return that generates cash inflows from continuing use that are largely independent of the cash inflows from other assets or groups of assets.

Costs of disposal are incremental costs directly attributable to the disposal of an asset, excluding finance costs and income tax expense.

Depreciation (Amortisation) is the systematic allocation of the depreciable amount of an asset over its useful life.

Fair value less costs to sell is the amount obtainable from the sale of an asset in an arm's length transaction between knowledgeable, willing parties, less the costs of disposal.

Recoverable amount of an asset or a cash-generating unit is the higher its fair value less costs to sell and its value in use. Useful life is either:

- (a) the period of time over which an asset is expected to be used by the entity; or
- (b) the number of production or similar units expected to be obtained from the asset by the entity.

Accounting Policies

1.7 Share capital / contributed capital

An equity instrument is any contract that evidences a residual interest in the assets of an entity after deducting all of its liabilities.

1.8 Employee benefits

Short-term employee benefits

The cost of short-term employee benefits, (those payable within 12 months after the service is rendered, such as paid vacation leave and sick leave, bonuses, and non-monetary benefits such as medical care), are recognised in the period in which the service is rendered and are not discounted.

Defined benefit plans

Payments to defined contribution retirement benefit plans are charged as an expense as they fall due.

Payments made to industry-managed (or state plans) retirement benefit schemes are dealt with as defined contribution plans where the entity's obligation under the schemes is equivalent to those arising in a defined contribution retirement benefit plan.

1.9 Provisions and contingencies

Provisions are recognised when:

- the entity has a present obligation as a result of a past event;
- it is probable that an outflow of resources embodying economic benefits or service potential will be required to settle the obligation; and
- a reliable estimate can be made of the obligation.

The amount of a provision is the best estimate of the expenditure expected to be required to settle the present obligation at the reporting date.

Where the effect of time value of money is material, the amount of a provision is the present value of the expenditures expected to be required to settle the obligation.

The discount rate is a pre-tax rate that reflects current market assessments of the time value of money and the risks specific to the liability.

Where some or all of the expenditure required to settle a provision is expected to be reimbursed by another party, the reimbursement is recognised when, and only when, it is virtually certain that reimbursement will be received if the entity settles the obligation. The reimbursement is treated as a separate asset. The amount recognised for the reimbursement does not exceed the amount of the provision.

Provisions are reviewed at each reporting date and adjusted to reflect the current best estimate. Provisions are reversed if it is no longer probable that an outflow of resources embodying economic benefits or service potential will be required, to settle the obligation.

A provision is used only for expenditures for which the provision was originally recognised. Provisions are not recognised for future operating deficits.

If an entity has a contract that is onerous, the present obligation (net of recoveries) under the contract is recognised and measured as a provision.

Contingent assets and contingent liabilities are not recognised. Contingencies are disclosed in note 21.

1.10 Revenue from exchange transactions

Revenue is the gross inflow of economic benefits or service potential during the reporting period when those inflows result in an increase in net assets, other than increases relating to contributions from owners.

Accounting Policies

An exchange transaction is one in which the entity receives assets or services, or has liabilities extinguished, and directly gives approximately equal value (primarily in the form of goods, services or use of assets) to the other party in exchange.

Fair value is the amount for which an asset could be exchanged, or a liability settled, between knowledgeable, willing parties in an arm's length transaction.

Measurement

Revenue is measured at the fair value of the consideration received or receivable, net of trade discounts and volume rebates.

Sale of goods

Revenue from the sale of goods is recognised when all the following conditions have been satisfied:

- the entity has transferred to the purchaser the significant risks and rewards of ownership of the goods;
- the entity retains neither continuing managerial involvement to the degree usually associated with ownership nor effective control over the goods sold;
- the amount of revenue can be measured reliably;
- it is probable that the economic benefits or service potential associated with the transaction will flow to the entity; and
- the costs incurred or to be incurred in respect of the transaction can be measured reliably.

Rendering of services

When the outcome of a transaction involving the rendering of services can be estimated reliably, revenue associated with the transaction is recognised by reference to the stage of completion of the transaction at the reporting date. The outcome of a transaction can be estimated reliably when all the following conditions are satisfied:

- the amount of revenue can be measured reliably;
- it is probable that the economic benefits or service potential associated with the transaction will flow to the entity;
- the stage of completion of the transaction at the reporting date can be measured reliably; and
- the costs incurred for the transaction and the costs to complete the transaction can be measured reliably.

When services are performed by an indeterminate number of acts over a specified time frame, revenue is recognised on a straight line basis over the specified time frame unless there is evidence that some other method better represents the stage of completion. When a specific act is much more significant than any other acts, the recognition of revenue is postponed until the significant act is executed. When the outcome of the transaction involving the rendering of services cannot be estimated reliably, revenue is recognised only to the extent of the expenses recognised that are recoverable.

Service revenue is recognised by reference to the stage of completion of the transaction at the reporting date. Stage of completion is determined by services performed to date as a percentage of total services to be performed.

Interest

Interest is recognised, in surplus or deficit, using the effective interest rate method.

1.11 Revenue from non-exchange transactions

Non-exchange transactions are defined as transactions where the entity receives value from another entity without directly giving approximately equal value in exchange.

Accounting Policies

Revenue is the gross inflow of economic benefits or service potential during the reporting period when those inflows result in an increase in net assets, other than increases relating to contributions from owners.

Fair value is the amount for which an asset could be exchanged, or a liability settled, between knowledgeable, willing parties in an arm's length transaction.

Measurement

Revenue is measured at the fair value of the consideration received or receivable, net of trade discounts and volume rebates.

Government grants

Government grants are recognised as revenue when:

- it is probable that the economic benefits or service potential associated with the transaction will flow to the entity,
- the amount of the revenue can be measured reliably, and
- to the extent that there has been compliance with any restrictions associated with the grant.

The entity assesses the degree of certainty attached to the flow of future economic benefits or service potential on the basis of the available evidence. Certain grants payable by one level of government to another are subject to the availability of funds. Revenue from these grants is only recognised when it is probable that the economic benefits or service potential associated with the transaction will flow to the entity. An announcement at the beginning of a financial year that grants may be available for qualifying entities in accordance with an agreed programme may not be sufficient evidence of the probability of the flow. Revenue is then only recognised once evidence of the probability of the flow becomes available.

Restrictions on government grants may result in such revenue being recognised on a time proportion basis. Where there is no restriction on the period, such revenue is recognised on receipt or when the Act becomes effective, whichever is earlier.

When government remit grants on a re-imbursement basis, revenue is recognised when the qualifying expense has been incurred and to the extent that any other restrictions have been complied with.

1.12 Borrowing costs

It is inappropriate to capitalise borrowing costs when, and only when, there is clear evidence that it is difficult to link the borrowing requirements of an entity directly to the nature of the expenditure to be funded i.e. capital or current. Borrowing costs are recognised as an expense in the period in which they are incurred.

1.13 Translation of foreign currencies

Foreign currency transactions

A foreign currency transaction is recorded, on initial recognition in Rands, by applying to the foreign currency amount the spot exchange rate between the functional currency and the foreign currency at the date of the transaction.

At each reporting date:

- foreign currency monetary items are translated using the closing rate;
- non-monetary items that are measured in terms of historical cost in a foreign currency are translated using the exchange rate at the date of the transaction; and

Accounting Policies

- non-monetary items that are measured at fair value in a foreign currency are translated using the exchange rates at the date when the fair value was determined.

Exchange differences arising on the settlement of monetary items or on translating monetary items at rates different from those at which they were translated on initial recognition during the period or in previous annual financial statements are recognised in surplus or deficit in the period in which they arise.

When a gain or loss on a non-monetary item is recognised directly in net assets, any exchange component of that gain or loss is recognised directly in net assets.

When a gain or loss on a non-monetary item is recognised in surplus or deficit, any exchange component of that gain or loss is recognised in surplus or deficit.

Cash flows arising from transactions in a foreign currency are recorded in Rands by applying to the foreign currency amount the exchange rate between the Rand and the foreign currency at the date of the cash flow.

1.14 Comparative figures

Where necessary, comparative figures have been reclassified to conform to changes in presentation in the current year.

1.15 Fruitless and wasteful expenditure

Fruitless expenditure means expenditure which was made in vain and would have been avoided had reasonable care been exercised.

All expenditure relating to fruitless and wasteful expenditure is recognised as an expense in the statement of financial performance in the year that the expenditure was incurred. The expenditure is classified in accordance with the nature of the expense, and where recovered, it is subsequently accounted for as revenue in the statement of financial performance.

1.16 Irregular expenditure

Irregular expenditure as defined in section 1 of the PFMA is expenditure other than unauthorised expenditure, incurred in contravention of or that is not in accordance with a requirement of any applicable legislation, including -

- (a) this Act; or
- (b) the State Tender Board Act, 1968 (Act No. 86 of 1968), or any regulations made in terms of the Act; or
- (c) any provincial legislation providing for procurement procedures in that provincial government.

National Treasury practice note no. 4 of 2008/2009 which was issued in terms of sections 76(1) to 76(4) of the PFMA requires the following (effective from 1 April 2008):

Irregular expenditure that was incurred and identified during the current financial and which was condoned before year end and/or before finalisation of the financial statements must also be recorded appropriately in the irregular expenditure register. In such an instance, no further action is also required with the exception of updating the note to the financial statements.

Irregular expenditure that was incurred and identified during the current financial year and for which condonement is being awaited at year end must be recorded in the irregular expenditure register. No further action is required with the exception of updating the note to the financial statements.

Where irregular expenditure was incurred in the previous financial year and is only condoned in the following financial year, the register and the disclosure note to the financial statements must be updated with the amount condoned.

Irregular expenditure that was incurred and identified during the current financial year and which was not condoned by the National Treasury or the relevant authority must be recorded appropriately in the irregular expenditure register. If liability for the irregular expenditure can be attributed to a person, a debt account must be created if such a person is liable in law. Immediate steps must thereafter be taken to recover the amount from the person concerned. If recovery is not possible, the accounting officer or accounting authority may write off the amount as debt impairment and disclose such in the relevant note to the financial statements.

The irregular expenditure register must also be updated accordingly. If the irregular expenditure has not been condoned and no person is liable in law, the expenditure related thereto must remain against the relevant programme/ expenditure item, be disclosed as such in the note to the financial statements and updated accordingly in the irregular expenditure register.

Notes to the Annual Financial Statements

2. New standards and interpretations

2.1 Standards and interpretations effective and adopted in the current year

In the current year, the entity has adopted the following standards and interpretations that are effective for the current financial year and that are relevant to its operations:

GRAP 23: Revenue from Non-exchange Transactions

Revenue from non-exchange transactions arises when an entity receives value from another entity without directly giving approximately equal value in exchange. An asset acquired through a non-exchange transaction shall initially be measured at its fair value as at the date of acquisition.

This revenue will be measured at the amount of increase in net assets recognised by the entity.

An inflow of resources from a non-exchange transaction recognised as an asset shall be recognised as revenue, except to the extent that a liability is recognised for the same inflow. As an entity satisfies a present obligation recognised as a liability in respect of an inflow of resources from a non-exchange transaction recognised as an asset, it will reduce the carrying amount of the liability recognised as recognise an amount equal to that reduction.

This Standard has been approved by the Board but its effective date has not yet been determined by the Minister of Finance. The effective date indicated is a provisional date and could change depending on the decision of the Minister of Finance.

The effective date of the standard is for years beginning on or after 01 April 2012.

The entity has adopted the standard for the first time in the 2013 annual financial statements. The impact of the standard is not material.

GRAP 24: Presentation of Budget Information in the Financial Statements

Subject to the requirements of paragraph .19, an entity shall present a comparison of the budget amounts for which it is held publicly accountable and actual amounts either as a separate additional financial statement or as additional budget columns in the financial statements currently presented in accordance with Standards of GRAP. The comparison of budget and actual amounts shall present separately for each level of legislative oversight:

- the approved and final budget amounts;
- the actual amounts on a comparable basis; and
- by way of note disclosure, an explanation of material differences between the budget for which the entity is held publicly accountable and actual amounts, unless such explanation is included in other public documents issued in conjunction with the financial statements, and a cross reference to those documents is made in the notes.

Where an entity prepares its budget and annual financial statements on a comparable basis, it includes the comparison as an additional column in the primary annual financial statements. Where the budget and annual financial statements are not prepared on a comparable basis, a separate statement is prepared called the 'Statement of Comparison of Budget and Actual Amounts'. This statement compares the budget amounts with the amounts in the annual financial statements adjusted to be comparable to the budget.

A comparable basis means that the budget and annual financial statements:

- are prepared using the same basis of accounting i.e. either cash or accrual;

Notes to the Annual Financial Statements

- include the same activities and entities;
- use the same classification system; and
- are prepared for the same period.

This Standard has been approved by the Board but its effective date has not yet been determined by the Minister of Finance. The effective date indicated is a provisional date and could change depending on the decision of the Minister of Finance.

The effective date of the standard is for years beginning on or after 01 April 2012. The entity has adopted the standard for the first time in the 2013 annual financial statements.

The impact of the standard is set out in note Changes in Accounting Policy.

GRAP 103: Heritage Assets

Grp 103 defines heritage assets as assets which have a cultural, environmental, historical, natural, scientific, technological or artistic significance and are held indefinitely for the benefit of present and future generations.

Certain heritage assets are described as inalienable items thus assets which are retained indefinitely and cannot be disposed of without consent as required by law or otherwise.

A heritage asset should be recognised as an asset only if:

- it is probable that future economic benefits or service potential associated with the asset will to the entity; and
- the cost of fair value of the asset can be measured reliably.

The standard required judgment in applying the initial recognition criteria to the specific circumstances surrounding the entity and the assets.

Grp 103 states that a heritage asset should be measured at its cost unless it is acquired through a non-exchange transaction which should then be measured at its fair value as at the date of acquisition.

In terms of the standard, an entity has a choice between the cost and revaluation model as accounting policy for subsequent recognition and should apply the chosen policy to an entire class of heritage assets.

The cost model requires a class of heritage assets to be carried at its cost less any accumulated impairment losses.

The revaluation model required a class of heritage assets to be carried at its fair value at the date of the revaluation less any subsequent impairment losses. The standard also states that a restriction on the disposal of a heritage asset does not preclude the entity from determining the fair value.

Grp 103 prescribes that when determining the fair value of a heritage asset that has more than one purpose, the fair value should reflect both the asset's heritage value and the value obtained from its use in the production or supply of goods or services or for administrative purposes.

If a heritage asset's carrying amount is increased as a result of a revaluation, the increase should be credited directly to a revaluation surplus. However, the increase should be recognised in surplus or deficit to the extent that it reverses a revaluation decrease of the same heritage asset previously recognised in surplus or deficit. If a heritage asset's carrying amount is decreased as a result of a revaluation, the decrease should be recognised in surplus or deficit. However, the decrease should be debited directly to a revaluation surplus to the extent of any credit balance existing in the revaluation surplus in respect of that heritage asset.

Grp 103 states that a heritage asset should not be depreciated but an entity should assess at each reporting date whether there is an indication that it may be impaired.

Notes to the Annual Financial Statements

In terms of the standard, compensation from third parties for heritage assets that have been impaired, lost or given up, should be included in surplus or deficit when the compensation becomes receivable.

For a transfer from heritage assets carried at a revalued amount to property, plant and equipment, investment property, inventories or intangible assets, the asset's deemed cost for subsequent accounting should be its revalued amount at the date of transfer. The entity should treat any difference at that date between the carrying amount of the heritage asset and its fair value in the same way as a revaluation in accordance with this Standard. If an item of property, plant and equipment or an intangible asset carried at a revalued amount, or investment property carried at fair value is reclassified as a heritage asset carried at a revalued amount, the entity applies the applicable Standard of GRAP to that asset up to the date of change. The entity treats any difference at that date between the carrying amount of the asset and its fair value in accordance with the applicable Standard of GRAP relating to that asset. For a transfer from investment property carried at fair value, or inventories to heritage assets at a revalued amount, any difference between the fair value of the asset at that date and its previous carrying amount should be recognised in surplus or deficit.

The carrying amount of a heritage asset should be derecognised:

- on disposal, or
- when no future economic benefits or service potential are expected from its use or disposal.

The gain or loss arising from the derecognition of a heritage asset should be determined as the difference between the net disposal proceeds, if any, and the carrying amount of the heritage asset. Such difference is recognised in surplus or deficit when the heritage asset is derecognised.

The effective date of the standard is for years beginning on or after 01 April 2012.

The entity has adopted the standard for the first time in the 2013 annual financial statements.

The impact of the standard is set out in note Changes in Accounting Policy.

GRAP 21: Impairment of non-cash-generating assets

Non-cash-generating assets are assets other than cash-generating assets.

When the carrying amount of a non-cash-generating asset exceeds its recoverable service amount, it is impaired.

An entity assesses at each reporting date whether there is any indication that a non-cash-generating asset may be impaired. If any such indication exists, an entity estimates the recoverable service amount of the asset.

The present value of the remaining service potential of a non-cash-generating asset is determined using one of the following approaches:

- Depreciated replacement cost approach
- Restoration cost approach
- Service units approach

If the recoverable service amount of a non-cash-generating asset is less than its carrying amount, the carrying amount of the asset is reduced to its recoverable service amount. This reduction is an impairment loss. An impairment loss is recognised immediately in surplus or deficit. Any impairment loss of a revalued non-cash-generating asset is treated as a revaluation decrease.

An entity assess at each reporting date whether there is any indication that an impairment loss recognised in prior periods for a non-cash-generating asset may no longer exist or may have decreased. If any such indication exists, an entity estimates the recoverable service amount of that asset.

A reversal of an impairment loss for a non-cash-generating asset is recognised immediately in surplus or deficit. Any reversal of an impairment loss of a revalued non-cash-generating asset is treated as a revaluation increase.

This Standard has been approved by the Board but its effective date has not yet been determined by the Minister of Finance. The effective date indicated is a provisional date and could change depending on the decision of the Minister of Finance.

The effective date of the standard is for years beginning on or after 01 April 2012. The entity has adopted the standard for the first time in the 2013 annual financial statements.

The impact of the standard is not material.

GRAP 26: Impairment of cash-generating assets

Cash-generating assets are those assets held by an entity with the primary objective of generating a commercial return. When an asset is deployed in a manner consistent with that adopted by a profit-orientated entity, it generates a commercial return.

When the carrying amount of a cash-generating asset exceeds its recoverable amount, it is impaired.

An entity assesses at each reporting date whether there is any indication that a cash-generating asset may be impaired. If any such indication exists, an entity estimates the recoverable amount of the asset. When estimating the value in use of an asset, an entity estimates the future cash inflows and outflows to be derived from continuing use of the asset and from its ultimate disposal and an entity applies the appropriate discount rate to those future cash flows.

If there is any indication that an asset may be impaired, the recoverable amount is estimated for the individual asset. If it is not possible to estimate the recoverable amount of the individual asset, an entity determines the recoverable amount of the cash-generating unit to which the asset belongs (the asset's cash-generating unit).

If an active market exists for the output produced by an asset or group of assets, that asset or group of assets is identified as a cash-generating unit, even if some or all of the output is used internally. If the cash inflows generated by any asset or cash-generating unit are affected by internal transfer pricing, an entity use management's best estimate of future price(s) that could be achieved in arm's length transactions in estimating:

- the future cash inflows used to determine the asset's or cash-generating unit's value in use; and
- the future cash outflows used to determine the value in use of any other assets or cash-generating units that are affected by the internal transfer pricing.

An impairment loss is recognised for a cash-generating unit if the recoverable amount of the unit is less than the carrying amount of the unit. The impairment is allocated to reduce the carrying amount of the cash-generating assets of the unit on a pro rata basis, based on the carrying amount of each asset in the unit. These reductions in carrying amounts are treated as impairment losses on individual assets.

Where a non-cash-generating asset contributes to a cash-generating unit, a proportion of the carrying amount of that non-cash-generating asset is allocated to the carrying amount of the cash-generating unit prior to estimation of the recoverable amount of the cash-generating unit.

An entity assess at each reporting date whether there is any indication that an impairment loss recognised in prior periods for a cash-generating asset may no longer exist or may have decreased. If any such indication exists, an entity estimates the recoverable amount of that asset.

Notes to the Annual Financial Statements

A reversal of an impairment loss for a cash-generating asset is recognised immediately in surplus or deficit. Any reversal of an impairment loss of a revalued cash-generating asset is treated as a revaluation increase.

This Standard has been approved by the Board but its effective date has not yet been determined by the Minister of Finance. The effective date indicated is a provisional date and could change depending on the decision of the Minister of Finance.

The effective date of the standard is for years beginning on or after 01 April 2012. The entity has adopted the standard for the first time in the 2013 annual financial statements.

The impact of the standard is not material.

GRAP 18: Segment Reporting

Segments are identified by the way in which information is reported to management, both for purposes of assessing performance and making decisions about how future resources will be allocated to the various activities undertaken by the entity. The major classifications of activities identified in budget documentation will usually reflect the segments for which an entity reports information to management.

Segment information is either presented based on service or geographical segments. Service segments relate to a distinguishable component of an entity that provides specific outputs or achieves particular operating objectives that are in line with the entity's overall mission. Geographical segments relate to specific outputs generated, or particular objectives achieved, by an entity within a particular region.

This Standard has been approved by the Board but its effective date has not yet been determined by the Minister of Finance. The effective date indicated is a provisional date and could change depending on the decision of the Minister of Finance.

Directive 2 - Transitional provisions for public entities, municipal entities and constitutional institutions, states that no comparative segment information need to be presented on initial adoption of this Standard.

Directive 3 - Transitional provisions for high capacity municipalities states that no comparative segment information need to be presented on initial adoption of the Standard. Where items have not been recognised as a result of transitional provisions under the Standard of GRAP on Property, Plant and Equipment, recognition requirements of this Standard would not apply to such items until the transitional provision in that Standard expires.

Directive 4 – Transitional provisions for medium and low capacity municipalities states that no comparative segment information need to be presented on initial adoption of the Standard. Where items have not been recognised as a result of transitional provisions under the Standard of GRAP on Property, Plant and Equipment and the Standard of GRAP on Agriculture, the recognition requirements of the Standard would not apply to such items until the transitional provision in that standard expires.

The standard was approved but the effective date is not known yet.

GRAP 25: Employee benefits

The objective of GRAP25 is to prescribe the accounting and disclosure for employee benefits. The Standard requires an entity to recognise:

- a liability when an employee has provided service in exchange for employee benefits to be paid in the future; and
- an expense when an entity consumes the economic benefits or service

potential arising from service provided by an employee in exchange for employee benefits.

GRAP25 defines, amongst others, the following:

- Defined contribution plans as post-employment benefit plans under which an entity pays fixed contributions into a separate entity (a fund) and will have no legal or constructive obligation to pay further contributions if the fund does not hold sufficient assets to pay all employee benefits relating to employee service in the current and prior periods;

The effective date of the standard is for years beginning on or after 01 April 2013.

GRAP 104: Financial Instruments

The standard prescribes recognition, measurement, presentation and disclosure requirements for financial instruments. Financial instruments are defined as those contracts that results in a financial asset in one entity and a financial liability or residual interest in another entity. A key distinguishing factor between financial assets and financial liabilities and other assets and liabilities, is that they are settled in cash or by exchanging financial instruments rather than through the provision of goods or services.

One of the key considerations in initially recognising financial instruments is the distinction, by the issuers of those instruments, between financial assets, financial liabilities and residual interests. Financial assets and financial liabilities are distinguished from residual interests because they involve a contractual right or obligation to receive or pay cash or another financial instrument. Residual interests entitle an entity to a portion of another entity's net assets in the event of liquidation and, to dividends or similar distributions paid at management's discretion.

In determining whether a financial instrument is a financial asset, financial liability or a residual interest, an entity considers the substance of the contract and not just the legal form.

Where a single instrument contains both a liability and a residual interest component, the issuer allocates the instrument into its component parts. The issuer recognises the liability component at its fair value and recognises the residual interest as the difference between the carrying amount of the instrument and the fair value of the liability component. No gain or loss is recognised by separating the instrument into its component parts.

Financial assets and financial liabilities are initially recognised at fair value. Where an entity subsequently measures financial assets and financial liabilities at amortised cost or cost, transactions costs are included in the cost of the asset or liability.

The transaction price usually equals the fair value at initial recognition, except in certain circumstances, for example, where interest free credit is granted or where credit is granted at a below market rate of interest.

Financial assets and financial liabilities are subsequently measured either at fair value or, amortised cost or cost. An entity measures a financial instrument at fair value if it is:

- a derivative;
- a combined instrument designated at fair value, i.e. an instrument that includes a derivative and a non-derivative
- host contract;
- held-for-trading;
- a non-derivative instrument with fixed or determinable payments that is designated at initial recognition to be
- measured at fair value;

Notes to the Annual Financial Statements

- an investment in a residual interest for which fair value can be measured reliably; and
- other instruments that do not meet the definition of financial instruments at amortised cost or cost.

Financial assets and financial liabilities that are non-derivative instruments with fixed or determinable payments, for example deposits with banks, receivables and payables, are measured at amortised cost. At initial recognition, an entity can however designate such an instrument to be measured at fair value. An entity can only measure investments in residual interests at cost where the fair value of the interest cannot be determined reliably.

Once an entity has classified a financial asset or a financial liability either at fair value or amortised cost or cost, it is only allowed to reclassify such instruments in limited instances.

An entity derecognises a financial asset, or the specifically identified cash flows of an asset, when:

- the cash flows from the asset expire, are settled or waived;
- significant risks and rewards are transferred to another party; or
- despite having retained significant risks and rewards, an entity has transferred control of the asset to another entity.

An entity derecognises a financial liability when the obligation is extinguished. Exchanges of debt instruments between a borrower and a lender are treated as the extinguishment of an existing liability and the recognition of a new financial liability. Where an entity modifies the term of an existing financial liability, it is also treated as the extinguishment of an existing liability and the recognition of a new liability.

GRAP 104 requires extensive disclosures on the significance of financial instruments for an entity's statement of financial position and statement of financial performance, as well as the nature and extent of the risks that an entity is exposed to as a result of its annual financial statements. Some disclosures, for example the disclosure of fair values for instruments measured at amortised cost or cost and the preparation of a sensitivity analysis, are encouraged rather than required.

GRAP 104 does not prescribe principles for hedge accounting. An entity is permitted to apply hedge accounting, as long as the principles in IAS 39 are applied.

This Standard has been approved by the Board but its effective date has not yet been determined by the Minister of Finance. The effective date indicated is a provisional date and could change depending on the decision of the Minister of Finance.

The effective date of the standard is for years beginning on or after 01 April 2012. The entity has adopted the standard for the first time in the 2013 annual financial statements. The impact of the amendment is not material.

GRAP 105: Transfers of functions between entities under common control

The objective of this Standard is to establish accounting principles for the acquirer and transferor in a transfer of functions between entities under common control. It requires an acquirer and a transferor that prepares and presents financial statements under the accrual basis of accounting to apply this Standard to a transaction or event that meets the definition of a transfer of functions. It includes a diagram and requires that entities consider the diagram in determining whether this Standard should be applied in accounting for a transaction or event that involves a transfer of functions or merger.

Notes to the Annual Financial Statements

It furthermore covers Definitions, Identifying the acquirer and transferor, Determining the transfer date, Assets acquired or transferred and liabilities assumed or relinquished, Accounting by the acquirer and transferor, Disclosure, Transitional provisions as well as the Effective date of the standard.

The standard was approved but the effective date is not known yet.

GRAP 106: Transfers of functions between entities not under common control

The objective of this Standard is to establish accounting principles for the acquirer in a transfer of functions between entities not under common control. It requires an entity that prepares and presents financial statements under the accrual basis of accounting to apply this Standard to a transaction or other event that meets the definition of a transfer of functions. It includes a diagram and requires that entities consider the diagram in determining whether this Standard should be applied in accounting for a transaction or event that involves a transfer of functions or merger.

It furthermore covers Definitions, Identifying a transfer of functions between entities not under common control, The acquisition method, Recognising and measuring the difference between the assets acquired and liabilities assumed and the consideration transferred, Measurement period, Determining what is part of a transfer of functions, Subsequent measurement and accounting, Disclosure, Transitional provisions as well as the Effective date of the standard. The standard was approved but the effective date is not known yet.

Interest rate risk

As the entity has no significant interest-bearing assets, the entity's income and operating cash flows are substantially independent of changes in market interest rates. The scenarios are run only for liabilities that represent the major interest-bearing positions. Based on the simulations performed, the impact on post-tax surplus of a 1% shift would be a maximum increase of R (1 532) (2012: R (2 807)) or decrease of R 1 532 (2012: R 2 807), respectively. The simulation is done on an annual basis to verify that the maximum deficit potential is within the limit given by the management.

Credit risk

Credit risk consists mainly of cash deposits, cash equivalents, derivative financial instruments and trade debtors. The entity only deposits cash with major banks with high quality credit standing and limits exposure to any one counter-party.

Trade receivables comprise a widespread customer base. Management evaluated credit risk relating to customers on an ongoing basis. If customers are independently rated, these ratings are used. Otherwise, if there is no independent rating, risk control assesses the credit quality of the customer, taking into account its financial position, past experience and other factors. Individual risk limits are set based on internal or external ratings in accordance with limits set by the board. The utilisation of credit limits is regularly monitored.
