2022-10-10 10:15:35	North West		City of Matlosana		No I do not	The Bill in entirety	Stop trying to fast track a bill to avoid public participation. The FICA act is stringent enough on the registration of finances. Punishing NGPs for sending monetary help to South Africa at a time when our country desperately needs it is not the answer. 2022-10-10 09:14:28	Gauteng		Ekurhuleni	Boksburg	No I do not	The Bill in entirety	This seems to be a follow-up from the previous 'Terrorist' amendments from last week. We must stop the state from controlling NGOs and persecuting the populous financially based on what the state may define as 'Terrorism' in the future.	Steven	employed individual

2022-10-09 18:00:15	Gauteng		City of Joburg	Johannesburg	No I do not	The Bill in entirety	This Bill had been rushed through to avoid the graylisting deadline, which has been known of for a very long time. The work on it is also rushed as it is ill thought out - unless the government means to put in place measures to shut down any NGO or NPO it doesn't like or that doesn't agree with it's opinion. It also puts an unreasonable amount of legislation and red tape in place that hinders the good work of NPOs and restricts normal people from doing their business. Surely there are better ways to go after criminals, maybe by starting to root them out of government? I oppose this bill.	John	employed individual
2022-10-09 17:54:08	Western Cape		City of Cape Town		No I do not	The Bill in entirety	Yet another idiotic idea. This is just going to overburden businesses even more than they already are. The problem is that for decades we have had an inept government who care more about their own pockets than they do about the country and the people. This bill is not going to fix decades of failure and corruption. So I say no to this bill in its entirety.	Nicole	employed individual

2022-10-09 16:56:25	Western Cape		Hessequa		No I do not	The Bill in entirety	NPOs and businesses in this country are overburdened with administrative tasks that achieve nothing but provide "employment" to people in an already massively over sized bureaucracy. This Bill seeks to impose even more of a burden which will waste yet more value resources, and fail miserably in achieving the stated goal. Rather hold the State Organisations, responsible for policing and intelligence gathering, accountable to their tasks. Ruthlessly weed out the corrupt and ineffective from their ranks, and our country will soon be elevated from her shameful position with regard to terrorism-related activities.	Michael	retired

2022-10-05 11:49:44	Gauteng		City of Joburg		No I do not	amending the Companies Act	The decision to make company ownership publicly accessible or upon request is a risk to business owners. There is already a high increase in the number of theft and kidnapping related crimes that are committed through criminals having access to information that is submitted by these companies unnecessarily for compliance, such as Stats SA, Turnover to CIPC and the like. This information is not kept private. Another example of unnecessary government procedures is the Compliance Order requests from COIDA such as submission of 5 years financials. Why does COIDA need a companies financials. The misuse and abuse of ownership information will be widespread if this is passed. In fact, there should be more privacy on directorship as well. This information should only be public if a person chooses so and not accessible through any CIPC search. Naturally, businesses that require their information to be public for audit or otherwise will choose so and a company that wants to protect the identity of its directors will not (companies such as security companies, tobacco manufacturers and other high life-risk businesses)	Waseem	business owner

2022-10-03 10:05:21	Gauteng			Not fully	The Bill in entirety	I have noticed,that every time government applies a new regulation it involves the public having to waste even more time complying,not only time but with most financial regulations it involves paying a professional to help. This has happened several times in my industry. The point is that ,it never becomes easier and more efficient. Every time without fail it becomes more complicated, frustrating and costly. Think of a non profit,that runs on almost no money,now they will have to produce more documents and information,when they are running around trying to raise money to stay afloat. Think of an innocent family trust,that is set up to protect that persons children. How many more hoops must that person jump through now-as they already have to produce all sorts of trustee meetings and financials etc etc etc. Etc etc. Eventually,south africans will not be able to work or run a business,as they will be too busy satisfying sars or other departments with more and more documents and having to engage the help of professionals more and more at a greater and greater cost.
