FOREWORD

This Annual Performance Plan (APP) is a derivative of the Five Year Strategic Plan of the National Library of South Africa (NLSA). It outlines risk based targets set to achieve the strategic objectives. It also contains the technical indicators of each strategic objective. The objectives are informed by the national priorities of Government which are in the National Development Plan particularly chapter fifteen (15) of the plan and more specifically the Department of Arts and Culture (DAC) strategy. These plans are congruent to the Sustainable Development Goals of the United Nations.

The APP is the implementation blueprint that will be used to direct the NLSA to fulfil its legislative mandate of collecting, preserving, making available and promoting awareness of the national documentary heritage and to provide for matters connected therewith. It serves as a barometer that primarily assess progress in terms of the performance of the National Library. The Plan has been drafted with the inputs of all the relevant Non-Executive Directors (NEDs) and Executive Directors of Sections who are committed to achieve the set objectives.

Measurement of performance will be monitored on a monthly and quarterly basis and will be consolidated in the Annual Report of the NLSA. The Plan has been developed with the anticipation that the required infrastructure and resources will be available to assist the NLSA to achieve its objectives. The Board and Management of the National Library of South Africa are confident that this will be possible with the positive support of and collaboration with the Department of Arts and Culture.

The NLSA operates on three sites which complement each other. The main site is the Pretoria Campus which is the largest and also functions as the NLSA Head Office. The Cape Town Campus houses the special and rare collections and functions as a research hub used daily by scholars, researchers and the general public. Both sites offer internet access services as well as a wealth of online information available world-wide. The third site is the Centre for the Book which functions as NLSA outreach unit for the promotion of reading, writing and publishing in South Africa. The activities of NLSA on the three sites which contributes towards the achievement of the overall NLSA goals are as follows:

1.7.2 Organisational delivery environment

The NLSA's service delivery platform is structured around core and support services. There are four areas in the institution that deliver on the core business functions stipulated in the National Library of South Africa Act, section 4 (1). In summary these are:

- Bibliographic Services and Collections Management coordinates all activities connected with the collection of published material, renders a national bibliographic service, creates bibliographic records for all items collected and ensures adherence to international standards by promoting universal bibliographic control through the national bibliographic agency.
- Information Access Services, which promotes optimal access to the collections of the NLSA nationally and internationally.
- Preservation and Conservation Services, which enables the NLSA to function as the national preservation and conservation library. The de-acidification plant of the NLSA is the first in Africa and enables the library to treat printed documents by prolonging the lifespan of paper.

- Centre for the Book, which promotes the culture of reading, writing and publishing.

The service delivery platform further provides for five (5) support service structures as strategic partners to the core business functions. The support service departments are:

- Office of the National Librarian & CEO, which provides dynamic leadership to all core and support services and equally engages with the Board of the NLSA as well as relevant organisations nationally and internationally.

- Information and Communications Technology (ICT), which manages support and enhances the services and infrastructure of the NLSA and its affiliates in order to improve and promote access to resources through the provision of innovative technology.

- Finance and Supply Chain Management, which ensures sound financial management and full compliance with relevant legislation and/or regulations and sound budgeting to enable the institution to deliver on its mandate.

- Human Resources Management, which is set out to recruit and retain the services of suitably qualified individuals who will add value and live the shared and unified values of the NLSA.

- Corporate and International Relations, which ensures that the NLSA achieves visibility and impact by creating awareness of the services and products of the NLSA while building collaborations on both national and international fronts.

The NLSA operates in an environment that is dynamic and driven by technology. Limitations on financial resources hinder the need to expediently make the necessary investments in ICT and skills development for staff thereby reducing the entity to a level where it manages the status quo rather than fully executing the legislative mandate.

1.8. Overview of the 2019/20 Budget and MTEF Estimates

1.8.1 Expenditure trends to Strategic Outcome Orientated Goals (SOOGs)

The growth rate of income in the past three years prior to the 2018 budget cuts has gradually increased by an average percentage range of five (5) percent. The active and primary source of sustainable income is the Government Grant received through the Department of Arts and Culture. This income source is mainly used to fund the operations of the NLSA, with a separate capital budget made available for facilities management through the User Asset Management Plan (UAMP). Subsequent to the budget cuts on the National Government Grant, it has become apparent that the NLSA may not have the resources to effectively deliver on the mandate

The mandate of the NLSA remains unchanged, the organisation continues to collect, record, preserve and make all published and unpublished documents accessible, which emanates from and relates to South Africa. Effective performance on the task entrusted with the NLSA by the Legal Deposit Act and the National Library of South Africa Act requires a continuous investment in IT systems, equipment and support infrastructure. Our collections are increasing each year, and past collections are kept and this creates pressures on the support infrastructure available to preserve and make available that which has been collected. Consequently, the institution will be under tremendous pressure in terms of service delivery if the budget baseline is not improved to cater for the increase in collection each year. At worst the budget cuts experienced in 2018 had negative causes on the legislative priorities of the NLSA.

The statutory requirement for the NLSA to make accessible all documents that emanates from and relates to South Africa remains a focus and of strategic priority to the organisation. To succeed and ensure a broader reach of citizens and other users of the National Library collections, investment in Information Communication & Technology Systems and broad based brand awareness is critical.

The historic trends depicted by the budget highlights that in the past, much of the funding received was adequate to fund the main operations of the organisation. Should all continue in the same path and revenues from the Government Grant grow at the reduced rates, taking into account the budget cuts this income limitation will inhibit the effectiveness of the NLSA to service its mandate.

Opportunities to supplement the government grant are planned by the NLSA; this includes identifying new income streams, maximising on the current sources of revenues and prioritising our budget savings towards ensuring continuous performance of the organisation against the mandate. The returns on the implementation of these revenue streams will be gradual, and it is likely that in the medium term, the NLSA will continue to experience the financial difficulties at hand. We also have to maintain high levels of quality spending and resource utilisation. The NLSA has control of attractive facilities located in business centres at the two cities which we are making available for hire. The venue hire includes the committee rooms for meetings, the Auditorium at both Cape Town and Pretoria. We are further investigating expansion of preservation & conservation sales services.

The costs of employee compensation remain dominant on the total funding available for the operations of the NLSA. This element of costs was on average at seventy two percent, and is expected to grow over the medium term budget period at a rate above the income growth. The NLSA is currently without a reliable asset plan or funds to service its long term obligation pertaining to the post-retirement employee benefit plan. Options are being considered, together with the Department of Arts and Culture. The option of a full settlement through a cash pay-outs or combination of cash-pay-outs and other benefits appears attractive.

Inflation continuously erode the slow growing income available to the NLSA. The impact of this to the strategic outcome orientated goals is considerable, since this have caused the NLSA to temporarily cease the purchase of monographs and hinders the expansion of other services including conserving the collections, and hinders information access .

1.8.2 Expenditure Estimates: Budget Narrative

The Expenditure estimates have been revised downwards by 3% following the expenditure cuts which the DAC communicated for the medium term 2018/19 – 2020/21. The reduction effectively left the NLSA with a projected average growth in government appropriation of 2% over the MTEF period. It follows that the funding for operational budget will be severely affected by the reduction. The NLSA is unable to match a 7% growth rate in personnel costs as in the past without sacrificing spending on Goods and Services. Severe costs cutting measures will be required to match price changes on the supply of goods and services and implement proposed salary adjustments.

It therefore suffices that measures to contain the cost of doing business be identified swiftly and these be communicated to the affected parties including Labour, the Department of Arts and Culture and employees. The NLSA will continue implementing budget rationing, especially on expenditure activities including telephone cost, travelling, water and electricity. Book acquisition by way of purchase will have to remain suspended for a while. Journals subscription, including other serials procured by the NLSA must be reviewed with an intent of sustaining only legal deposits and other critical subscriptions.

To respond to the pressures of the budget cuts, the NLSA will have to review the organisational structure for optimal utilisation of the human resource capital. Work responsibilities and assignments must be fair to the costs of each position identified on the organogram and this will have to be consistently applied across all programmes of the NLSA. The model adopted in the past for the hiring of unskilled or inexperienced workers must be revised. The NLSA must continue the implementation of an internship programme as a means of acquiring the supply of workers needed for business requirements while easing the pressure on the payroll. Managerial positions must be identified for a “business process” rather than “a function” in a business process. The HR unit must explore various interventions that will ensure productivity and excellence in business operations. Wage negotiations must kick-start early and should be on the basis of fairness, honesty, mutual respect and in the best interest of the organisation. The current budget estimates, after the budget cuts, permit a five percent (5%) personnel costs increase for the financial year 2019/2020. To achieve the 5% adjustment, the NLSA opt to re-organise its workforce and avoid high vacancy rates.

Major projects

- The Mzansi Libraries on Line (MLO) project came to an end in in November 2018. The NLSA and the Department of Arts and Culture are together working on a sustainability plan to continue the life of the MLO project.
- Funding of R32 Million for the implementation of GRAP 103 was received upfront in 2017/18 from the Department of Arts and Culture. This is planned for utilisation over the three year period from 2017/18 - 2019/20. It is anticipated that the work of the project may continue beyond the planning period.
- The NLSA received its last tranche of the fund allocation from the National Lottery in 2017/18 for the digitisation-project. The project funding has ceased, and no projections are included in the budget estimates table hereunder.

Motivation

11. Factors considered in determining the quantitative threshold in procedure 3, 4 & 5 in terms of Proviso 11 of the Policy

a. The primary source of revenue, the NLSA is funded mainly from a transfer income received from the department of arts and culture. This is expected to remain and grow steadily over the foreseeable future.

b. Statutory compliance requirements, the NLSA is listed in the PFMA as a schedule 3A public entity and thereby required to comply with certain provision of the act and its regulation. The NLSA is governed by the National Library of South Africa Act, Act No. 92, 1998. This contributes to the compliance risks inherent to the National Library

c. The Governance structures, recent appointments were made to the governance structure of the National Library including the executives, thereby impacting the strength of the control environment. The National library has in place all assurance providers including the structures providing independent assurance, e.g. the Internal audit and Auditor General

d. Interest of stakeholders to the NLSA, a key performance indicator at the NLSA is the ability of the organisation to properly manage its finance and deliver on its mandate without committing to budget overruns. There are no expectations for the realisation of a budget surplus

Glossary of Risk Management Terms

1. INTRODUCTION

1.1 There is a risk in everything that the NLSA does and each member of staff must learn how to identify risks in their work environment and how to reduce the impact of such risks. It is important for an NLSA to have a clearly established strategy in relation to risk management as it should serve as a guideline towards implementation of Risk Management processes within the NLSA and should be based on the overall approach of the NLSA towards risk and risk management.

1.2 Section 38 (1) (a) (i) of the PFMA requires the Accounting Officer to ensure that the entity has and maintains the effective, efficient and transparent systems of financial, risk management and internal controls. The Risk Management Strategy describes risk management process in the eight components below for achieving this. The Risk Management Strategy will include details of what the entity is seeking to achieve with respect to risk management and established the way in which risk management activities are aligned with the other activities in the entity and the contribution that is expected from risk management activities.

1.3 The risk management strategy and risk management implementation plan are developed together to ensure connectivity and continuity. Both documents will be presented to the Risk Management Committee for adoption and approval by the Accounting Officer and reviewed on an annual basis.

1.4 The strategy is informed by the risk management policy and the NLSA risk profile. The detailed implementation of this strategy will be covered in the annual risk management implementation plan as annexure A.

1.5 The strategy will be communicated to all officials to ensure that the risk management strategy is incorporated into the language and culture of the NLSA.

2. LEGISLATIVE MANDATE AND SOURCES OF INFORMATION

2.1 The implementation of Risk Management process is been guided by the following governance prescripts:

- National Library of South Africa Act
- Public Finance Management Act 1 of 1999 ,
- Treasury Regulation March 2005
- Public Sector Risk Management Framework,
- COSO Enterprise Risk Management – Integrated Framework 2004,
- The International Standards Organisation (ISO) 31000 of 2009,
- King IV on Corporate Governance 2016
- NLSA Strategic Plans 2015-2020

3. COMPONENTS OF RISK MANAGEMENT

• Risk management is an ongoing process at every level, and consists of eight interrelated components, namely:

- The Control Environment;
- Objective Setting
- Risk Identification
- Risk Assessment
- Risk Responses
- Information and Communication
- Control Activities
- Monitoring & Reporting

3.1 Control Environment

• The NLSA's control environment is the foundation of risk management, providing discipline and structure. The control environment influences how strategy and objectives are established, NLSA activities are structured, and risks are identified, assessed and acted upon. It influences the design and functioning of control activities, information and communication systems, and monitoring activities.

• The NLSA shall at all times, promote a positive control environment, which comprise amongst others the establishment of ethical values, competence building and development of personnel, proper delegations of authority and responsibility.

• The NLSA will consider risk management processes as part of the strategic and daily operations of the NLSA. Risk tolerance level shall be adhered to for each key activity during risk assessment process. A code of conduct, policies and procedures shall be communicated to all staff members and action taken against those who fail to comply with the set policies and the code of conduct.

• A performance management system shall be put in place and implemented. Such a performance management system shall include the assessment of management on risk management.

• The NLSA shall conduct a control environment survey to assess, amongst others the following:

- Risk Management philosophy and culture
- Integrity and ethical values
- Organisational structure (planning, executing, control and monitoring)
- Delegation of authority and responsibility
- Commitment to comply with Acts, policies and procedures.
- Staff competency

○ Strategic Planning processes, etc.

3.2 Objective Setting

• Risk management is very crucial in strategic planning and budgetary process to ensure that strategic planning and budgetary processes are consistent with the NLSA's risk tolerance. "Objectives must exist before management can identify events potentially affecting the achievement of their objectives. Risk and exposures shall be identified in the formulation of objectives.

• The following NLSA objectives that are for formulated at three levels (i.e. Strategic, Tactical/Programme and Operational level) will be used during the Risk Identification process.

Level 1: Objective Setting at Strategic level

In 1998, The South African Library and the state Library referred to in section 2 of the National Libraries Act, 1985 (Act No. 56 of 1985), were amalgamated to form the National Library of South Africa. The National Library consists of campuses, Pretoria (Head Office) and Cape Town. The NLSA Vision and Mission after this amalgamation is as follows:

NLSA Vision and Mission Statement

- The Vision of the NLSA
 - A world-class African National Library and information Hub.
- The Mission of the NLSA
 - We build, record, preserve, conserve and make available a complete South African documentary heritage fostering a reading nation towards an informed citizenry.

NLSA Strategic Outcome Orientated Goals

Outcome 1: Build, Preserve, Conserve and maintain a complete collection of South African intellectual heritage and render a national bibliographic service.

Outcome 2: Provide universal access to library and information services and develop a reading nation.

Outcome 3: Sustained delivery on the NLSA mandate.

Outcome 4: Serve as a catalyst of library and information services in the global arena.

NLSA Strategic Objectives

The NLSA is committed to meeting the following specific objectives:

- To contribute to socio-economic, cultural, educational, scientific, and innovation development
- Therefore, the NLSA should identify risks at a "strategic level" that might impact on the achievement of the above mentioned strategic outcome oriented goals.

Level 2: Programme Strategic Objectives

The following are the strategic objectives at a programme level

a) Administration

- Promote strategic leadership in Library and Information Services, sound corporate governance and administration support

b) Business Development

- Develop, preserve and protect South Africa Intellectual heritage

c) Public Engagement

- Ensure universal access information and promotion of the culture of reading, writing and publishing in South Africa.

Therefore, based on the above strategic objectives, the NLSA should identify risks at "Programme/Branch Level" that might impact either positively or negatively on achievement of strategic objectives.

Level 3: Measurable Objectives/ Programme Performance Indicators

Measurable objectives are defined as specific quantifiable results or outcomes that can be achieved within a foreseeable time period. A measurable objective is a very specific objective linked to a programme or a sub-programme. Measurable objectives may also focus on more general operational issues.

Measurable objectives provide a basis for the formulation of programme and/or sub-programme output and service delivery targets. Measurable objectives will therefore be used as the basis for budget allocation decisions, monitoring service delivery, and performance reporting on a quarterly and annual basis.

Therefore operational risks relating to processes, people and systems should be identified at an "operational level" that might impact either positively or negatively on achievement of measurable objectives. Examples identification of incidents, occupational health and safety risks etc.

3.3 Risk Identification

Risk identification shall be conducted at least annually, as required in terms of the prescripts of good corporate governance. The NLSA shall identify and assess risks/events that might influence (positive/negative) the NLSA in achieving its objectives. These includes strategic outcomes, strategic objectives and measurable objectives as stated in component one (1) above. Risk identification shall therefore be conducted in the form of:

• A Formal Strategic Risk Assessment Workshop (At Strategic Level).

The strategic risk identification shall be conducted during the NLSA wide strategic planning that includes the SWOT analysis because of the following reasons;

- To align strategic risks to the NLSA strategy as well as to determine possible associated costs.
- It is practically important to consider risks when planning or developing objectives in order to ensure proper action plans are developed; besides.
- The risk management process entails planning, arranging and controlling of activities and resources to minimise the impacts of all risks to levels that can be tolerated by stakeholders.

• Individual Sessions For Risk Identification At (Programme Level)

This is to ensure that responsibility and accountability is established for critical risks at programme level.

This is also to ensure elimination of management controls that no longer serve a risk control function and only stifle efficiency.

• Risk Assessment of Individual Function/s Within The Sub-Programme At Operational level

Risk management must be integrated with and supportive of other processes of managing NLSA activities and shall be documented and communicated to all staff.

Such information is required to facilitate decision making and the monitoring of the operating activities and supporting processes.

The timing of the risk identification must fall before commencement of the annual budget process. This is intended to enable the financing of the risk management strategies and control systems that should be implemented in order to mitigate identified risks.

Risk shall be identified for all new activities, to ensure that adequate systems are designed to address emerging risks. Emerging risks shall be identified, documented and managed on continuous basis.

During the phase of risk identification, management shall consider both external and internal, as well as financial and non-financial factors that might influence (positively/negatively) the NLSAs in achieving its objectives. Identifying major trends and their variation over time is particularly relevant in providing early warnings.

Some external factors to be considered for potential risks include:

- o Political: the influence of international governments and other governing bodies;
- o Economic: international, national markets and globalizations;
- o Social: major demographic and social trends, level of citizen engagement; and
- o Technology and 4th Industrial Revolution
- o Environmental factors-(Climate change, Global warming and climate control)

Internal factors reflect management's choices and include such matters as:

- o The overall management framework;
- o Governance and accountability frameworks;
- o Level of transparency required;
- o Values and ethics;
- o Infrastructure;
- o Policies, procedures and processes;
- o Human resource capacity; and
- o Technology.

The specific internal factors for National Library of South Africa' risk management identification shall be determined by reference to the following:

- o Strategic Objectives and Performance Plans;
- o Organisational structure and therefore the various business units;
- o Legislative and regulatory requirements;
- o Previous Financial statements, annual reports;
- o Auditor General reports;
- o Fraud and corruption related incidents;
- o Budget information;
- o Organisational Policies and Procedures etc.

Business Process Identification and Description. This includes:

- a. Establishing Management objectives and plans for each functionality or business unit;
- b. A description and mapping of the business processes;
- c. Ascertaining critical activities within each functionality;
- d. Identifying the business processes within each critical activity and
- e. Identifying value drivers

Other possible methods of identifying risks, sources of risk, and areas of risk impact as well key questions that can be used to identify and control risks are attached as "appendix ii" of this framework.

Risk Categories

As the risk environment is so varied and complex it is useful to group potential events into risk categories to get a more manageable risk register with greater possibility to overview risks. By aggregating events horizontally across an institution and vertically within operational units, Management develops an understanding of the interrelationship between events, gaining enhanced information as a basis for risk assessment. It is easier to get an overview of a large number of risks if they are grouped.

A good risk categorization system assists to:

- a) Simplify risk identification;
- b) Identify gaps between risks;
- c) Identify dependencies, redundancies and correlations between risks.

The following risk categories will be used during risk identification and risk assessment stage.

Refer to appendix iii for a detailed risk categories and descriptions

3.4 Risk Assessment

Risk assessment allows the NLSA to consider how potential events might affect the achievement of objectives. Management assesses events by analysing the likelihood and its impact. NLSA is required to continuously assess the risks associated with its activities. The basis for management decisions must therefore include the results of their assessments of associated risks and the expected outcomes.

The risk assessment process includes 4 steps which shall be considered during the risk assessment process:

Step 1: Quantifying the parameters (scoring system) of impact and likelihood before the actual assessment (see the example below

TABLE A : IMPACT SCALE

Impact: impact is the potential loss to the business should the risk materialise. Rated on a scale of 1 to 5
Rating	Assessment	Definition
1	Insignificant	The risk will have a negligible impact on the achievement of objectives / Ignore: impact of adverse event is negligible.
2	Minor	The risk will have a low impact on the achievement of objectives.
3	Moderate	The risk will have a moderate impact on the achievement of objectives.
4	Major	The risk will have a high impact on the achievement of objectives / Major: critical event resulting executive management intervention.
5	Critical	The risk will have a significant impact on the achievement of objectives / Catastrophic: potential collapse of organisation.

TABLE B: LIKELIHOOD SCALE

Likelihood: likelihood is the probability that an adverse event, which could cause materialisation of the risk, may occur. Rated on a scale of 1 to 5
Rating	Assessment	Definition
1	Rare	The risk is unlikely to occur even in the long run / Adverse event will not occur.
2	Unlikely	The risk is unlikely to occur in the next three years / Highly unlikely that adverse event will occur.
3	Moderate	The risk is likely to occur in the next 2-3 years / It is more likely that adverse event will occur than not.
4	Likely	The risk is likely to occur at least once in the next 12 months / Highly likely that adverse event will occur.
5	Common	The risk is already occurring or is likely to occur more than once in the next twelve months / Adverse event will definitely occur.

	21 - 25	Catastrophic
	16 - 20	High
	11 - 15	Medium
	6 - 10	Low
	1 - 5	Insignificant

Step 3: Determining the risk acceptance criteria by identifying what risks will not be tolerated Risk tolerance shall be set to determine the risks that are acceptable and the risks that are unacceptable and the relevant measures thereof. Risks tolerance levels of the NLSA are guided by the following grid

In order to assist in determining risk acceptability, the following thresholds will be used as guidelines

Step 2: Applying the parameters to the risk matrix to indicate what areas of the risk matrix would be regarded as high, medium or low risk (see the example below);

Quantitative Indicator	Qualitative Indicator	Response Option
21 – 25	Catastrophic	The risk should be avoided or action should be taken to mitigate the risk to an acceptable level
16 – 20	High	The risk should be exploited and/or mitigated to an acceptable level
11 – 15	Medium	Action should be taken to reduce risk, and kept on the register for senior management monitoring
6 – 10	Low	Acceptable risk but continue to monitor
1 – 5	Insignificant	No action should be taken or remove from the register

What is acceptable risk?

Determining that a risk is acceptable does not imply that the risk is insignificant. A risk may be considered to be acceptable because:

- The threat posed is assessed to be so low (for an example because the likelihood of occurrence is rare) that specific treatment is not necessary;
- The risk is such that the NLSA has no available treatment, for an example, the risk of a change to a particular project might occur following a change of Government;
- The cost of treating the risk is so high compared to the benefit from successful treatment; or
- The opportunities presented outweigh the threats to such an extent that the risk is justified.

Step 4: Determine control effectiveness and residual risk ratings

TABLE D: CONTROL EFFECTIVENESS

Rating	Effectiveness	Definition
0.1-0.4	Effective	Risk Exposure is effectively controlled and managed
0.41-0.7	Partially Effective	Most of risk exposure is effectively controlled and managed.
0.71-0.9	Poor/Ineffective	Control measures are ineffective.
1	No Controls	There are no current controls in place

3.4.1 Residual risk exposure (Inherent Risk x Control Effectiveness)

a) Control is very good/ always effective = 0.20

- If inherent risk rating is 25 i.e. (impact=5 x likelihood=5), then the residual risk will be 5 = (25 X 0.2)

b) Control is poor/ ineffective = 0.90

- If inherent risk rating is 25 i.e. (impact=5x likelihood=5), then the residual risk will be 22.5 (25 X 0.9)

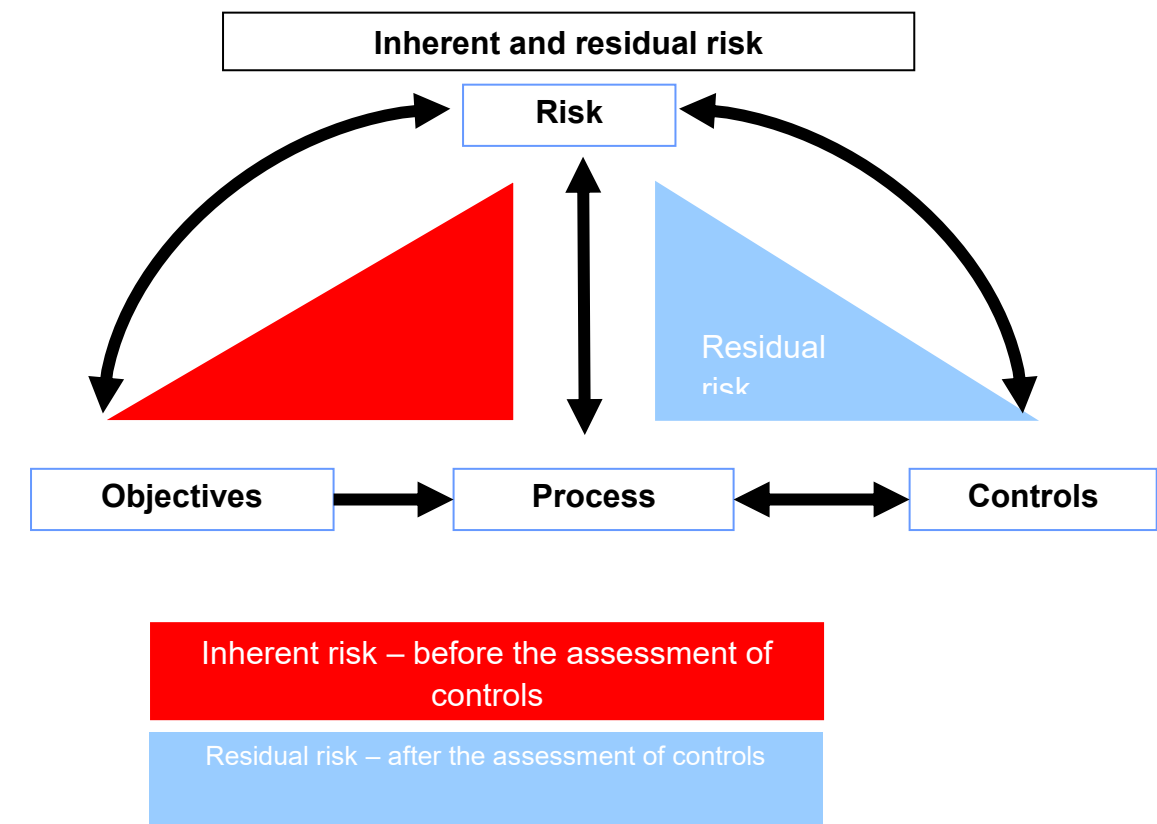

3.4.2 Risk Tolerance

The broad based amount of risk the institution is capable of bearing (as opposed to the amount of risk it is willing to bear).The following is an example of the rating table that will be used to categorise the various levels of residual risk.

The table below indicate the risk tolerance at a residual level.

Risk rating	Residual risk magnitude	Response
15 - 25	High	Unacceptable level of residual risk – Implies that the controls are either fundamentally inadequate (poor design) or ineffective (poor implementation). Controls require substantial redesign, or a greater emphasis on proper implementation.
8 – 12	Medium	Unacceptable level of residual risk – Implies that the controls are either inadequate (poor design) or ineffective (poor implementation). Controls require some redesign, or a more emphasis on proper implementation.
1 - 6	Low	Mostly acceptable level of residual risk – Requires minimal control improvements.

The following diagram differentiates between inherent and residual risk:

3.5 Risk Response

3.5.1 The implementation of an appropriate risk mitigation strategy will be in accordance with the authority delegated to that official in terms of the delegation of authority.

3.5.2 A key outcome of the risk identification and evaluation process including those risks that require treatment as determined by the NLSA's risk tolerance levels. However, not all risks will require treatment as some may be accepted by the NLSA and only require occasional monitoring throughout the period.

3.5.3 The purpose of responding and treating risks is to minimize or eliminate the potential impact the risk may pose to the achievement of set objectives. Risk response involves identifying the range of options for responding to risks, assessing these options and the preparation and implementation of response plans.

3.5.4 The risk response plan usually provides detail on:

- a) actions to be taken and the risks they address;
- b) who has responsibility for implementing the plan;
- c) what resources are to be utilized;
- d) the budget allocation;
- e) the timeframe for implementation;
- f) Details of the mechanism and frequency of review of the status of the response plan.

3.5.5 Responding to risks involves the following key steps;

- a) Identify risk response options
- b) Select risk response options
- c) Assign risk ownership
- d) Prepare risk response plans

- e) Set the time line/due date for the implementation of the response plans

3.5.6 The following risk response options which are self-explanatory should be considered and can be understood to mean the following:

a) Terminate / Risk avoidance - take action to remove the activities that give rise to the risks. Avoiding it altogether by not investing any of the NLSA's resources

b) Treatment / Risk reduction – measures to reduce the threat posed by the risk, either by reducing the likelihood of the risk and/or its impact, or both.

c) Transfer / Risk sharing -transferring the threat by shifting the risk to another party via, for example, contracting out or insurance.

d) Tolerate / Risk acceptance – accepting the risk without taking any action to avoid it, but monitoring the risk and ensuring that the NLSA has the financial and other capacities to cover associated losses and disruptions.

3.5.7 In line with the responsibility for the management of risks, as outlined in risk management policy, management shall be responsible for the detection and prevention of the risks of fraud and corruption. The following key mechanisms will form part of the NLSA strategy to manage the risks of potential corruption and or fraud:

- a) Fraud Risk Assessment
- b) Anti-Fraud and Corruption Policy & Fraud Prevention Plan
- c) Fraud Awareness Programme
- d) Whistle-Blowing Mechanism
- e) Fraud Detection Mechanisms
- f) Strategic Partner(s) for Forensic Investigations

3.6 Control Activities

3.6.1 Risk responses serve to focus attention on control activities needed to help ensure that the risk responses are carried out properly and in a timely manner. Sound risk management and internal control framework, tailored to the specific circumstances of the entity should be part of the daily operational activities of the NLSA, and should not be viewed as something independent from the normal operational activities. Control activities may be the policies and procedures that help ensure risk management strategies are properly executed. They occur throughout the entity, at all levels and in all functions and include policies and procedures, internal controls management supervision and review, application, physical and general controls.

3.7 Information and Communication

3.7.1 The results or information collected during risk assessment will be collated and updated in the risks register. This information will be communicated through the Risk Management Committee (RMC), Audit Committee, Executive Management and the NLSA at large.

3.7.2 The risk profile of the NLSA must be communicated to all managers, including the Chief Audit Executive, in order to inform the audit plans (Risk based audit) within the NLSA. Risk Owners (Programme Managers) should communicate to their staff the results of the risk assessment (risk register) and risk levels that are acceptable to each task or activity and the strategies that are designed to mitigate the risks. The communication of the risk profile is to ensure that employees of the NLSA understand their role in order to add value towards effective implementation of risk management process.

3.8 Monitoring and Reporting

3.8.1 After Risks have been identified and assessed, action plans will be managed, discussed, reviewed at Champion Forum and reported to Risk Management Committee on quarterly basis. Risk owners will be required to submit quarterly reports to Monitoring and Compliance Unit on the management of risks in their respective programme for consolidation and reporting purposes.

3.8.2 The consolidated risk profile and the status report on management of risk will be presented to the Risk Management Committee for discussion, adoption recommendation to the Accounting Officer for approval. The risk profile shall include material risks which have significant impact on the achievement of the entity objectives and the management those risks thereof. The Risk Management Committee is responsible for evaluating and monitoring the quality and reliability of the NLSA management of risks.

3.8.3 The status on implementation of Risk Management process shall be reported to Executive Management regularly for consideration and decision making purposes and Audit Committee on quarterly basis for assurance on the efficiency and effectiveness of risk management process. Implementation on risk management process shall further be reported on other entity structure and published in annual report.

3.8.4 Performance management is a strategic approach to management that equips managers at different levels with a set of tools and techniques regularly to plan, continuously to monitor and periodically to measure and review the performance of an Entity in terms of indicators and targets for efficiency, effectiveness and impact within their own institutions. Entity performance must be linked to individual performance management and performance management must be linked to performance improvement.

• Control effectiveness
The risks of the National Human Settlements shall be classified into Strategic Risks, Branch Risks, Operational Risks and Process Risks.

Strategic Risks

Strategic Risks are external and internal forces that may have a significant impact on achieving key strategic objectives. The causes of these risks include such things as national and global economics and most significantly. Often they cannot be predicted or monitored through a systematic operational procedure. The lack of advance warning and frequent immediate response required to manage strategic risks means they are often best identified and monitored by senior management as part of strategic planning and review mechanism.

Programme Risks

Risks attached to the decision-making, operations and actions at the strategic management level.

APPENDIX I

THE DEFINITIONS OF RISK AND RISK MANAGEMENT

RISK

Risk is “any uncertain event or set of circumstances that, should it occur or fail to occur, would have an effect on the ability to meet the organisation’s objectives”.

The main components of risk therefore are: • The probability of occurrence or non- occurrence

- The root cause of the uncertainty
- The qualitative or quantitative impact.

Operational Risks

Operational risks are inherent in the ongoing activities that are performed in an organisation. These are the risks associated with such things as the day to day operational performance of staff, the risk inherent in the organisational structure, and the manner in which core operations are performed.

Risks at operational level – attached to the daily operations of the NLSA.

RISK MANAGEMENT

Risk Management is a continuous process that can be defined as:

- The identification and assessment of actual and potential risks that the organization may be exposed to,
- Ensuring that appropriate structures, policies and procedures are in place to manage these risks, and

- The design and introduction of controls to pro-actively manage or mitigate the risk probability and impact.

This assessment requires management decisions to accept, avoid, transfer or control the risks, or a combination of these options. Risk Management also includes the identification of areas of opportunity, and therefore the risks that should be taken in pursuance of these opportunities, with appropriate strategies to mitigate against avoidable losses.

APPENDIX II

Possible Methods of Identifying Risks

- Interview/focus group discussion;
- Audits or physical inspections;
- Brainstorming;
- Survey, questionnaire, Delphi technique;
- Examination of local and/or

- overseas experience;
- Networking with peers, industry groups and professional associations;
- Judgmental – speculative, conjectural, intuitive;
- History, failure analysis;
- Examination of personal experience or public entity experience;
- Incident, accident and injury investigation;
- Databank of risk events which have occurred;
- Scenario analysis;
- Decision trees;
- Strengths, weaknesses, opportunities, threats (swot) analysis;
- Flow charting, system design review, systems;
- Analysis, systems engineering techniques e.g. Hazard and operability (hazop) studies;
- Work breakdown structure analysis; and
- Operational modelling.

Possible Sources of Risk

- New activities and services;
- Disposal or cessation of current activities;
- Outsourcing to external service providers;
- Commercial/legal changes;
- Changes in the economic conditions;
- Socio-political changes, like elections;
- National and international events;
- Personnel/human behaviour;
- Behaviour of contractors/private suppliers;
- Financial/market conditions;
- Management activities and controls;
- Misinformation;
- Technology/technical changes, i.e. New hardware and software implementations;
- Operational (the activity itself) changes;

- Entity interruption;
- Occupational health and safety;
- Property/assets;
- Security (including theft/fraud);
- Natural events;
- Public/professional/product liability

Possible Areas of Risk Impact

• A risk assessment should concentrate on all significant possible areas of impact relevant to the organization or activity, and may include:

- Assets and resources, including human, physical, financial, technical and information;
- Cost, both direct (including budget impacts) and indirect;
- Human resources;
- Community groups;
- Minister/Government;
- Performance of activities (i.e. How well activity performed);
- Timeliness of activities, including start-time, downstream or follow-up impacts;
- Organizational behaviour;
- Changes in entity' roles;
- Environment; and
- Intangibles.

Key questions that can be used to identify and control risks

- What, when, where, why and how risks are likely to occur, and who might be involved?
- What is the source of each risk?
- What are the consequences of each risk?
- What controls presently exist to mitigate each risk?
- To what extent are controls effective?
- What alternative, appropriate controls are available?

- What are the entity obligations – external and internal?
- What is the need for research into specific risks?
- What is the scope of this research, and what resources are required?
- What is the reliability of the information?
- Is there scope for bench-marking with peer organizations?

APPENDIX III

RISK CATEGORIES

A Risk Classification is a master list that enables the categorization of all risks identified.

Management of the Entity may recommend changes to the Risk Categories for approval by the Risk Management Committee.

Any changes to the Risk Categories will not constitute a change in the Risk Management Strategy.

APPENDIX IV

GLOSSARY OF RISK MANAGEMENT TERMS

Risk

Risk is “any uncertain future event or set of circumstances that, should it occur or fail to occur, would have an effect (either positive or negative) on the ability to meet the objectives”. It is measured in terms of a combination of the consequences of an event and their likelihood. Note that risk is characterized by uncertainty.

Internal Control Effectiveness

Control effectiveness is an assessment of the effectiveness of existing controls at managing the potential impact of inherent risk. It is assessed on the bases of the existence of controls and a judgment as to their effectiveness.

Opportunity

By opportunity it is meant the management of risk on the upside, focusing on actions taken by management to increase the probability of success and decrease the probability of failure.

Potential Loss

This is the value of the assets that are at risk, before taking into account the probability of the risk occurring. It is the loss that could result if the risk occurred and was not controlled any manner. The identification and evaluation of potential losses is extremely important in that it is used to estimate and justify the expenditure required to prevent or mitigate the risk of loss. The evaluation of potential loss requires the consideration of both tangible and intangible costs.

Residual Risk / Risk Exposure

1. INTRODUCTION

The National Library of South Africa (NLSA) Board Charter sets out the functions and responsibilities of the Board, along with certain matters relevant to the operations of the Board. The Board Charter is subject to the provisions of the National Library of South Africa Act, Act No. 92 of 1998, the Public Finance Management Act (PFMA), Act No. 1 of 1999, Treasury Regulations published in terms of the PFMA, King Reports for best practice, relevant policies developed by the Department of Public Service and Administration (DPSA), Protocol on Corporate Governance in the public sector published by the Department of Public Enterprises, the Department of Arts and Culture (DAC) and government priorities, including the DAC Governance Manual and Principles of Good Governance.

The 2016 King IV Report on Corporate Governance also indicates that at a minimum, the Board Charter should deal with:

- Purpose and objective;
- Roles and responsibilities of the Board;
- Access to Information;
- Communication policy;
- Chairperson's responsibilities; and
- Meeting procedure

The Board is the focal point of good governance in the NLSA. It is ultimately accountable and responsible for the performance and affairs of the NLSA. Delegation of authority to Board Committees or management does not in any way mitigate or dissipate the discharge by the Board and its members of their duties and responsibility. The Board also operates in accordance with set of corporate governance policies which take into account relevant best practice principles.

In general, the Board is collectively responsible for promoting the success of the NLSA by leading and directing the activities of the public entity. The Board should provide strategic guidance to the public entity, and monitor the activities and effectiveness of management. The Board members should act on a fully informed basis, in good faith, with due diligence and care and in the best interest of the public entity, subject to the objectives set by DAC in particular and government in general.

2. PURPOSE OF THE BOARD CHARTER

The purpose of the Board Charter is to provide a concise overview of:

- a) the roles, responsibilities, functions and powers of the Board, individual directors and the officials and executives of the NLSA;
- b) the powers delegated to various Board committees of the NLSA; and
- c) the policies and practices of the Board in respect of matters such as corporate governance, conducting of business of Directors with the NLSA, declarations and conflicts of interest, Board meeting documentation and procedures, composition of the Board and the nomination, appointment, induction, training and evaluation of directors and members of Board committees.

3. BOARD CONSTITUTION/RECONSTITUTION

The process of constitution or reconstitution of the Board shall be done in terms of the NLSA Act, the Handbook for the Appointment of Persons to Boards of State and State Controlled Institutions published by DPSA during January 2009, the DAC Governance Manual and other relevant government policies. In order to avoid leadership vacuum, the process of Board reconstitution of the NLSA will start six months before the term of office of the present Board members expires.

Following the process set out in the foundation legislation of the NLSA and other relevant policy documents, the DAC Minister will appoint the Board members. The screening process will be done before finalising the appointment of Board members. After appointment, the DAC will arrange the induction ceremony of Board members by the DAC Minister.

The NLSA and the DAC: Governance Unit shall keep, and update, the database of all Board members appointed by the DAC Minister.

4. STATUS OF THE BOARD

The Board of NLSA shall consist of people who achieved a distinction in the field of arts, culture and heritage or have shown special knowledge or experience in relation to some aspect of the NLSA's functions.

The Board of NLSA should be effective and efficient, comprising of Non-executive Directors in order to ensure independence and objectivity in decision making. The overall purpose of independence is to ensure that members do not have a relationship where there are, or perceived to be, matters which could interfere with a member of the Board.

A Board should have within its membership the range of expertise and skills necessary to effectively discharge its role. The main factors that contribute to the effectiveness of the Board are the overall suitability of members appointed, their success at working together and the knowledge and skills they acquire while serving as Board members.
