(3)(b) The information, which is required for the reply to paragraph (3)(b), is not captured on the Crime Administration System (CAS), when the crime is registered. In order to obtain this information, dockets at police stations will have to be physically perused and case files will have to be recovered from archives and manually perused, thereby impeding current investigations, which will result in the disruption in service delivery, since it will be tedious and place an unreasonable burden on the resources of the SAPS. Therefore, the SAPS, is unable to provide the requested information.
