Acknowledgements

The Department of Women, Children and People with Disabilities wishes to acknowledge the following parties for their contribution in the development of the National Plan of Action for Children in South Africa (NPAC):

- All government departments who provide inputs into this NPAC during the past nine months.
- Experts in the child rights field that assist with the review of the Discussion Document of the NPAC in July 2012.
- Children who have provided some insights and inputs into the NPAC.
- Civil Society for their contributions.

The Department of Women, Children and People with Disabilities expresses a special word of appreciation to UNICEF South Africa for technical support provided throughout the process of development and reviewing the National Plan of Action for Children 2012-2017.

FOREWORD BY MINISTER LULU XINGWANA

The National Plan of Action for Children (NPAC) is a comprehensive overarching plan that brings together government's obligations in the realisation of the rights of children in the country. The Department of Women, Children and People with Disabilities' mandate is to ensure the promotion, protection and fulfilment of the rights of children and has coordinated the development of this NPAC.

SA has ratified a number of international treaties such as the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child and its Optional Protocols Prohibiting the Sale of Children, Child Prostitution and Pornography and on Involvement of Children in Armed Conflict, the African Charter on the Rights and Welfare of the Child, the United Nations Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities and the Convention on the Elimination of all forms of Discrimination Against Women, which oblige us, together with our Constitution to ensure that children's rights are a reality in their daily lives.

The NPAC was developed with the rights of all children in South Africa at its heart. It looks at the broad areas where we as a country collectively work to make sure that our children are safe, healthy, happy, educated, developed, participate and have an adequate standard of living. Thus, this NPAC strives to give guidance to all spheres of government and partners in the realisation of the rights of every child in the country. Furthermore, through the setting of clear goals, objectives and indicators we can monitor the realisation of children's rights as to make sure that no child is left behind.

Childhood is not stagnant and characterised by ongoing development, change and learning. Similarly we believe that the NPAC is a living document that is responsive to the specific situation of children in the country as we learn, grow and change as a nation.

The success of the NPAC is embedded in the commitment of all government departments at national, provincial and local levels to ensure that they meet their obligations and work together in its implementation. All departments, provinces and municipalities have a role to play in the realisation of children's rights, whether through their legislative frameworks, policies, strategies and programmes.

The Department of Women, Children and People with Disabilities has a responsibility towards the children of the country to develop the institutional mechanisms, mainstreaming and advocacy strategies as well as monitoring and evaluation systems on child rights realisation. Hence, an overarching plan such as the NPAC provides the department with a framework to achieve its mandate.

The NPAC 2012–2017 was developed in close collaboration with government departments as to ensure that existing priorities, programmes and commitments are included as part of this overall plan. It was consulted broadly with provinces, within departments at various clusters (Social, Governance and Administration and Justice) as well as with non-governmental organisations and with children.

Children need an enabling environment to ensure their survival, development, care and protection as well as their full participation in matters affecting them. Children also need to take responsibility and seize the opportunities available to them in order to realize their full potential.

The realization of children's rights can only be attained if pursued through the looking at children in the country through an equity lens.

Our children deserve nothing less!

INTRODUCTION

INTRODUCTION

The provisions on the rights of children have been incorporated into the constitution of South Africa

Over the past decade, there has been increasingly more attention paid to children globally, regionally and nationally with the realisation that they are more vulnerable when confronted with poverty, livelihood securities, social ills and health pandemics.

The commitment to children and their future remains a core value in South Africa. This is reflected in the fact that our children are growing up in a progressive rights' framework based on the South African Constitution and the various international instruments that South Africa has ratified. The Bill of Rights in the South African Constitution specifically guarantees that "a child's best interests are of paramount importance in every matter concerning the child".

By ratifying the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child (CRC) on 16 June 1995, the SA Government committed itself to not only promoting and protecting the rights of children, but also to implementing a "first call for children". This commitment was further reinforced by the ratification of the African Charter on the Rights and Welfare of the African Child during 2000.¹

In view of South Africa having ratified the CRC, it is obligated to develop a Plan of Action for children. The National Plan of Action for Children (NPAC) provides a holistic framework for the integration of all policies and plans developed by government departments and civil society to promote the well-being of children.

The NPAC does not seek to duplicate or replace plans related to children that have already been created by National and Provincial Government Departments, or local Municipalities, but rather seeks to provide a mechanism that enhances coordination, collaboration and mainstreaming of children's rights by providing a holistic framework for the integrated programming, organization and implementation of inter-sectoral programmes for the betterment of the situation of children.²The NPAC is also directly linked to Government priorities and outcomes and as such provides a mechanism to ensure that children are an integral part of these processes.

As mainstreaming lies at the heart of the NPAC, it seeks to provide a framework within which all departments integrate children's issues in their agendas. It further also provides a common agenda of action that can be executed by the provincial and local spheres of government, civil society, and business amongst others.

SECTION 1

1. HISTORICAL OVERVIEW OF SOUTH AFRICA'S NATIONAL PROGRAMME OF ACTION FOR CHILDREN:

Since the advent of democracy during 1994, the Government of South Africa has been active in showing its commitment to protecting children's rights through the development of various institutional processes. These commitments are highlighted as follows:

- During June 1994, former President Mandela made the democratic governments' first commitment to children when he accepted the first draft of the NPA for children in South Africa;
- The NPAC (1996) was developed as part of the collaborative efforts of children's rights activists, the NGO sector and UNICEF.
- Later during 1994, the former President established the Inter-ministerial Cabinet Committee led by the National Department of Health to oversee the development of the NPAC process.
- The Convention on the Rights of the Child (CRC) was ratified during June 1995, and the principle of "a first call for children" became legally binding for the Government of South Africa.
- In April 1996, the NPAC (1996) framework was approved by Cabinet for implementation by the relevant ministries and departments. The NPAC (1996) was identified as the mechanism for integrating all policies and plans developed by government and non-governmental organizations seeking to promote the well-being of children.
- The National Programme of Action for Children was launched in all Provinces during 1996, with the NPA Steering Committee (NPASC) being established and mandated to oversee the process of co-ordination, implementation and monitoring of the National Program of Action. The role of the Steering Committee was also to ensure that the NPA was in accordance with the commitments of the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child.
- In 1998, the Office on the Rights of the Child (ORC) was established in The Presidency to provide leadership on the strategic Agenda of Government on Children's Rights and Responsibilities. The NPAC (1996) was then used as the compass by the Office to assist with the road mapping for service delivery.
- During 1999, an assessment and evaluation of the NPAC (1996) process was undertaken and outlined in a document entitled: "The National Programme of Action: 2000 and beyond", in which organizational structures, goals, objectives and activities were outlined.
- During the Ten (10) year governance review, in 2004, it was decided to intensify the mainstreaming of a child-centred approach in government processes so as to effectively deliver on our national and international obligations.
- In 2011 after sixteen years of democracy in South Africa, the need to review the initial NPAC (1996) gained momentum in line with the mandate of the newly established Ministry for Women, Children and People with Disabilities. The improved circumstances of children undergirded by the development and promulgation of new pieces of legislation relating to children were regarded as central to the review of the NPAC.

2. RATIONALE, STRATEGIC OVERVIEW AND LEGAL FRAMEWORK

2.1 RATIONALE

Why do we need a National Plan of Action for Children?

The status and well-being of children speak volumes about the values and quality of life in any society. In the words of former President Nelson Mandela: “There can be no keener revelation of a society's soul than the way in which it treats its children”. The National Plan of Action for Children (NPAC) is seen an opportunity to enhance the status of children and to improve the quality of their lives.

The National Plan of Action for Children is also a major initiative to monitor progress with the implementation of the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child. The guiding principles of the UNCRC are as follows:

- All children should be entitled to basic rights without discrimination;
- The best interests of the child should be the primary concern during decision making
- Children have the right to life, survival and development
- The views of children must be taken into account in matter affecting them (child participation).

During 2002 South Africa participated in the United Nations Special Session on Children (UNGASS) and acceded to the outcome document, “A World Fit for Children”. The outcome document sets clear targets for child survival, development, protection and participation within the following broad goals:

- Promoting healthy lives
- Providing quality education
- Protecting against abuse, exploitation and violence
- Combating HIV/AIDS

South Africa's commitment to the Millennium Development Goals (MDG's) also has a direct correlation to its commitment to children's rights, as all MDGs have a direct bearing on the rights and well-being of children. The eight MDGs are listed as follows:

1. Eradicate extreme poverty and hunger
2. Achieve universal primary education
3. Promote gender equality and empower women
4. Reduce child mortality
5. Improve maternal health
6. Combat HIV/AIDS, malaria and other diseases
7. Ensure environmental sustainability
8. Develop a global partnership for development

The National Plan of Action for Children 2012-2017 aims to bring together existing international and national priorities for the survival, protection, development and participation of children in South Africa in one coherent framework. It provides, within the broader context of the South African Human Rights Framework, a children's rights impetus to national planning, implementation, monitoring and evaluation of national priorities.

The NPAC 2012-2017 is directly aligned to the following 5 government priorities:

- Education,
- Health,
- The fight against crime and corruption
- Economic growth, decent work and sustainable livelihoods
- Rural development, food security and land reform

These five government priorities seek to streamline the delivery agenda of government as all spheres of government work towards tangible deliverables. Services planned and directed to children are also informed by these five priorities and should be aimed at positively changing the lives of children. .

Not to be quoted or cited

The NPAC is also aligned to the twelve government outcomes and the different themes of the NPAC details the intended purpose for delivering efficient and equitable services to children to achieve the following broad government outcomes, namely:

1. Improved quality of Education
2. A long and healthy life for all South Africans
3. All people in South Africa feel safe
4. Decent employment through inclusive economic growth
5. A skilled and capable workforce to support an inclusive growth path
6. An efficient, competitive and responsive economic infrastructure network
7. Vibrant, equitable and sustainable rural communities with food security for all
8. Sustainable human settlements and improved quality of household life
9. A responsive, accountable, effective and efficient local government system
10. Environment asserts and natural resources that are well protected and continually enhanced
11. Create a better South Africa and contribute to a better and safer Africa and World
12. An efficient, effective and development orientated public service and an empowered, fair and inclusive citizenship

The promotion, protection and fulfillment of children's rights do not happen in isolation from these broader macro commitments and it is thus essential that the mainstreaming of children's rights be regarded as a central principle of the NPAC.

Through mainstreaming, government departments incorporate children's issues into their respective policies, priorities, outcomes and delivery agreements. It calls upon each department to reflect their commitment to South African children with corresponding strategic plans, operational plans, policies, budgetary allocations and monitoring and evaluation systems.

Mainstreaming requires a re-conceptualization on how children's issues are addressed and operationalised by government. By-and-large, children are often thought of as only the concern of the welfare, education and/or health sector. However, all government departments have an important responsibility towards the promotion, protection and fulfilment of children's rights. Many government departments focus on the type of service they are delivering and not who they are delivering the service to. If the citizen on the receiving end is to be considered, then it is clear that children are part of the process of service delivery. Children require, and receive, services from every single department³.

The mainstreaming foundation of the NPAC is essential to ensure its sustainability, coherent implementation and effective monitoring of children's rights in South Africa.

Example:

The Department of Transport is responsible for roads in the country. In order for a child to get to school or to a hospital, she or he requires the use of the roads that are in the country. Furthermore, as one considers the roads being used, so too should one consider the method of transport being used on that road: Is public transport available for that child to use? Is that public transport affordable for that child? Thinking about service delivery in this way clearly illustrates that children are served and affected by this department. Every department has a responsibility to children, and every department must reflect that responsibility in the delivery of their services, and through a concrete budgetary commitment.

³ The Presidency (1999): NPA 2000 and beyond.

2.2 STRATEGIC OVERVIEW OF THE NATIONAL PLAN OF ACTION FOR CHILDREN

Vision of the NPAC: “Put Children First”

Mission of the NPAC: To promote the realization of children’s rights to survival, development, protection, participation and to mobilize resources on all levels.

Guiding principles of the NPAC:

The values of the National Plan of Action for Children are underpinned by the following principles contained in the Convention on the Rights of the Child, namely:

- Best interests of the child

The general principle of the ‘best interests of the child’ is a central and all-embracing principle stipulating that “in all actions concerning children, the best interests of the child shall be a primary consideration”. This principle must be integrated in all legislative frameworks, programmes, projects, services and decision-making processes affecting children.

- Non-discrimination

This principle affords children broad and comprehensive protection against discrimination. It provides that State parties shall ensure that the rights as outlined in the Convention apply to all children within their jurisdiction without discrimination of any kind – race, colour, sex, language, religion, political or other opinion, national, ethnic or social origin, property, disability, birth or other status.

- Right to survival, well-being and development

This principle is premised on the recognition of the right to child survival, well-being and development. The right to life, survival and development can only be implemented in a holistic manner, through the enforcement of all the other provisions of Rights as outlined in national and international obligations, including rights to health, adequate nutrition, social security, an adequate standard of living, a healthy and safe environment, education and play.

- Respect of the views of the child

This principle affirms that children are entitled to express their views in all matters affecting them and requires that those views be given due weight in accordance with the child’s age and maturity. It recognises the potential of children to enrich decision-making processes and to participate as citizens and actors of change.

Strategic Objectives:

- To promote the rights of children within the broader framework of a human rights culture in South Africa;
- To review, analyze and evaluate policies and implementation from a child rights perspective;
- To ensure that the participation of children in all matters that affect them are mainstreamed into the NPAC process as well as government departments;
- To create collaboration and integrated strategies for the protection of children against harmful actions, abuse and exploitation;
- To inform socio-economic and development policy and planning with a children’s rights perspective;
- To ensure that children’s rights are mainstreamed into all government departments and spheres of government;
- To raise awareness on, conscientise, and educate the public about children’s rights;
- To stimulate public debate around children’s issues and children’s rights;
- To provide the necessary framework and guidance for all sectors to achieve these objectives;
- To strengthen institutional capacity at national, provincial and local government levels to promote, protect and fulfil children’s rights;
- To forge strong social alliances with civil society and business at reference group level in support of the NPAC goals and objectives
- To co-ordinate, monitor, evaluate and report on the implementation of programmes and strategies aimed at achieving goals for children;

2.3 LEGAL FRAMEWORK

South Africa’s ratification of international treaties since 1995 relating to children’s rights obligates the country to ensure that its domestic legislation is in harmony with international laws and commitments. Although the National Plan of Action for Children is developed within the context of these treaties, it is firmly rooted in the provisions of the South African Constitution, as well as related domestic legislation and policies.

Not to be quoted or cited

International Treaties and Declarations ratified by South Africa which commit her to the safeguarding, promotion and implementation of children's rights within a broader human rights framework includes, amongst others:

- United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child (CRC)
- Optional Protocol Prohibiting the sale of children, child prostitution and pornography
- Optional Protocol on Involvement of Children in Armed Conflict
- African Charter on the Rights and Welfare of the Child
- Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination Against Women
- Convention against Torture and other Cruel, inhumane and Degrading Treatment or Punishment
- Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities
- United Nations Millennium Declaration

South Africa has a rich legislative and policy environment and many national laws were developed since 1994 that gives effect to the country's constitutional obligations in the promotion, protection and fulfilment of child rights.

For a detailed list on National Laws and Policies impacting on children refer to Annexure A.

3. AN OVERVIEW OF CHILDREN IN SOUTH AFRICA 2012

Despite the significant progress that has been made in addressing the rights and needs of children, including the progressive legislative frameworks and programmes that have been put in place, South African children are still faced with formidable challenges.

The realisation of children's rights are not only fundamental for their development and well-being, it is also pivotal to creating the world envisioned by the Millennium Declaration – a world of peace, equity, security, freedom, respect for the environment and shared responsibility. In short – a world fit for children.⁴

Demographic Profile of Children in South Africa

According to the Mid-year estimates of Statistics South Africa, 2010, there are currently 18, 6 million children under the age of 18 years, with 45% being in the age group of 10-17 years, and 49% of these children being females. The statistics also reveals that the age profile of children is older than initially estimated, and that children younger than 18 years will dominate the age distribution of children in the short to medium term period.⁵

The majority of children reside in Kwazulu-Natal followed by Gauteng and the Eastern Cape. The language most spoken by children in South Africa is Isizulu (29%), followed by Isixhosa (17%), Setswana(11%) and English (10%).

The Child Rights and Equity Review (2011) reveals that a child in the poorest 20 percent of households is two times less likely to have access to adequate sanitation and water; two times less likely to be exposed to early childhood development programmes; three times less likely to complete secondary education; seventeen times more likely to experience hunger; and twenty-five times less likely to be covered by a medical scheme.⁶

The existence of large disparities in children's access to some of the essentials of life, points to a critical policy challenge that requires a more accelerated drive to redress inequities from the past as well as confronting the substantial barriers that the poorest children still face today.

3.1 CHILD SURVIVAL

State parties to recognize that every child has the inherent right to life

3.1.1 Child Health

Child health remains high on government's priority list, as can be seen by the wide range of measures adopted to realise the right of access to health care services. Although free health services are available to pregnant women and children under the age of six years, South Africa is not on track to meeting the required health targets of the 2015 Millennium Development Goals, despite considerable progress being made in this area. (MDG Goal 4: Reduce child mortality)

South Africa is also in a period of profound health transition, characterized by a quadruple burden of communicable, non-communicable, peri-natal and maternal, and injury-related disorders. Non-communicable diseases are emerging in both rural and urban areas, featuring more prominently in poor people living in urban settings. This is resulting in increasing pressure on an already acute and chronic health-care service. The extreme burden of HIV and AIDS and

⁵Statistics South Africa (2010)

⁶ UNICEF (2011)

TB is almost unparalleled globally and the brunt of this is borne by women and children. 43.7% of maternal mortality and nearly 50% of under 5 mortality is attributed to AIDS.⁷

3.1.2 Child Mortality

According to the 2011 Child Rights and Equity Review, 20,000 babies are stillborn and 23,000 die before they reach one month of age. In total, some 75,000 children die before their fifth birthday.⁸ This toll of over 270 maternal and child deaths every day is ascribed mainly due to HIV and AIDS and the poor implementation of existing packages of care. South Africa is one of the few countries in which maternal and under-five mortality has increased since 1990.⁹

Non communicable and communicable diseases including HIV infections remains a challenge with the prevention of mother-to-child-transmission of HIV (PMTCT) being regarded as crucial in supporting child survival. The World Health Organisation suggests that non-communicable diseases have caused 28% of South Africa's total disease burden.¹⁰

As part of their commitment to ensuring health care for all, the Department of Health has developed a strategic plan (2009-2014), outlining a "10 Point Plan" to improve the performance of the health system around the country. The four strategic outcomes for the health sector are as follows:

- increasing life expectancy;
- decreasing maternal and child mortality;
- combating HIV and AIDS; and
- decreasing the burden of diseases from tuberculosis and other communicable and Non-communicable diseases.

3.1.3 Nutrition

The five-year roadmap for Nutrition for South Africa and the draft Strategic Plan for Maternal, Neonatal, Child and Women's Health (MNCWH) and Nutrition in South Africa recognizes that optimal nutrition during infancy and childhood is critical to child health and development. The period during pregnancy and a child's first two years of life are considered a "critical window of opportunity" for prevention of growth faltering. Over one third of under-five mortality is caused by under nutrition, in which poor breastfeeding practices and inadequate complementary feeding play a major role.¹¹

According to the Department of Health, malnutrition is still prevalent amongst children and disparities still persist across provinces. Currently, one in five children are stunted as a result of chronic nutritional deprivation, one in ten children is underweight, and close to 5 per cent of children suffer from wasting and face a markedly increased risk of death. Chronic under nutrition in early childhood results in diminished cognitive and physical development which puts children at a disadvantage for the rest of their lives. Despite the School Nutrition Programme reaching 6 out of every 10 children in public schools, micronutrient deficiencies, particularly vitamin A and iron deficiency doubled between 1994 and 2005.¹²

3.1.4 HIV and AIDS

The Department of Health database (2010) reveals that HIV prevalence among children has decreased since 2002. This can be attributed to an increase in children accessing antiretroviral therapy. Estimates reveal that even though over 100,000 children living with HIV are now receiving treatment, only 54 per cent of children needing antiretroviral therapy were receiving it in 2009. This is however expected to increase because of new treatment guidelines which became effective since April 2010. Overall, there is need for a greater focus on the HIV-free survival among the children.

3.2 CHILD DEVELOPMENT

Every child has the right to education, the right to rest, to engage in play and to participate freely in cultural activities

3.2.1 Early Childhood Development:

The exposure of young children to Early Childhood Development is critical in ensuring that they reach their full potential. According to the National Planning Commission, while only 22,5% of children enrolled in an ECD institution during 1996, this figure dramatically increased to an enrolment of 80,9% during 2007. Despite this improvement, access to Early Childhood Development services remains low across all provinces.¹³

Overall, 43 per cent of children under five years of age are exposed to an Early childhood Development (ECD) programme at home, a centre or elsewhere. There are gaps in ensuring that those practitioners offering the ECD curriculum are adequately equipped, as the model of funding as well as technical support required to expand the ECD sector to rural areas remains a challenge. Children in the poorest households are only half more likely to benefit from ECD programmes than children in the richest households.¹⁴

There has been substantial progress in expanding enrolment in Grade R – from 330 000 in 2003 to 707 000 during 2010. Government subsidies have also given momentum to centre-based care for younger children, though at a much slower pace than Grade R. Currently funding for Grade R is four times more than it was in 2006. (Department of Education, 2012)

It is quite evident that the legislative frameworks, policies as well as challenging programmatic issues should be given serious consideration in order to ensure that ECD programmes benefit the majority of the children in South Africa.

3.2.2 Gender

Despite the Children's Act ushering in significant reform changes in ensuring that children are not subjected to any harmful social, cultural and religious practices, there are still incidences being reported of young boys and girls being subjected to several acts of atrocities that directly violate their rights (Ukuthwala, forced circumcisions). The multi-sectoral approach by various Departments together with the Commission for the Promotion and Protection of the Rights of Cultural, Religious and Linguistic Communities has greatly assisted in addressing these violations.

3.2.3 Adolescent Behaviour

The South African Youth Risk Behavior Survey, 2008, showed that there had been a decline in the number of sexually active learners (from 41% to 38%) in comparison to a previous study in 2002. Of those learners who were sexually active, the number of school learners who had two or more sexual partners in their lifetime was reduced (from 45% to 41%), and less learners had one or more sexual partners during the past three months (from 70% to 52%). Also, for those who were ever sexually active, the incidence of sexually transmitted infections had been reduced (from 7% to 4%), while consistent condom use has increased slightly (29% to 31%).¹⁵

Although these declines may show results in current behavior change programmes aimed at young people, it is not yielding results at scale and other risk behaviors are increasing. For instance, from the 38% of learners who had reported ever being sexually active, 16% did so after consuming alcohol and 14% after taking drugs.

The Youth Risk Survey (2008) also revealed that 15% of learners carried weapons, 19 % participated in gang- related activities and 9% carried weapons on school premises. On suicide related behaviors, 24% reported having experienced feelings of sadness or hopelessness, 21% had considered or attempted to commit suicide. 50% of learners also reported to have ever drunk alcohol and 30% having smoked.¹⁶

Adolescents also enter the correctional system having violated the laws of the country for reasons varying from dysfunctional family life, poverty, peer pressure to unemployment. The majority of adolescents are incarcerated due to economic crimes (theft, robbery). According to the South African Police Service, a total of 75 435 children have been charged during the period 1 April 2010 to 31 March 2011. This total represents all the children charged by the South African Police Service and no distinction has been made between the children arrested, warned or summoned to appear in court. According to the National Prosecuting Authority (NPA) a total of 9 325 children have been diverted during the period 1 April 2010 until 31 December 2010.¹⁷

The Planning Commission (2011) attests to the fact that the scale of social fragmentation and loss of purpose requires a more systematic engagement with both government and non-governmental service providers, as statutory services to young offenders, children, people with disabilities need urgent and well-conceived systematic state and community interventions.¹⁸

3.2.4 Children with Disabilities

Children with disabilities are vulnerable to abuse and exploitation. Early identification of risks and intervention for children with disabilities can prevent and reduce potential damage,

Data analyzed from the 2008 General Household Survey indicates that 10% of children with disabilities in South Africa are not enrolled at school. The percentage of children not attending school is highest in the Northern Cape (27%) followed by the North West (15%) and Gauteng (12%).¹⁹ The most prevalent disabilities among children in South Africa include visual impairment (36%), hard of hearing (22%) physical disability (16%) and intellectual disability (5%). (The Presidency, 2009)

Despite the policy and legislative framework guaranteeing that children with disabilities are admitted and retained at ordinary public schools or at special schools, the implementation of the policy has been described as inadequate. The Department of Education has increased the number of Special Schools from 375 to 392 between 2002 and 2009.

According to the 2010 report on Government-funded programmes and services for vulnerable children, the lack of services and support for children with disabilities in particularly rural areas is described as problematic due to the lack of special needs schools, inadequate and unreachable facilities, and insufficiently trained teachers. Children with disabilities also experience challenges in accessing appropriate assistive devices due to the application process being complicated and the delivery of the devices not always being guaranteed.²⁰

During July 2010, nearly 110 000 children were receiving Care Dependency Grants (CDG), with the majority of recipients of the grants being based in Kwazulu-Natal, followed by the Eastern Cape and Gauteng. According to the Children's Institute (UCT), there has been a consistent and gradual increase in access to the CDG over the past six years.²¹

3.2.5 Children and the Environment

Climate change is one of the defining challenges of the twenty-first century that affect people, especially children in a negative manner, due to their ecosystems and livelihoods being affected by changes in climate such as sudden droughts, floods and habitat change. These changes will thus also have an impact on the possible decline in food security and income. Climate change also has profound implications on the health of children, causing malaria and vector-borne diseases such as diarrhoea, cholera and bilharzias which may increase in the areas where the levels of rainfall (intensity, distribution and annual average) is high. Where this coincides with poor levels of inadequate access to sanitation, the health situation may also face serious risks.²²

According to the Climate Change Report²³ commissioned by UNICEF in collaboration with the Departments of Environmental Affairs and Women, Children and People with Disabilities, the primary impact of climate change on children in SA can be analysed on the basis of changes anticipated over various times scales. With close to 90% of children in Limpopo, 44,7% Eastern Cape and 58,8% Kwazulu-Natal, living in informal housing, sudden and unexpected climate change implies that houses in these areas could be at greater risk of damage as a result of severe weather conditions, given the possible weakness of walls and roofs.

A higher intensity of rain occurs in areas such as Limpopo, Mpumalanga and Gauteng (higher rain combined with poor sanitation and high population density) which can pose a risk to a child's health and survival, either directly through drowning or through the transmission of highly infectious diseases.

In most instances, children are affected by land degradation, soil erosion and lowered agricultural food production which in turn can result in increased vulnerability. The uniqueness of climate change on children requires State involvement and interventions in order to prepare children adequately for adaptation as well as mitigation on climate change impact.

3.2.6 Quality Education

Great strides have been made in Education as universal access and gender parity were almost achieved in schools by 2010, as 99% of children completed grades 1-9. In an attempt to increase access to education, the Department of Basic Education has adopted a policy that children attending schools in the bottom three poorest quintiles are exempted from school fees – the so called “no fee schools”. A fee exemption policy also exists for poor children attending schools outside these three quintiles – and currently one in two children receive free education.²⁴

A strong suite of laws, policies and programmes lays the foundation for getting all school-aged children into schools. Near-universal primary education has been achieved in all provinces, with one in every two learners in public schools receiving free basic education. School attendance among children has increased steadily in the past 15 years, but less so for older age groups, especially those eligible for secondary education.

The Macro Indicator Trends in Schooling Report 2011 reflect that the enrolment figures for children have shown a significant increase over the years, especially the enrolment of 5 (five) year olds at educational institutions. The numbers had since doubled from 39% in 2002 to 78% in 2009. The largest increase being attributed to the phasing in of the Grade R in terms of Early Childhood Education (ECD). Although this indicates a positive move for the country, the challenge is to retain those enrolled to pursue their educational career uninterruptedly up to Grade 12.

Nationwide some 582,000 children are out of secondary school due to lack of money and/or disabilities. Furthermore, children in the poorest households are nearly three times less likely to complete secondary schooling than children in the richest households.²⁵

The current high enrolment rates have unfortunately not matched improvements in educational quality. Children's chances of meaningful learning and a smooth pathway through school remain uneven. Learners' achievements in national and international assessments are also generally poor. Children in the poorest households are more likely to repeat the same grade and tend to have lower achievement levels.

A number of international testing programmes, such as TIMSS, PIRLS and SACMEQ, have demonstrated that South Africa's learner performance in reading, writing and mathematics is well below what it should be. A key problem identified in the past is that there has been insufficient measurement of the quality of teaching and learning below Grade 12.²⁶

While South Africa has exceeded its targets for learner-to-educator ratios, there is an oversupply of teachers in some learning areas and an under supply in other critical areas as mathematics, mathematical literacy, physical science and languages. Qualified teachers are unevenly distributed across districts, with rural schools at a distinct disadvantage. Large class sizes and consequent overcrowding in the early years of schooling impedes critical foundational learning.

Moreover, violence at school is widespread with 27 % of high school learners feeling unsafe at school while 16% have been threatened with a weapon. More than one in ten high school learners has taken at least one illegal narcotic drug or psychotropic substance.²⁷ The Departments of Transport and Basic Education have drafted the National Scholar Transport Policy with the intention to respond adequately to the needs of learners, especially those in the rural areas.

3.2.7 Children living in Rural and Urban areas

Approximately 1.9 million South African households are living in informal dwellings, such as shacks in informal settlements or in backyards. The percentage of households living in informal dwellings gradually increased from 13.0 % in 2002 to 13.4 % in 2009. This has been linked to increased urbanization, especially in Gauteng and the Western Cape.

In South Africa, more than half of children (53 %) live in urban areas – equivalent to 9.75 million children. In Gauteng and Western Cape, around 95 % of children live in urban areas while in Kwazulu-Natal, Mpumalanga and Eastern Cape approximately one in three children live in urban areas. Limpopo is the least urbanised province with only 10 % of children living in urban areas.²⁸

3.2.8 Sport and Leisure

During 2009, a total of 4 million South Africans actively participated in the sport and recreation mass participation programme arranged by the Department of Sports and Recreation, with close to 8 715 school children participating in the national school sport championships. During this period 2 851 schools in the country received sports equipment and training, of which 85 of these schools cater for learners with special education needs. All the schools selected for inclusion in the programmes are mainly located in rural areas.²⁹

Although there has been greater awareness of a healthy lifestyle amongst children, diet-related non-communicable ailments such as obesity, diabetes and cardiovascular diseases accounts for a large proportion of South Africa's disease burden. To encourage the change in lifestyle behavior, the Planning Commission (2011) has proposed instilling a culture of healthy lifestyles by introducing compulsory physical education in all schools by 2020, and encouraging all schools to participate in organized sport activities at local, district and provincial level.³⁰

3.2.9 Culture and Heritage

The opportunity to engage in cultural activities forms part of the child's development rights. According to the National Department of Arts and Culture, the National Heritage Council under its auspices, is responsible for creating an enabling environment for the preservation, protection and promotion of South African heritage. It is also responsible to protect, preserve and promote the content and heritage that resides in orature (oral heritage), and to make it accessible and dynamic to all South Africans including children.³¹

3.3 CHILD PROTECTION

Every child has the right to protection and care

The well-being of children depends on the ability of families to function effectively. Children need to grow in a secure and nurturing environment that can ensure their survival, development, protection and participation in family and social life.

3.3.1 Child Abuse

Parents/caregivers are children's first line of protection and the risks of exploitation and abuse increases when parents and caregivers are absent due to illness, death or abandonment. According to the Crime Statistics Report released during 2010, over 4 000 cases of child neglect or ill-treatment are reported annually. There has however been a decrease in the number of cases reported since 2003. During the 2009/2010 period the highest number of cases were reported in Gauteng (1057), followed by the Western Cape (847) and Kwazulu-Natal (455).

Violence against children is pervasive in the country, with over 56,500 children having reported to be victims of violent crime during the 2009/10 period. Many more crimes remain unreported. Crimes such as child sexual abuse and physical abuse are usually committed by people closest to the children.

The South African Police Service reported that 29% of all sexual offences against children, involved children under the age of 10 years old, 31% between 11-14 years old and 40% involved young people between 15-17 years old.³²

3.3.2 Sexual Exploitation / Child Trafficking

There are currently no accurate official statistics available for commercial sexual exploitation of children. According to the Situational Analysis on children, estimates from the Crime Information Management Centre during 2002, places the number of children who are victims of commercial sexual exploitation at 28 000. The lack of credible statistics can possibly be ascribed to the fact that these activities are regarded as taboo, illegal and are as such kept hidden from the authorities.³³

3.3.3 Refugee Children and Unaccompanied Minors³⁴

Children mainly from Zimbabwe, Mozambique, Swaziland and Lesotho are regularly migrating to South Africa. During the 2008/9 period it is estimated that close to 4 000 migrant children were living independently of close relatives and outside of their country of origin. Also, girls are slightly more likely to migrate independently compared to boys and the likelihood that a child will migrate independently also increases substantially with age. Unfortunately, the exact figures of unaccompanied and separated children, including refugee and asylum seeking children, in the Sub-Saharan region are not known.

Some of the determinants ascribed to child refugees and unaccompanied minors are peer pressure, rights violations and education. Another key determinant is a family's survival strategy as the migration of a child decreases the dependency ratio in the household, even when the child does not earn enough to save (because there is a decrease in household consumption demand).

3.3.4 Child Labour

According to the Department of Labour Survey conducted during 1999, 365 of children under the age of 5 years were engaged in at least one form of work activity. The Department classifies the engagement of work by children as follows: three hours per week for economic activities, seven hours per week for household chores and five hours a week for school maintenance.

The Labour Survey estimated that 847 000 children between the ages of 10 and 17 years were involved in child labour during this period.³⁵ The Department of Labour however believes that close to one million children could be engaged in child labour activities.³⁶

3.3.5 Orphans and Vulnerable Children

According to the Department for Social Development an estimated 3,6 million children are maternal, paternal or double orphans - children who have lost both their parents . This is expected to peak at 5 million in 2020. The number of double-orphans - children who have lost both parents - have nearly doubled from 352 000 to 701 000 in the past five years.³⁷

Indicators for children outline that 1 in every 5 children have lost either one or both parents, while 1 in 3 live with both biological parents. Poor children are less likely to live with their biological parents. The majority of those children not residing with their parents are either residing with their grandparents or with relatives. The AIDS epidemic is an important driver of the growing number of orphans. Some 1.9 million children have lost one or both parents due to AIDS.

The national estimate for HIV prevalence in 2010 was 17,9% (5,575 million people). Of these 518 00 were children under the age of 15 years.³⁸

3.3.6 *Child headed households*³⁹

Between 2002 and 2010 the percentage of children living in child-headed households has consistently remained below 1% of all children, as their numbers fluctuated between 95 000 and 157 000.

During 2010, approximately 0,5% (100,000) of children lived in child-headed households.

The absolute numbers need to be approached with caution as they are derived from percentages which are in turn based on mid-year estimates

Although a larger percentage of children in child-headed households are orphaned compared to children of the general population, approximately one tenth of those children are double orphans; in 63,8% of the cases the parents are still alive. The majority of children living in child-headed households cannot be legally defined as orphans, as they have at least one parent who is still alive.⁴⁰

3.3.7 Children living and working on the Streets

The continually changing, evasive and unpredictable lifestyle of children living and working on the streets has made it impossible to collect accurate and reliable data on them. National estimates from the early 1990's indicate that there might be between 9,000 and 10,000 children living and working in the street nationally, with less than 10 percent of these being children of the streets.⁴¹

The 2001 Census data identified 2 189 homeless children (majority being boys) between the ages of 10 and 17 years, while the 2004 census conducted by the National Alliance for Children living and working in the street, estimated the total number of children living and working in the street to be 13275 at the time of the census.⁴²

A surge in numbers took place when the General Household Survey published during 2007, which found that 6,4 % of households had a child aged between 5 – 17 years that had left the household. This would translate into roughly more than 700,000 children who have not been in their houses for up to a year.

The Department of Social Development has also identified the following four levels of intervention in rendering services to children living and working on the street, namely: prevention, early intervention, statutory services and the continuum of care.⁴³

3.3.8 Substance Abuse

High risk behaviour is a major concern amongst young people in South Africa today, with substance abuse and addiction to dependence producing substances being recognized as a serious health and social problem.

According to the Central Drug Authority Report presented in Provinces during 2009, 15% of South Africa's population has a drug problem, with 60% of crime nationally being related to substance abuse. Dagga remains the drug of choice, with mandrax and "tik" also being used by young people. "Tik" is identified as the main drug of choice for young people in the Western Cape.⁴⁴ The Risk Behaviour Survey conducted by the Medical Research Council (2009) shows that more than 1 in 10 high school learners has taken at least one illegal drug such as dagga, heroin, or cocaine before. Glue is also most commonly used amongst children living and working on the streets as it helps to keep them warm and keeps their stomach full.

The reasons provided for the high and increased usage of dependant producing substances amongst young people is due to the fact that drugs are easily accessible, family history, unemployment, poverty and lack of suitable parenting.⁴⁵

The Department of Education has developed a Policy Framework on the Management of Drug Abuse in all Public Schools and Further Education and Training Institutions. The policy framework encapsulates recommendations made in the National Drug Master Plan and has been distributed to schools throughout South Africa. The policy framework focuses on prevention and early intervention based on a restorative justice approach.

The South African Police Service in collaboration with the Department of Basic Education implements various preventative programmes in support of safer schools. The aim of School Based Crime Prevention Programmes is geared at making schools a safe and secure environment free from drugs, violence and crime, conducive for learning. The relationship has been formalised through the Implementation Protocol on Crime and Violence in Schools which was signed between the both Departments in April 2011, reinforces the partnership through the linking of police stations to schools; establishing Safe School Committees; and implementing joint Crime Prevention. To date 10350 schools have been linked with police stations and have functional Safe School Committees.

The primary focus of the programmes is to build resistance and resilience amongst learners to crime, violence and substance abuse and also from victimisation and offending behaviour.

The preventative programmes are complemented by law enforcement in the form of search and seizure operations in schools focussing on drugs.

3.3.9 Birth Registration

Statistics SA (2010) estimates that 91% of babies born during 2009 were registered by 30 April 2010, and since 2006, over 80% of births have been registered within the year of birth.⁴⁶

There are however differences in registration of births amongst provinces. KwaZulu-Natal, Eastern Cape and more recently Gauteng Provinces, experienced 95% late registration of births, while pockets of poor registration can also be found in impoverished, rural communities. Those who are poorest continue to experience difficulty in accessing documents.

3.3.10 Children in alternative care

The Children's Act (38 of 2005), which came into effect in April 2010, is a significant achievement in law reform in respect of the care and protection of children. The Act adopts a developmental approach that emphasizes the State's role in the provision of social services to strengthen the capacity of families and communities to care for and protect children

According to the Department of Justice⁴⁷ over 88 600 children were found to be in need of care and protection by a children's court during 2009/10, with close to 500 000 being placed in foster care.⁴⁸

Children admitted to registered Child and Youth Care Centres during this period totalled 13, 250, with almost 45% of them being admitted due to abandonment or neglect.⁴⁹

3.3.11 Young people in conflict with the law

The Child Justice Act (75 of 2008) which came into effect during April 2010 has been developed in order to deal with children in a non- adversarial manner and also provides for the diversion of children from the criminal justice system by offering diversion programmes to correct the offending behavior.

During 2008/9, approximately 33,000 children were awaiting trial in detention, either in correctional service facilities; secure care centres, child and youth care centres or under home-based supervision. The number of children in correctional facilities has decreased substantially over the past years as an increasing number of children are placed in secure care centres or diverted from the mainstream criminal justice system. On average 1 900 children per month are diverted from the mainstream criminal justice system and are referred to attend diversion programmes such as life skills or anger management programmes.⁵⁰

3.4 STANDARD OF LIVING

Every child has the right to a standard of living adequate for the child's physical, mental, spiritual, moral & social development

3.4.1 Child Poverty:

According to data analyzed from the 2009 General Household Survey, child poverty was reduced by 13% between 2004 and 2008. Income poverty however remains a part of the inequalities in South Africa and is regarded as a key determinant of children's standard of living. Currently, 11.9 million children (64 % of all children) live in poverty. If the Vision 2014 target is to be met, child poverty has to decrease from the current level of 64 % to 37 % by 2014.⁵¹

Unemployment has also been identified as a key constraint to overcoming child poverty. Overall, nearly four out of ten children live in households with no employed household members. Among the poorest, seven out of ten children live in households with no economically active members.

Reported hunger among children declined from 31 % in 2002 to 15 % in 2007. The gains that have been made are however at risk of being reversed as data shows an increase in child hunger to 22 % in 2009, which could be ascribed to the global economic crisis. Children in the poorest households and female-headed households are significantly more likely to experience hunger. There are also wide disparities across provinces on this phenomenon.

3.4.2 Housing

About 2.8 million children (15 % of all children) have been reached with a RDP or state-subsidised dwelling. Children from middle-income households appear to have received most benefits from RDP or state-subsidised housing. Some 1.7 million children (9 per cent of all children) still live in informal housing such as shacks in backyards or squatter settlements. Children from the poorest households are less likely to live in formal housing.⁵²

3.4.3 Water and Sanitation

Access to safe water and sanitation has improved over the past decade with 83 % of children having access to piped water on site or at a public/neighbour's tap. Access to adequate sanitation for children has also improved from 47 % in 2002 to 64% in 2009. Yet, almost 1.4 million children (8 % of all children) still live in households that rely on rivers or streams as their main source of drinking water. In addition, nearly 1.5 million children (8 % of all children) live in households with no toilet facilities at all.

According to the General Household Survey (2006), the Eastern Cape (32%), Limpopo (32%) and Kwa-Zulu-Natal (47%) have the lowest proportion of children with access to drinking water on site in South Africa, as compared with the Western Cape (93%), Free State (90%), and Gauteng Province (90%).

The Eastern Cape and Limpopo Provinces have also been identified as having the lowest proportion of children living in households with basic sanitation. In fact, among children in the poorest households, only 50 % have access to adequate sanitation.⁵³

3.4.4 Social Security

There has been significant progress in fulfilling children's rights to social security, particularly through the increase in the number of recipients of social grants. This has contributed to the moderate decline in child poverty. The eligibility age range for the Child Support Grant has gradually been extended from 0–6 years in 1999 to 0–17 years from 2012 onwards. The take-up for the Grant has dramatically increased over the past decade, with over 10, 5 million children receiving the grant.⁵⁴

⁵¹ Statistics South Africa (2009)

⁵² UNICEF (2011)

⁵³ Statistics South Africa (2006)

⁵⁴ Jamieson L et al (2011)

During 2010, the number of foster children receiving the Foster Child Grant totaled 510 298, whilst the number of children accessing the Care Dependency Grant during this same period totaled 110 000.⁵⁵ The provincial distribution is fairly consistent with the distribution of children, with Kwazulu-Natal receiving the largest share of Grants due to the Province having the highest number of children in the country.

SECTION 4

The National Plan of Action for Children's primary components is covered in the following parts. It focuses on five broad themes that are further divided into sub-themes within each comprising of specific goals, objectives, strategies and indicators related to the realisation of the rights of children in South Africa. Each section has an indication on the lead government department as well as supporting departments that are responsible for implementation. The roles and responsibilities of each supporting department are further tabulated in line with the core mandate of the specific department.

A1: CHILD, YOUTH AND MATERNAL HEALTH

A. Goals for 2012-2017

- To reduce the child mortality rate to 30 per 1000 live births by 2014⁵⁶.
- To reduce maternal mortality to 100 or less per 100,000 live births⁵⁷.
- To reduce the infant mortality rate to 30 per 1,000 live births by 2015.
- To reduce the Neonatal Mortality Rate to below 10 per 1,000 live births by 2017
- All children have access to a National Health Insurance plan by 2017.

B. Objectives

- To reduce Neonatal Mortality through the implementation of special measures to lower the mortality rate in the first day of life and first week in life.
- To fully immunize at least 100% of children under one year of age against diphtheria, pertussis, tetanus, measles, poliomyelitis, tuberculosis by 2014.
- To fully immunize at least 90% of women of childbearing age against tetanus by 2000.
- To reduce the deaths due to diarrhoea in children under the age of five years by 70% and to reduce the diarrhea incidence rate by 50% by 2017.
- To reduce the deaths due to acute respiratory infections in children under five years by 60% by 2017.
- To reduce the number of new TB infections amongst children as well as deaths from TB by 50% by 2015.
- To reduce the incidence of foetal alcohol syndrome amongst key populations at risk by 80% by 2017.
- To reduce all forms of hepatitis by 60% by 2015.
- To increase the percentage of mothers and babies who receive post-natal care within 6 days of delivery from under 5% to 70%.
- To increase the percentage of health facilities providing training to Health Workers in Emergency Obstetric Care and Comprehensive Emergency Obstetric Care.

C7: CHILDREN LIVING AND WORKING ON THE STREETS

A. Goals

- To protect the rights of children living and working on the street through accessible, integrated and coordinated services focusing on primary, secondary and tertiary prevention⁷¹.

B. Objectives

- To reduce the number of children living and working on streets by 80% by 2017 through appropriate programmes and interventions.
- To establish comprehensive intervention and support programmes that aim to address the rights and needs of children living and working on the street, including early intervention, care and support.
- To ensure the reintegration of children living and working on the streets into their families and or communities as soon as feasible and possibly based on each child's individual needs and circumstances.

C. Strategies⁷²

Key Strategy 1: PREVENTION

- Undertake studies to measure the extent of children living on the streets, and provide disaggregated data by geographical areas including districts.
- Create awareness of the phenomenon of children working and living on the streets and mobilize the community to become involved.
- Develop and strengthen the programmes and structures to address and minimize identified family conditions such as family disintegration, substance abuse, child abuse, neglect, exploitation, HIV/AIDS, child headed households and poverty, and thus minimize circumstances which give rise to children leaving their homes.
- Strengthen the capacity of families to protect and care for vulnerable children by providing economic, psychosocial and other support.
- Improve the economic capacity of households through short-term interventions such as conditional cash transfers, direct subsidies, and material assistance, as well as longer-term interventions such as improving agricultural efficiency, and facilitating access to financial services offered by micro-finance institutions.
- Strengthen and support child-care capacities. This entails improving the quality and reach of government-promoted efforts to support care-givers through schools, pre-schools and social welfare services, as well as to bring to scale community-based efforts to strengthen support. Strengthen and expand existing adoption and foster care mechanisms, and support measures to ensure rapid family placement of abandoned infants.
- Strengthen young people's life and survival skills through formal and non-formal education, vocational training and apprenticeships
- Equip young people's social and interpersonal skills, enabling them to make informed decisions, and develop coping and self-management mechanisms.
- Place preventive initiatives in areas where children living and working in the street are most likely to come from, such as areas of concentrated poverty.
- Raise awareness in communities to help sensitize community members to the special requirements of vulnerable children and avoid stigmatizing of former children living and working in the street.

Key Strategy 2: EARLY INTERVENTION

- Conduct a situational analysis to acquire a common understanding of the factors that fuel the phenomenon, and identify opportunities for mitigation.
- Make contact with children living and working in the street and assess them through street educators, or street-based social workers; each child must be given individualized assessment.
- Offer children living and working on the street flexible alternatives that combine their own perspectives with professional assessment of their needs.
- Encourage the formation of organizations of street and working children to serve as a forum through which the children can express their problems and suggest solutions.

⁷¹ Department of Social Development (2011)

⁷² Ibid

- Provide drop-in centres and temporary Child and Youth Care Centres. These can serve as a first step to leaving the street without compromising the children's independence.
- Provide appropriate diversion programmes for children living and working on the streets who are in conflict with the law, where appropriate, linking them to drop-in centres

Key Strategy 3: PROTECTION

- Offer health education for improving hygiene and nutrition, and for protection from accidents, illnesses, sexually transmitted infections, HIV and AIDS, and substance abuse.
- Many children living and working in the street require professional counseling and emotional support. Make therapeutic services easily accessible to the children.
- Facilitate the provision of identity documents to children living and working in the street as these are essential for access to health and other services, as well as employment.
- All service providers should adhere to inter-sectoral protocols at all levels of government and organizations for children living and working on the streets;
- Provide suitable education and skills development programmes for children living and working on the street.
- Child and youth care centres should provide for the needs of children living and working in the street including counseling, education and reintegration.

Key Strategy 4: REINTEGRATION

- Implement appropriate protocols for reintegration and reunification of children.
- Provide capacity building and empowerment of parents and families to deal with and handle challenging behaviour.
- Provide ongoing after care services.
- Where reintegration into formal schooling is not feasible or desirable to the children, vocational training combined with literacy, numeracy and life skills may be considered.

D. National Indicators

- Number of children, by age and sex, living and working on the street
- Number of children living and working on the streets integrated back into their families and or society.
- Number of programmes aimed at children living and working on the streets per municipality.
- Number of registered drop-in centres

- Article 15: Freedom of association and assembly
- Article 17: Access to information
- Article 18: Right of children with disabilities to participate in society
- Article 31: Participation in cultural life
- Article 40: Participation in judicial processes

A child's right to participate in any decision that affects his or her life is not only highlighted in the new Children's Legislation, but also outlined in both the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child and the African Children's Charter.

The core purpose of children's participation is to empower children as individuals and members of civil society. Empowerment gives them the opportunity to exercise their citizenship rights and to influence the actions and decisions that affect their daily lives.

Children's participation should be seen as an on-going process of children's active involvement in decision making (at different levels) in matters that affect and concern them. Effective and meaningful participation requires information sharing and dialogue between children and adults, which is based on mutual respect and trust.⁷⁴ (Save the Children, 2003)

The quality of children's participation and their ability to benefit from it will be strongly influenced by the efforts adults make to provide an enabling environment in which children and young people feel able to participate fully and actively in all aspects of the proceedings. Children need to feel that their views are valued, More importantly the participation of children in issues of governance is essential to the recognition of their rights.

Principles of children's participation

The following Minimum Standards are based on the five principles of Participation, and should be taken into account when engaging with children.⁷⁵

Transparency, honesty and accountability

Adults involved in consultations with children should follow ethical and participatory practices and place the best interests of children first.

A children-friendly environment

The quality of children's participation and their ability to benefit from the experience will be greatly influenced if they experience a safe, welcoming and encouraging environment.

Equality of opportunity

Participatory work should also include vulnerable groups of children who are often excluded from activities.

Safety and protection of children

Involvement in a consultation must not expose any young child to threats or actual harm. A child's safety and health should be considered in every possible way and be protected. This includes both physical and emotional well-being.

Commitment and competency of adults

Adults working with children should be committed to the aim of consulting with children and should be trained and skilled to encourage genuine participation from children. Adults working should be subjected to screening as required by the Children's Act 38 of 2005.

Some of the challenges experienced with engaging children in a meaningful manner can be ascribed to the attitudes of decision-makers towards children, as well as the time and resources needed to build capacity of children and adults to engage with each other in a meaningful manner.⁷⁶

- Children's right to be heard and express their opinions are protected and advanced.
- Children's right to access information is promoted, protected and implemented.

B. Objectives

- To ensure that all public information developed by government is supported by child friendly versions accessible and understandable by children of all ages.
- To develop the capacity of government officials to facilitate authentic, appropriate and ethical children's participation.

⁷⁶ Jamieson L et al (2011)

- To ensure that children participate in the development of all policies, legislations and related regulatory frameworks.
- To ensure that children participate in the development and the design all programmes that have an impact on their survival, protection and development.
- To ensure that legislative and policy provisions for the participation of children are adhered to.
- Introduce legislative, procedural and administrative measures to ensure that all children can be heard.
- To ensure that children participate in an authentic, appropriate and ethical manner in governance of schools, child and youth care centres and other programmes that intend to serve children.
- To develop the capacity of public office bearers to consult with children on matters that affects them.
- To develop the capacity of parents and caregivers to encourage the participation of children in households and communities.
- To ensure that children are provided with the opportunity to be heard in all legal and administrative proceedings, either directly or through a representative

C. Strategies

- Encourage all government departments and public entities to have a link for children on their websites which provide children with child friendly information on policies, legislation and programmes.
- Encourage all government departments and public entities to publish information on their policies, legislation, programmes, annual and other reports, budgets in child friendly formats.
- Facilitate civic education on the right of children to access information and to participate.
- Inform the media to provide children with child friendly information and encourage children's participation.
- Encourage social dialogues that will facilitate the equal participation of children and adults in issues of local, provincial and national interest.
- Develop national guidelines on children's participation and access to information
- Assist local, provincial and national networks to support and promote children's participation.

D. National Indicators

Institutional Arrangements

SECTION 5

5. INSTITUTIONAL ARRANGEMENTS

5.1 Leadership

The success of the National Plan of Action for Children (NPAC) is dependent on committed national leadership by Government. The National Plan of Action for Children (NPAC) will be co-ordinated from the office of the Minister of Women, Children and People with Disabilities. The mandate of the Department is to emphasize the need of equity and access to development opportunities for vulnerable groups in society.

The role of Cabinet will be to oversee the translation of the NPAC into sectoral policies and programmes.

Each Minister will need to ensure that children's rights are mainstreamed as envisaged in the NPAC in his or her Department, and that it forms an integral part of the National Planning Commission and the Monitoring and Evaluation Unit in the Presidency.

The Minister will engage with Provincial Premiers and Mayors of respective metropolitan and local Municipalities to ensure their political leadership in the implementation of the National Plan of Action for Children in South Africa.

5.2 Co-ordination

Co-ordination and mainstreaming is regarded as key elements of the National Plan of Action for Children (NPAC). A well-coordinated approach will ensure synergy in the implementation of the NPAC and the advancement of a holistic children's rights agenda for the country.

The primary responsibility for the co-ordination of the NPAC lies with the Department of Women, Children and People with Disabilities (DWCPD) as it needs to ensure that the necessary mechanisms for participation, coordination, mainstreaming, capacity development, monitoring, and evaluation are functional and in place.

The Minister of Women, Children and People with Disabilities shall establish the Advisory Council on Children, which will comprise of experts and representatives of the different sectors dealing with children's issues.

The DWCPD shall establish the National Steering Committee (NPASC) under its leadership to coordinate and oversee the National Plan of Action for Children (NPAC). The National Steering Committee shall be chaired by the Director-General of the DWCPD or a senior official designated by her/him to chair on his or her behalf.

The members of the National Steering Committee shall consist of representatives from all government departments appointed by their respective Director Generals to represent their specific Departments.

The Steering Committee will operate on a clearly outlined terms of reference (TOR) that shall but not be limited to include the following:

- Membership and attendance
- Frequency of meetings
- Roles and responsibilities
- Planning
- Fostering of participation of children
- Involvement of Civil Society Organisations
- Consultation and broader participation
- Sub-committees
- Reporting and accountability
- Communication
- Partnerships
- Disbandment

The DWCPD shall through its monitoring and evaluation section, monitor the institutions that have committed to deliver services to children in accordance with the NPAC and periodically provide reports to the Ministerial Committee for decision making and corrective measures where critical.

The involvement of and coordination of civil society organisations is a vital component in the successful co-ordination and implementation of the NPAC. As such, the National Steering Committee will develop mechanisms to ensure the participation of civil society organisations at national and provincial levels.

The Provincial Offices on the Status of Women, Children and People with Disabilities will establish the Provincial Plan of Action for Children Steering Committees in each of the nine Provinces. The role of the PPAC Steering Committee will be to serve as a mechanism for co-ordinating, facilitating, and monitoring the broad framework of the PPA for children. The PPAC process is based on a partnership between government and civil society and is regarded as the implementation arm of the National Steering Committee (NPASC). Membership on the PPASC shall consist of government departments and civil society.

5.3 Role of National and Provincial Government Departments

Government departments have an obligation to deliver services to children in order to promote, protect and fulfil the rights of the children. The advent of laws intended to promote, and protect the rights of children require that policy makers, service planners, administrators and all officials involved in service delivery to children, have a full understanding of the context of children's rights as well as the State's constitutional and international obligations.

5.4 Role of Local Government

Local Municipalities are the primary location where children find themselves and together with the provincial and national government, organisations in civil society and the community, creates an environment that either directly or indirectly impacts on children. Local authorities has a key role to play to ensure that children's rights, as embodied in the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child, the AU Charter on the Rights and Welfare of the African Child and the South African Constitution are made a reality for children.

Local Municipalities make important decisions that impact on the lives of the people that stay within the municipality boundaries. The planning and decision making of Local Municipalities impact on the lives of children. Municipalities can, inter alia, ensure that:

- Child rights are considered in all decisions that are taken.
- All relevant bylaws are reviewed against child rights principles.
- "The best interest of the child" is the central principle in all decisions and actions of the municipality.
- Children and their families are consulted in a meaningful manner on all matters that affect them.
- All local developments are assessed in terms of the impact that it will have on children.

5.5 Role of State Institutions supporting Constitutional Democracy

Chapter 9 of the South African Constitution establishes the following state institutions to strengthen constitutional democracy in South Africa, namely:

- (a) The Public Protector.
- (b) The South African Human Rights Commission.
- (c) The Commission for the Promotion and Protection of the Rights of Cultural, Religious and Linguistic Communities.
- (d) The Commission for Gender Equality.
- (e) The Auditor-General.
- (f) The Electoral Commission.

The Constitution clearly states that "these institutions are independent, and subject only to the Constitution and the law, and they must be impartial and must exercise their powers and perform their functions without fear, favour or prejudice".

These institutions each in its unique way and within its mandate plays an important role in ensuring that children in the country receive the full benefit of their rights and, as such, has a part to play in overseeing the implementation of the National Plan of Action for Children in the country. It is neither the place nor the mandate of the NPAC to indicate to these institutions their roles and functions in relation to the NPAC.

Thus, the NPAC lead will engage with these institutions at the advent of the NPAC and establish sound working relationships in terms of the NPAC.

5.6 Involvement of Civil Society Organisations

South Africa has a host of civil society organisations that are actively involved in the promotion, protection and fulfilment of children's rights. These organisations vary from large national non-governmental organisations in urban settings to networks and small community based organisations in rural communities.

Civil society organisations play an important role in the South African children's rights arena and are considered an important partner in the implementation of the NPAC.

The most important level of participation in the advancement of children's rights is at a sectoral or departmental level, where specific issues pertaining to children's rights are dealt with. Government Departments are thus encouraged to ensure the participation of civil society organisations at all levels. Civil society organisations also have the responsibility to seek opportunities to engage with respective government departments on matters pertaining to children.

The National Steering Committee under the guidance of the Minister of Women, Children and People with Disabilities will determine the involvement of civil society organisations at a national level in the National Steering Committee and its sub-structures.

5.7 Participation of children

Children's entitlement to participation in any social dialogue is protected by a set of rights that are outlined in the UNCRC, the African Charter, the South African Constitution as well as national legislative frameworks.

The State thus has an obligation to ensure that the voices of children are heard.

Children's participation should be core in the National Plan of Action for Children (NPAC). Benefits linked to involving children in the development of the NPA are listed as follows:

- It facilitates a NPAC that addresses the real needs of children;
- Children are directly involved in shaping the national response to addressing their rights;
- Children can relate to the NPAC in all areas;
- Children will continue to be involved in the implementation of the NPAC and
- Children will monitor the implementation of the NPAC

Children should be consulted in the development and finalization of the National Plan of Action in a meaningful and appropriate manner.

The National Plan of Action for Children shall safeguard children's right to participate in matters affecting them as a core principle in the implementation of all parts of the NPAC. This will require from line governments departments to ensure that mechanisms are in place to facilitate the process of child participation.

The Department of Women, Children and People with Disabilities will create opportunities and provide capacity development and support to ensure that children's voice is heard. A National Framework for the enhancement of children's participation in all spheres of government will be developed by the Department.

The National Steering Committee shall regularly consult with children and take the views of children into account during its deliberations and decisions. It shall also establish mechanisms to provide regular feedback to children on progress made with NPAC.

5.8 Involvement of the Public

The NPAC consolidates South Africa's commitments to its children in a framework that needs to be shared with all South African citizens. In the spirit of Article 42 of the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child, which requires from State Parties to make the principles and provisions of the Convention widely known, the NPAC should ensure that:

- The public is involved in the development, revision and implementation of the NPAC;
- The content of the NPAC is published and accessible to the public.
- The public remains informed of progress made with the implementation of the NPAC.

Not to be quoted or cited

- The public is involved in the monitoring and evaluation of the NPAC

5.9 Monitoring, Evaluation and Research

It is of paramount importance that the NPAC is designed in such a manner that it measures the progress that is made with the implementation of children's rights in South Africa and the manner in which the State meets its obligations. Each priority area of the NPAC will include national indicators related to the objectives and strategies identified. The indicators will be identified from existing government plans, strategies and commitments; and where gaps are identified; additional indicators will be developed in consultation with the lead and supporting departments.

The monitoring and evaluation of the NPAC will be synergised and closely linked to the Monitoring and Evaluation Divisions in relevant Departments so as to ensure synergy with government wide monitoring and evaluation systems.

Opportunities will also be created for children and adults from the general public to contribute to the monitoring and evaluation of the NPAC.

The National Steering Committee will, based on the priorities identified in the NPAC, develop a national child rights research agenda in collaboration with the Department of Science and Technology and the DWCPD. This research agenda will be accessible to all academic institutions as well as the public.

5.10 Capacity Development

The successful implementation of the National Plan of Action for Children is dependent on the capacity of all government departments in all spheres of government to understand, mainstream and implement children's rights. However, it is acknowledged that capacity within government varies between departments and the different spheres of government. Similarly, there will be varied capacity in civil society organisations towards the implementation of the NPAC.

The National Steering Committee in close collaboration with the DWCPD will develop a national capacity development and institutional support programme that will amongst others ensure that capacity is enhanced in terms of:

- The understanding of children's rights within the South African and International context.
- The understanding of the South African Policy and Legislative environment as far as it pertains to children.
- An understanding and ability to mainstream children's rights within all government departments and spheres of government.
- The monitoring and evaluation of children's rights implementation.

5.11 Advocacy

The Department of Women, Children and People with Disabilities will develop an advocacy and mainstreaming strategy to ensure the protection, promotion and fulfilment of children's rights in South Africa, The Strategy will focus on the following, namely:

- Children's rights in general;
- Specific rights of children, especially those children who are vulnerable, at risk, marginalized or left behind; and
- Contemporary issues emerging from the agenda of government relating to children

Reporting & Review

SECTION 6

REPORTING ON THE IMPLEMENTATION OF THE NPAC

The National Steering Committee shall submit an annual report on the progress made with implementation of the NPA to the Minister of Women, Children and People with Disabilities for presentation to Cabinet.

This report shall be made available to the public and shall also be available in a child friendly version that can be easily accessed by children of different ages.

The National Steering Committee shall establish a mechanism to ensure that reports by the different departments and spheres of government are submitted timeously.

REGULAR REVIEW OF THE NPAC

The National Plan of Action for Children shall be regularly reviewed in line with the changing situation of children in the country as well as government priorities. In this regard, the NPA Steering Committee shall ensure that the structure:

- Is reviewed at least every 5 years to align it with policy changes and government commitments,
- Undergoes a comprehensive midterm review in 2015 for re-alignment and prioritization against national developments;

Conclusion

CONCLUSION

South Africa has made significant progress in fulfilling the rights of children. The country has one of the most progressive constitutions in the world, including a system of laws and programmes to ensure the realization of children's rights and the delivery of services to children.

Despite the gains that have been made in expanding services to all groups of society. Inequities in accessing these services still exist, which negatively impact on how children are able to access the opportunities that the country has for the fulfillment of their rights.

The income situation of a child's family, race, location and to a lesser degree gender, determines the extent of inequities in the fulfillment of children's rights. Accelerating the reduction of inequities in the fulfillment of children's rights is both a moral imperative and necessary condition for the total development of the country.

As is evident from the content of this discussion document, the situation of those vulnerable groups of children left behind in South Africa requires from policymakers to prioritize and have a child centred approach when planning and developing government programmes, budgets and monitoring systems. There is a need for policy makers to double the effort to redress inequities of the past as well as tackle the substantial barriers that many children still face today.

B1: United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child

Adopted and opened for signature, ratification and accession by General Assembly resolution 44/25 of 20 November 1989

Entry into force 2 September 1990, in accordance with article 49

Ratified by South Africa on 16 June 1995

PREAMBLE

The States Parties to the present Convention,

Considering that, in accordance with the principles proclaimed in the Charter of the United Nations, recognition of the inherent dignity and of the equal and inalienable rights of all members of the human family is the foundation of freedom, justice and peace in the world,

Bearing in mind that the peoples of the United Nations have, in the Charter, reaffirmed their faith in fundamental human rights and in the dignity and worth of the human person, and have determined to promote social progress and better standards of life in larger freedom,

Recognizing that the United Nations has, in the Universal Declaration of Human Rights and in the International Covenants on Human Rights, proclaimed and agreed that everyone is entitled to all the rights and freedoms set forth therein, without distinction of any kind, such as race, colour, sex, language, religion, political or other opinion, national or social origin, property, birth or other status,

Recalling that, in the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, the United Nations has proclaimed that childhood is entitled to special care and assistance,

Convinced that the family, as the fundamental group of society and the natural environment for the growth and well-being of all its members and particularly children, should be afforded the necessary protection and assistance so that it can fully assume its responsibilities within the community,

Recognizing that the child, for the full and harmonious development of his or her personality, should grow up in a family environment, in an atmosphere of happiness, love and understanding,

Considering that the child should be fully prepared to live an individual life in society, and brought up in the spirit of the ideals proclaimed in the Charter of the United Nations, and in particular in the spirit of peace, dignity, tolerance, freedom, equality and solidarity,

Bearing in mind that the need to extend particular care to the child has been stated in the Geneva Declaration of the Rights of the Child of 1924 and in the Declaration of the Rights of the Child adopted by the General Assembly on 20 November 1959 and recognized in the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, in the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights (in particular in articles 23 and 24), in the International Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights (in particular in article 10) and in the statutes and relevant instruments of specialized agencies and international organizations concerned with the welfare of children,

Bearing in mind that, as indicated in the Declaration of the Rights of the Child, "the child, by reason of his physical and mental immaturity, needs special safeguards and care, including appropriate legal protection, before as well as after birth",

Recalling the provisions of the Declaration on Social and Legal Principles relating to the Protection and Welfare of Children, with Special Reference to Foster Placement and Adoption Nationally and Internationally; the United Nations Standard Minimum Rules for the Administration of Juvenile Justice (The Beijing Rules); and the Declaration on the Protection of Women and Children in Emergency and Armed Conflict, Recognizing that, in all countries in the world, there are children living in exceptionally difficult conditions, and that such children need special consideration,

Taking due account of the importance of the traditions and cultural values of each people for the protection and harmonious development of the child, Recognizing the importance of international co-operation for improving the living conditions of children in every country, in particular in the developing countries,

Have agreed as follows:

PART I

Article 1

For the purposes of the present Convention, a child means every human being below the age of eighteen years unless under the law applicable to the child, majority is attained earlier.

Article 2

1. States Parties shall respect and ensure the rights set forth in the present Convention to each child within their jurisdiction without discrimination of any kind, irrespective of the child's or his or her parent's or legal guardian's race, colour, sex, language, religion, political or other opinion, national, ethnic or social origin, property, disability, birth or other status.

2. States Parties shall take all appropriate measures to ensure that the child is protected against all forms of discrimination or punishment on the basis of the status, activities, expressed opinions, or beliefs of the child's parents, legal guardians, or family members.

Article 3

1. In all actions concerning children, whether undertaken by public or private social welfare institutions, courts of law, administrative authorities or legislative bodies, the best interests of the child shall be a primary consideration.

2. States Parties undertake to ensure the child such protection and care as is necessary for his or her well-being, taking into account the rights and duties of his or her parents, legal guardians, or other individuals legally responsible for him or her, and, to this end, shall take all appropriate legislative and administrative measures.

3. States Parties shall ensure that the institutions, services and facilities responsible for the care or protection of children shall conform with the standards established by competent authorities, particularly in the areas of safety, health, in the number and suitability of their staff, as well as competent supervision.

Article 4

States Parties shall undertake all appropriate legislative, administrative, and other measures for the implementation of the rights recognized in the present Convention. With regard to economic, social and cultural rights, States Parties shall undertake such measures to the maximum extent of their available resources and, where needed, within the framework of international co-operation.

Article 5

States Parties shall respect the responsibilities, rights and duties of parents or, where applicable, the members of the extended family or community as provided for by local custom, legal guardians or other persons legally responsible for the child, to provide, in a manner consistent with the evolving capacities of the child, appropriate direction and guidance in the exercise by the child of the rights recognized in the present Convention.

Article 6

1. States Parties recognize that every child has the inherent right to life.

2. States Parties shall ensure to the maximum extent possible the survival and development of the child.

Article 7

1. The child shall be registered immediately after birth and shall have the right from birth to a name, the right to acquire a nationality and, as far as possible, the right to know and be cared for by his or her parents.

2. States Parties shall ensure the implementation of these rights in accordance with their national law and their obligations under the relevant international instruments in this field, in particular where the child would otherwise be stateless.

Article 8

1. States Parties undertake to respect the right of the child to preserve his or her identity, including nationality, name and family relations as recognized by law without unlawful interference.

2. Where a child is illegally deprived of some or all of the elements of his or her identity, States Parties shall provide appropriate assistance and protection, with a view to re-establishing speedily his or her identity.

Article 9

1. States Parties shall ensure that a child shall not be separated from his or her parents against their will, except when competent authorities subject to judicial review determine, in accordance with applicable law and procedures, that such separation is necessary for the best interests of the child. Such determination may be necessary in a particular case such as one involving abuse or neglect of the child by the parents, or one where the parents are living separately and a decision must be made as to the child's place of residence.

2. In any proceedings pursuant to paragraph 1 of the present article, all interested parties shall be given an opportunity to participate in the proceedings and make their views known.

3. States Parties shall respect the right of the child who is separated from one or both parents to maintain personal relations and direct contact with both parents on a regular basis, except if it is contrary to the child's best interests.

4. Where such separation results from any action initiated by a State Party, such as the detention, imprisonment, exile, deportation or death (including death arising from any cause while the person is in the custody of the State) of one or both parents or of the child, that State Party shall, upon request, provide the parents, the child or, if appropriate, another member of the family with the essential information concerning the whereabouts of the absent member(s) of the family unless the provision of the information would be detrimental to the well-being of the child. States Parties shall further ensure that the submission of such a request shall of itself entail no adverse consequences for the person(s) concerned.

Article 10

1. In accordance with the obligation of States Parties under article 9, paragraph 1, applications by a child or his or her parents to enter or leave a State Party for the purpose of family reunification shall be dealt with by States Parties in a positive, humane and expeditious manner. States Parties shall further ensure that the submission of such a request shall entail no adverse consequences for the applicants and for the members of their family.

2. A child whose parents reside in different States shall have the right to maintain on a regular basis, save in exceptional circumstances personal relations and direct contacts with both parents. Towards that end and in accordance with the obligation of States Parties under article 9, paragraph 1, States Parties shall respect the right of the child and his or her parents to leave any country, including their own, and to enter their own country. The right to leave any country shall be subject only to such restrictions as are prescribed by law and which are necessary to protect the national security, public order (ordre public), public health or morals or the rights and freedoms of others and are consistent with the other rights recognized in the present Convention.

Article 11

1. States Parties shall take measures to combat the illicit transfer and non-return of children abroad.

2. To this end, States Parties shall promote the conclusion of bilateral or multilateral agreements or accession to existing agreements.

Article 12

1. States Parties shall assure to the child who is capable of forming his or her own views the right to express those views freely in all matters affecting the child, the views of the child being given due weight in accordance with the age and maturity of the child.

2. For this purpose, the child shall in particular be provided the opportunity to be heard in any judicial and administrative proceedings affecting the child, either directly, or through a representative or an appropriate body, in a manner consistent with the procedural rules of national law.

Article 13

1. The child shall have the right to freedom of expression; this right shall include freedom to seek, receive and impart information and ideas of all kinds, regardless of frontiers, either orally, in writing or in print, in the form of art, or through any other media of the child's choice.

2. The exercise of this right may be subject to certain restrictions, but these shall only be such as are provided by law and are necessary:

- (a) For respect of the rights or reputations of others; or
- (b) For the protection of national security or of public order (ordre public), or of public health or morals.

Article 14

1. States Parties shall respect the right of the child to freedom of thought, conscience and religion.

2. States Parties shall respect the rights and duties of the parents and, when applicable, legal guardians, to provide direction to the child in the exercise of his or her right in a manner consistent with the evolving capacities of the child.

3. Freedom to manifest one's religion or beliefs may be subject only to such limitations as are prescribed by law and are necessary to protect public safety, order, health or morals, or the fundamental rights and freedoms of others.

Article 15

1. States Parties recognize the rights of the child to freedom of association and to freedom of peaceful assembly.

2. No restrictions may be placed on the exercise of these rights other than those imposed in conformity with the law and which are necessary in a democratic society in the interests of national security or public safety, public order (ordre public), the protection of public health or morals or the protection of the rights and freedoms of others.

Article 16

1. No child shall be subjected to arbitrary or unlawful interference with his or her privacy, family, or correspondence, nor to unlawful attacks on his or her honour and reputation.

2. The child has the right to the protection of the law against such interference or attacks.

Article 17

States Parties recognize the important function performed by the mass media and shall ensure that the child has access to information and material from a diversity of national and international sources, especially those aimed at the promotion of his or her social, spiritual and moral well-being and physical and mental health.

To this end, States Parties shall:

- (a) Encourage the mass media to disseminate information and material of social and cultural benefit to the child and in accordance with the spirit of article 29;

(b) Encourage international co-operation in the production, exchange and dissemination of such information and material from a diversity of cultural, national and international sources;

(c) Encourage the production and dissemination of children's books;

(d) Encourage the mass media to have particular regard to the linguistic needs of the child who belongs to a minority group or who is indigenous;

(e) Encourage the development of appropriate guidelines for the protection of the child from information and material injurious to his or her well-being, bearing in mind the provisions of articles 13 and 18.

Article 18

1. States Parties shall use their best efforts to ensure recognition of the principle that both parents have common responsibilities for the upbringing and development of the child. Parents or, as the case may be, legal guardians, have the primary responsibility for the upbringing and development of the child. The best interests of the child will be their basic concern.

2. For the purpose of guaranteeing and promoting the rights set forth in the present Convention, States Parties shall render appropriate assistance to parents and legal guardians in the performance of their child-rearing responsibilities and shall ensure the development of institutions, facilities and services for the care of children.

3. States Parties shall take all appropriate measures to ensure that children of working parents have the right to benefit from child-care services and facilities for which they are eligible.

Article 19

1. States Parties shall take all appropriate legislative, administrative, social and educational measures to protect the child from all forms of physical or mental violence, injury or abuse, neglect or negligent treatment, maltreatment or exploitation, including sexual abuse, while in the care of parent(s), legal guardian(s) or any other person who has the care of the child.

2. Such protective measures should, as appropriate, include effective procedures for the establishment of social programmes to provide necessary support for the child and for those who have the care of the child, as well as for other forms of prevention and for identification, reporting, referral, investigation, treatment and follow-up of instances of child maltreatment described heretofore, and, as appropriate, for judicial involvement.

Article 20

1. A child temporarily or permanently deprived of his or her family environment, or in whose own best interests cannot be allowed to remain in that environment, shall be entitled to special protection and assistance provided by the State.

2. States Parties shall in accordance with their national laws ensure alternative care for such a child.

3. Such care could include, inter alia, foster placement, kafalah of Islamic law, adoption or if necessary placement in suitable institutions for the care of children. When considering solutions, due regard shall be paid to the desirability of continuity in a child's upbringing and to the child's ethnic, religious, cultural and linguistic background.

Article 21

States Parties that recognize and/or permit the system of adoption shall ensure that the best interests of the child shall be the paramount consideration and they shall:

(a) Ensure that the adoption of a child is authorized only by competent authorities who determine, in accordance with applicable law and procedures and on the basis of all pertinent and reliable information, that the adoption is permissible in view of the child's status concerning parents, relatives and legal guardians and that, if required, the persons concerned have given their informed consent to the adoption on the basis of such counselling as may be necessary;

(b) Recognize that inter-country adoption may be considered as an alternative means of child's care, if the child cannot be placed in a foster or an adoptive family or cannot in any suitable manner be cared for in the child's country of origin;

(c) Ensure that the child concerned by inter-country adoption enjoys safeguards and standards equivalent to those existing in the case of national adoption;

(d) Take all appropriate measures to ensure that, in inter-country adoption, the placement does not result in improper financial gain for those involved in it;

(e) Promote, where appropriate, the objectives of the present article by concluding bilateral or multilateral arrangements or agreements, and endeavour, within this framework, to ensure that the placement of the child in another country is carried out by competent authorities or organs.

Article 22

1. States Parties shall take appropriate measures to ensure that a child who is seeking refugee status or who is considered a refugee in accordance with applicable international or domestic law and procedures shall, whether unaccompanied or accompanied by his or her parents or by any other person, receive appropriate protection and humanitarian assistance in the enjoyment of applicable rights set forth in the present Convention and in other international human rights or humanitarian instruments to which the said States are Parties.

2. For this purpose, States Parties shall provide, as they consider appropriate, co-operation in any efforts by the United Nations and other competent intergovernmental organizations or non-governmental organizations co-operating with the United Nations to protect and assist such a child and to trace the parents or other members of the family of any refugee child in order to obtain information necessary for reunification with his or her family. In cases where no parents or other members of the family can be found, the child shall be accorded the same protection as any other child permanently or temporarily deprived of his or her family environment for any reason, as set forth in the present Convention.

Article 23

1. States Parties recognize that a mentally or physically disabled child should enjoy a full and decent life, in conditions which ensure dignity, promote self-reliance and facilitate the child's active participation in the community.
2. States Parties recognize the right of the disabled child to special care and shall encourage and ensure the extension, subject to available resources, to the eligible child and those responsible for his or her care, of assistance for which application is made and which is appropriate to the child's condition and to the circumstances of the parents or others caring for the child.
3. Recognizing the special needs of a disabled child, assistance extended in accordance with paragraph 2 of the present article shall be provided free of charge, whenever possible, taking into account the financial resources of the parents or others caring for the child, and shall be designed to ensure that the disabled child has effective access to and receives education, training, health care services, rehabilitation services, preparation for employment and recreation opportunities in a manner conducive to the child's achieving the fullest possible social integration and individual development, including his or her cultural and spiritual development
4. States Parties shall promote, in the spirit of international cooperation, the exchange of appropriate information in the field of preventive health care and of medical, psychological and functional treatment of disabled children, including dissemination of and access to information concerning methods of rehabilitation, education and vocational services, with the aim of enabling States Parties to improve their capabilities and skills and to widen their experience in these areas. In this regard, particular account shall be taken of the needs of developing countries.

Article 24

1. States Parties recognize the right of the child to the enjoyment of the highest attainable standard of health and to facilities for the treatment of illness and rehabilitation of health. States Parties shall strive to ensure that no child is deprived of his or her right of access to such health care services.
2. States Parties shall pursue full implementation of this right and, in particular, shall take appropriate measures:
 - (a) To diminish infant and child mortality;
 - (b) To ensure the provision of necessary medical assistance and health care to all children with emphasis on the development of primary health care;
 - (c) To combat disease and malnutrition, including within the framework of primary health care, through, inter alia, the application of readily available technology and through the provision of adequate nutritious foods and clean drinking-water, taking into consideration the dangers and risks of environmental pollution;
 - (d) To ensure appropriate pre-natal and post-natal health care for mothers;
 - (e) To ensure that all segments of society, in particular parents and children, are informed, have access to education and are supported in the use of basic knowledge of child health and nutrition, the advantages of breastfeeding, hygiene and environmental sanitation and the prevention of accidents;
 - (f) To develop preventive health care, guidance for parents and family planning education and services.
3. States Parties shall take all effective and appropriate measures with a view to abolishing traditional practices prejudicial to the health of children.
4. States Parties undertake to promote and encourage international co-operation with a view to achieving progressively the full realization of the right recognized in the present article. In this regard, particular account shall be taken of the needs of developing countries.

Article 25

States Parties recognize the right of a child who has been placed by the competent authorities for the purposes of care, protection or treatment of his or her physical or mental health, to a periodic review of the treatment provided to the child and all other circumstances relevant to his or her placement.

Article 26

1. States Parties shall recognize for every child the right to benefit from social security, including social insurance, and shall take the necessary measures to achieve the full realization of this right in accordance with their national law.
2. The benefits should, where appropriate, be granted, taking into account the resources and the circumstances of the child and persons having responsibility for the maintenance of the child, as well as any other consideration relevant to an application for benefits made by or on behalf of the child.

Article 27

1. States Parties recognize the right of every child to a standard of living adequate for the child's physical, mental, spiritual, moral and social development.

2. The parent(s) or others responsible for the child have the primary responsibility to secure, within their abilities and financial capacities, the conditions of living necessary for the child's development.
3. States Parties, in accordance with national conditions and within their means, shall take appropriate measures to assist parents and others responsible for the child to implement this right and shall in case of need provide material assistance and support programmes, particularly with regard to nutrition, clothing and housing.
4. States Parties shall take all appropriate measures to secure the recovery of maintenance for the child from the parents or other persons having financial responsibility for the child, both within the State Party and from abroad. In particular, where the person having financial responsibility for the child lives in a State different from that of the child, States Parties shall promote the accession to international agreements or the conclusion of such agreements, as well as the making of other appropriate arrangements.

Article 28

1. States Parties recognize the right of the child to education, and with a view to achieving this right progressively and on the basis of equal opportunity, they shall, in particular:
 - (a) Make primary education compulsory and available free to all;
 - (b) Encourage the development of different forms of secondary education, including general and vocational education, make them available and accessible to every child, and take appropriate measures such as the introduction of free education and offering financial assistance in case of need;
 - (c) Make higher education accessible to all on the basis of capacity by every appropriate means;
 - (d) Make educational and vocational information and guidance available and accessible to all children;
 - (e) Take measures to encourage regular attendance at schools and the reduction of drop-out rates.
2. States Parties shall take all appropriate measures to ensure that school discipline is administered in a manner consistent with the child's human dignity and in conformity with the present Convention.
3. States Parties shall promote and encourage international cooperation in matters relating to education, in particular with a view to contributing to the elimination of ignorance and illiteracy throughout the world and facilitating access to scientific and technical knowledge and modern teaching methods. In this regard, particular account shall be taken of the needs of developing countries.

Article 29

1. States Parties agree that the education of the child shall be directed to:
 - (a) The development of the child's personality, talents and mental and physical abilities to their fullest potential;
 - (b) The development of respect for human rights and fundamental freedoms, and for the principles enshrined in the Charter of the United Nations;
 - (c) The development of respect for the child's parents, his or her own cultural identity, language and values, for the national values of the country in which the child is living, the country from which he or she may originate, and for civilizations different from his or her own;
 - (d) The preparation of the child for responsible life in a free society, in the spirit of understanding, peace, tolerance, equality of sexes, and friendship among all peoples, ethnic, national and religious groups and persons of indigenous origin;
 - (e) The development of respect for the natural environment.
2. No part of the present article or article 28 shall be construed so as to interfere with the liberty of individuals and bodies to establish and direct educational institutions, subject always to the observance of the principle set forth in paragraph 1 of the present article and to the requirements that the education given in such institutions shall conform to such minimum standards as may be laid down by the State.

Article 30

In those States in which ethnic, religious or linguistic minorities or persons of indigenous origin exist, a child belonging to such a minority or who is indigenous shall not be denied the right, in community with other members of his or her group, to enjoy his or her own culture, to profess and practise his or her own religion, or to use his or her own language.

Article 31

1. States Parties recognize the right of the child to rest and leisure, to engage in play and recreational activities appropriate to the age of the child and to participate freely in cultural life and the arts.
2. States Parties shall respect and promote the right of the child to participate fully in cultural and artistic life and shall encourage the provision of appropriate and equal opportunities for cultural, artistic, recreational and leisure activity.

Article 32

1. States Parties recognize the right of the child to be protected from economic exploitation and from performing any work that is likely to be hazardous or to interfere with the child's education, or to be harmful to the child's health or physical, mental, spiritual, moral or social development.
2. States Parties shall take legislative, administrative, social and educational measures to ensure the implementation of the present article. To this end, and having regard to the relevant provisions of other international instruments, States Parties shall in particular:

- (a) Provide for a minimum age or minimum ages for admission to employment;
- (b) Provide for appropriate regulation of the hours and conditions of employment;
- (c) Provide for appropriate penalties or other sanctions to ensure the effective enforcement of the present article.

Article 33

States Parties shall take all appropriate measures, including legislative, administrative, social and educational measures, to protect children from the illicit use of narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances as defined in the relevant international treaties, and to prevent the use of children in the illicit production and trafficking of such substances.

Article 34

States Parties undertake to protect the child from all forms of sexual exploitation and sexual abuse. For these purposes, States Parties shall in particular take all appropriate national, bilateral and multilateral measures to prevent:

- (a) The inducement or coercion of a child to engage in any unlawful sexual activity;
- (b) The exploitative use of children in prostitution or other unlawful sexual practices;
- (c) The exploitative use of children in pornographic performances and materials.

Article 35

States Parties shall take all appropriate national, bilateral and multilateral measures to prevent the abduction of, the sale of or traffic in children for any purpose or in any form.

Article 36

States Parties shall protect the child against all other forms of exploitation prejudicial to any aspects of the child's welfare.

Article 37

States Parties shall ensure that:

- (a) No child shall be subjected to torture or other cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment. Neither capital punishment nor life imprisonment without possibility of release shall be imposed for offences committed by persons below eighteen years of age;
- (b) No child shall be deprived of his or her liberty unlawfully or arbitrarily. The arrest, detention or imprisonment of a child shall be in conformity with the law and shall be used only as a measure of last resort and for the shortest appropriate period of time;
- (c) Every child deprived of liberty shall be treated with humanity and respect for the inherent dignity of the human person, and in a manner which takes into account the needs of persons of his or her age. In particular, every child deprived of liberty shall be separated from adults unless it is considered in the child's best interest not to do so and shall have the right to maintain contact with his or her family through correspondence and visits, save in exceptional circumstances;
- (d) Every child deprived of his or her liberty shall have the right to prompt access to legal and other appropriate assistance, as well as the right to challenge the legality of the deprivation of his or her liberty before a court or other competent, independent and impartial authority, and to a prompt decision on any such action.

Article 38

1. States Parties undertake to respect and to ensure respect for rules of international humanitarian law applicable to them in armed conflicts which are relevant to the child.
2. States Parties shall take all feasible measures to ensure that persons who have not attained the age of fifteen years do not take a direct part in hostilities.
3. States Parties shall refrain from recruiting any person who has not attained the age of fifteen years into their armed forces. In recruiting among those persons who have attained the age of fifteen years but who have not attained the age of eighteen years, States Parties shall endeavour to give priority to those who are oldest.
4. In accordance with their obligations under international humanitarian law to protect the civilian population in armed conflicts, States Parties shall take all feasible measures to ensure protection and care of children who are affected by an armed conflict.

Article 39

States Parties shall take all appropriate measures to promote physical and psychological recovery and social reintegration of a child victim of: any form of neglect, exploitation, or abuse; torture or any other form of cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment; or armed conflicts. Such recovery and reintegration shall take place in an environment which fosters the health, self-respect and dignity of the child.

Article 40

1. States Parties recognize the right of every child alleged as, accused of, or recognized as having infringed the penal law to be treated in a manner consistent with the promotion of the child's sense of dignity and worth, which reinforces the child's respect for the human rights and fundamental freedoms of others and which takes into account the child's age and the desirability of promoting the child's reintegration and the child's assuming a constructive role in society.

2. To this end, and having regard to the relevant provisions of international instruments, States Parties shall, in particular, ensure that:

- (a) No child shall be alleged as, be accused of, or recognized as having infringed the penal law by reason of acts or omissions that were not prohibited by national or international law at the time they were committed;
- (b) Every child alleged as or accused of having infringed the penal law has at least the following guarantees:
 - (i) To be presumed innocent until proven guilty according to law;
 - (ii) To be informed promptly and directly of the charges against him or her, and, if appropriate, through his or her parents or legal guardians, and to have legal or other appropriate assistance in the preparation and presentation of his or her defence;
 - (iii) To have the matter determined without delay by a competent, independent and impartial authority or judicial body in a fair hearing according to law, in the presence of legal or other appropriate assistance and, unless it is considered not to be in the best interest of the child, in particular, taking into account his or her age or situation, his or her parents or legal guardians;
 - (iv) Not to be compelled to give testimony or to confess guilt; to examine or have examined adverse witnesses and to obtain the participation and examination of witnesses on his or her behalf under conditions of equality;
 - (v) If considered to have infringed the penal law, to have this decision and any measures imposed in consequence thereof reviewed by a higher competent, independent and impartial authority or judicial body according to law;
 - (vi) To have the free assistance of an interpreter if the child cannot understand or speak the language used;
 - (vii) To have his or her privacy fully respected at all stages of the proceedings.

3. States Parties shall seek to promote the establishment of laws, procedures, authorities and institutions specifically applicable to children alleged as, accused of, or recognized as having infringed the penal law, and, in particular:

- (a) The establishment of a minimum age below which children shall be presumed not to have the capacity to infringe the penal law;
 - (b) Whenever appropriate and desirable, measures for dealing with such children without resorting to judicial proceedings, providing that human rights and legal safeguards are fully respected.
4. A variety of dispositions, such as care, guidance and supervision orders; counselling; probation; foster care; education and vocational training programmes and other alternatives to institutional care shall be available to ensure that children are dealt with in a manner appropriate to their well-being and proportionate both to their circumstances and the offence.

Article 41

Nothing in the present Convention shall affect any provisions which are more conducive to the realization of the rights of the child and which may be contained in:

- (a) The law of a State party; or
- (b) International law in force for that State.

PART II

Article 42

States Parties undertake to make the principles and provisions of the Convention widely known, by appropriate and active means, to adults and children alike.

Article 43

1. For the purpose of examining the progress made by States Parties in achieving the realization of the obligations undertaken in the present Convention, there shall be established a Committee on the Rights of the Child, which shall carry out the functions hereinafter provided.
2. The Committee shall consist of eighteen experts of high moral standing and recognized competence in the field covered by this Convention¹. The members of the Committee shall be elected by States Parties from among their nationals and shall serve in their personal capacity, consideration being given to equitable geographical distribution, as well as to the principal legal systems.
3. The members of the Committee shall be elected by secret ballot from a list of persons nominated by States Parties. Each State Party may nominate one person from among its own nationals.
4. The initial election to the Committee shall be held no later than six months after the date of the entry into force of the present Convention and thereafter every second year. At least four months before the date of each election, the Secretary-General of the United Nations shall address a letter to States Parties inviting them to submit their nominations within two months. The Secretary-General shall subsequently prepare a list in alphabetical order of all persons thus nominated, indicating States Parties which have nominated them, and shall submit it to the States Parties to the present Convention.
5. The elections shall be held at meetings of States Parties convened by the Secretary-General at United Nations Headquarters. At those meetings, for which two thirds of States Parties shall constitute a quorum, the persons elected to the Committee shall be those who obtain the largest number of votes and an absolute majority of the votes of the representatives of States Parties present and voting.
6. The members of the Committee shall be elected for a term of four years. They shall be eligible for re-election if renominated. The term of five of the members elected at the first election shall expire at the end of two years; immediately after the first election, the names of these five members shall be chosen by lot by the Chairman of the meeting.

7. If a member of the Committee dies or resigns or declares that for any other cause he or she can no longer perform the duties of the Committee, the State Party which nominated the member shall appoint another expert from among its nationals to serve for the remainder of the term, subject to the approval of the Committee.

8. The Committee shall establish its own rules of procedure.

9. The Committee shall elect its officers for a period of two years.

10. The meetings of the Committee shall normally be held at United Nations Headquarters or at any other convenient place as determined by the Committee. The Committee shall normally meet annually. The duration of the meetings of the Committee shall be determined, and reviewed, if necessary, by a meeting of the States Parties to the present Convention, subject to the approval of the General Assembly.

11. The Secretary-General of the United Nations shall provide the necessary staff and facilities for the effective performance of the functions of the Committee under the present Convention.

12. With the approval of the General Assembly, the members of the Committee established under the present Convention shall receive emoluments from United Nations resources on such terms and conditions as the Assembly may decide.

Article 44

1. States Parties undertake to submit to the Committee, through the Secretary-General of the United Nations, reports on the measures they have adopted which give effect to the rights recognized herein and on the progress made on the enjoyment of those rights

(a) Within two years of the entry into force of the Convention for the State Party concerned;

(b) Thereafter every five years.

2. Reports made under the present article shall indicate factors and difficulties, if any, affecting the degree of fulfilment of the obligations under the present Convention. Reports shall also contain sufficient information to provide the Committee with a comprehensive understanding of the implementation of the Convention in the country concerned.

3. A State Party which has submitted a comprehensive initial report to the Committee need not, in its subsequent reports submitted in accordance with paragraph 1 (b) of the present article, repeat basic information previously provided.

4. The Committee may request from States Parties further information relevant to the implementation of the Convention.

5. The Committee shall submit to the General Assembly, through the Economic and Social Council, every two years, reports on its activities.

6. States Parties shall make their reports widely available to the public in their own countries.

Article 45

In order to foster the effective implementation of the Convention and to encourage international co-operation in the field covered by the Convention:

(a) The specialized agencies, the United Nations Children's Fund, and other United Nations organs shall be entitled to be represented at the consideration of the implementation of such provisions of the present Convention as fall within the scope of their mandate. The Committee may invite the specialized agencies, the United Nations Children's Fund and other competent bodies as it may consider appropriate to provide expert advice on the implementation of the Convention in areas falling within the scope of their respective mandates. The Committee may invite the specialized agencies, the United Nations Children's Fund, and other United Nations organs to submit reports on the implementation of the Convention in areas falling within the scope of their activities;

(b) The Committee shall transmit, as it may consider appropriate, to the specialized agencies, the United Nations Children's Fund and other competent bodies, any reports from States Parties that contain a request, or indicate a need, for technical advice or assistance, along with the Committee's observations and suggestions, if any, on these requests or indications;

(c) The Committee may recommend to the General Assembly to request the Secretary-General to undertake on its behalf studies on specific issues relating to the rights of the child;

(d) The Committee may make suggestions and general recommendations based on information received pursuant to articles 44 and 45 of the present Convention. Such suggestions and general recommendations shall be transmitted to any State Party concerned and reported to the General Assembly, together with comments, if any, from States Parties.

PART III

Article 46

The present Convention shall be open for signature by all States.

Article 47

The present Convention is subject to ratification. Instruments of ratification shall be deposited with the Secretary-General of the United Nations.

Article 48

The present Convention shall remain open for accession by any State. The instruments of accession shall be deposited with the Secretary-General of the United Nations.

Article 49

1. The present Convention shall enter into force on the thirtieth day following the date of deposit with the Secretary-General of the United Nations of the twentieth instrument of ratification or accession.

2. For each State ratifying or acceding to the Convention after the deposit of the twentieth instrument of ratification or accession, the Convention shall enter into force on the thirtieth day after the deposit by such State of its instrument of ratification or accession.

Article 50

1. Any State Party may propose an amendment and file it with the Secretary-General of the United Nations. The Secretary-General shall thereupon communicate the proposed amendment to States Parties, with a request that they indicate whether they favour a conference of States Parties for the purpose of considering and voting upon the proposals. In the event that, within four months from the date of such communication, at least one third of the States Parties favour such a conference, the Secretary-General shall convene the conference under the auspices of the United Nations. Any amendment adopted by a majority of States Parties present and voting at the conference shall be submitted to the General Assembly for approval.

2. An amendment adopted in accordance with paragraph 1 of the present article shall enter into force when it has been approved by the General Assembly of the United Nations and accepted by a two-thirds majority of States Parties.

3. When an amendment enters into force, it shall be binding on those States Parties which have accepted it, other States Parties still being bound by the provisions of the present Convention and any earlier amendments which they have accepted.

Article 51

1. The Secretary-General of the United Nations shall receive and circulate to all States the text of reservations made by States at the time of ratification or accession.

2. A reservation incompatible with the object and purpose of the present Convention shall not be permitted.

3. Reservations may be withdrawn at any time by notification to that effect addressed to the Secretary-General of the United Nations, who shall then inform all States. Such notification shall take effect on the date on which it is received by the Secretary-General

Article 52

A State Party may denounce the present Convention by written notification to the Secretary-General of the United Nations. Denunciation becomes effective one year after the date of receipt of the notification by the Secretary-General.

Article 53

The Secretary-General of the United Nations is designated as the depositary of the present Convention.

Article 54

The original of the present Convention, of which the Arabic, Chinese, English, French, Russian and Spanish texts are equally authentic, shall be deposited with the Secretary-General of the United Nations. In witness thereof the undersigned plenipotentiaries, being duly authorized thereto by their respective Governments, have signed the present Convention.

B1.1: United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child Optional Protocol Prohibiting the Sale of Children, Child Prostitution and Pornography

Entry into force on 18 January 2001

Ratified by South Africa on 30 June 2003

The States Parties to the present Protocol, Considering that, in order further to achieve the purposes of the Convention on the Rights of the Child and the implementation of its provisions, especially articles 1, 11, 21, 32, 33, 34, 35 and 36, it would be appropriate to extend the measures that States Parties should undertake in order to guarantee the protection of the child from the sale of children, child prostitution and child pornography,

Considering also that the Convention on the Rights of the Child recognizes the right of the child to be protected from economic exploitation and from performing any work that is likely to be hazardous or to interfere with the child's education, or to be harmful to the child's health or physical, mental, spiritual, moral or social development,

Gravely concerned at the significant and increasing international traffic in children for the purpose of the sale of children, child prostitution and child pornography,

Deeply concerned at the widespread and continuing practice of sex tourism, to which children are especially vulnerable, as it directly promotes the sale of children, child prostitution and child pornography,

Recognizing that a number of particularly vulnerable groups, including girl children, are at greater risk of sexual exploitation and that girl children are disproportionately represented among the sexually exploited,

Concerned about the growing availability of child pornography on the Internet and other evolving technologies, and recalling the International Conference on Combating Child Pornography on the Internet, held in Vienna in 1999, in particular its conclusion calling for the worldwide criminalization of the production, distribution, exportation, transmission, importation, intentional possession and advertising of child pornography, and stressing the importance of closer cooperation and partnership between Governments and the Internet industry,

Believing that the elimination of the sale of children, child prostitution and child pornography will be facilitated by adopting a holistic approach, addressing the contributing factors, including underdevelopment, poverty, economic disparities, inequitable socio-economic structure, dysfunctioning families, lack of education, urban-rural migration, gender discrimination, irresponsible adult sexual behaviour, harmful traditional practices, armed conflicts and trafficking in children,

Believing also that efforts to raise public awareness are needed to reduce consumer demand for the sale of children, child prostitution and child pornography, and believing further in the importance of strengthening global partnership among all actors and of improving law enforcement at the national level,

Noting the provisions of international legal instruments relevant to the protection of children, including the Hague Convention on Protection of Children and Cooperation in Respect of Intercountry Adoption, the Hague Convention on the Civil Aspects of International Child Abduction, the Hague Convention on Jurisdiction, Applicable Law, Recognition, Enforcement and Cooperation in Respect of Parental Responsibility and Measures for the Protection of Children, and International Labour Organization Convention No. 182 on the Prohibition and Immediate Action for the Elimination of the Worst Forms of Child Labour,

Encouraged by the overwhelming support for the Convention on the Rights of the Child, demonstrating the widespread commitment that exists for the promotion and protection of the rights of the child,

Recognizing the importance of the implementation of the provisions of the Programme of Action for the Prevention of the Sale of Children, Child Prostitution and Child Pornography and the Declaration and Agenda for Action adopted at the World Congress against Commercial Sexual Exploitation of Children, held in Stockholm from 27 to 31 August 1996, and the other relevant decisions and recommendations of pertinent international bodies,

Taking due account of the importance of the traditions and cultural values of each people for the protection and harmonious development of the child, Have agreed as follows:

Article 1

States Parties shall prohibit the sale of children, child prostitution and child pornography as provided for by the present Protocol.

Article 2

For the purposes of the present Protocol:

- (a) Sale of children means any act or transaction whereby a child is transferred by any person or group of persons to another for remuneration or any other consideration;
- (b) Child prostitution means the use of a child in sexual activities for remuneration or any other form of consideration;

(c) Child pornography means any representation, by whatever means, of a child engaged in real or simulated explicit sexual activities or any representation of the sexual parts of a child for primarily sexual purposes.

Article 3

1. Each State Party shall ensure that, as a minimum, the following acts and activities are fully covered under its criminal or penal law, whether such offences are committed domestically or transnationally or on an individual or organized basis:

(a) In the context of sale of children as defined in article 2:

- (i) Offering, delivering or accepting, by whatever means, a child for the purpose of:

- a. Sexual exploitation of the child;
- b. Transfer of organs of the child for profit;
- c. Engagement of the child in forced labour;

(ii) Improperly inducing consent, as an intermediary, for the adoption of a child in violation of applicable international legal instruments on adoption;

(b) Offering, obtaining, procuring or providing a child for child prostitution, as defined in article 2;

(c) Producing, distributing, disseminating, importing, exporting, offering, selling or possessing for the above purposes child pornography as defined in article 2.

2. Subject to the provisions of the national law of a State Party, the same shall apply to an attempt to commit any of the said acts and to complicity or participation in any of the said acts.

3. Each State Party shall make such offences punishable by appropriate penalties that take into account their grave nature.

4. Subject to the provisions of its national law, each State Party shall take measures, where appropriate, to establish the liability of legal persons for offences established in paragraph 1 of the present article. Subject to the legal principles of the State Party, such liability of legal persons may be criminal, civil or administrative.

5. States Parties shall take all appropriate legal and administrative measures to ensure that all persons involved in the adoption of a child act in conformity with applicable international legal instruments.

Article 4

1. Each State Party shall take such measures as may be necessary to establish its jurisdiction over the offences referred to in article 3, paragraph 1, when the offences are committed in its territory or on board a ship or aircraft registered in that State.

2. Each State Party may take such measures as may be necessary to establish its jurisdiction over the offences referred to in article 3, paragraph 1, in the following cases:

- (a) When the alleged offender is a national of that State or a person who has his habitual residence in its territory;
- (b) When the victim is a national of that State.

3. Each State Party shall also take such measures as may be necessary to establish its jurisdiction over the aforementioned offences when the alleged offender is present in its territory and it does not extradite him or her to another State Party on the ground that the offence has been committed by one of its nationals.

4. The present Protocol does not exclude any criminal jurisdiction exercised in accordance with internal law.

Article 5

1. The offences referred to in article 3, paragraph 1, shall be deemed to be included as extraditable offences in any extradition treaty existing between States Parties and shall be included as extraditable offences in every extradition treaty subsequently concluded between them, in accordance with the conditions set forth in such treaties.

2. If a State Party that makes extradition conditional on the existence of a treaty receives a request for extradition from another State Party with which it has no extradition treaty, it may consider the present Protocol to be a legal basis for extradition in respect of such offences. Extradition shall be subject to the conditions provided by the law of the requested State.

3. States Parties that do not make extradition conditional on the existence of a treaty shall recognize such offences as extraditable offences between themselves subject to the conditions provided by the law of the requested State.

4. Such offences shall be treated, for the purpose of extradition between States Parties, as if they had been committed not only in the place in which they occurred but also in the territories of the States required to establish their jurisdiction in accordance with article 4.

5. If an extradition request is made with respect to an offence described in article 3, paragraph 1, and the requested State Party does not or will not extradite on the basis of the nationality of the offender, that State shall take suitable measures to submit the case to its competent authorities for the purpose of prosecution.

Article 6

1. States Parties shall afford one another the greatest measure of assistance in connection with investigations or criminal or extradition proceedings brought in respect of the offences set forth in article 3, paragraph 1, including assistance in obtaining evidence at their disposal necessary for the proceedings.

2. States Parties shall carry out their obligations under paragraph 1 of the present article in conformity with any treaties or other arrangements on mutual legal assistance that may exist between them. In the absence of such treaties or arrangements, States Parties shall afford one another assistance in accordance with their domestic law.

Article 7

States Parties shall, subject to the provisions of their national law:

(a) Take measures to provide for the seizure and confiscation, as appropriate, of:

(i) Goods, such as materials, assets and other instrumentalities used to commit or facilitate offences under the present protocol;

(ii) Proceeds derived from such offences;

(b) Execute requests from another State Party for seizure or confiscation of goods or proceeds referred to in subparagraph (a);

(c) Take measures aimed at closing, on a temporary or definitive basis, premises used to commit such offences.

Article 8

1. States Parties shall adopt appropriate measures to protect the rights and interests of child victims of the practices prohibited under the present Protocol at all stages of the criminal justice process, in particular by:

(a) Recognizing the vulnerability of child victims and adapting procedures to recognize their special needs, including their special needs as witnesses;

(b) Informing child victims of their rights, their role and the scope, timing and progress of the proceedings and of the disposition of their cases;

(c) Allowing the views, needs and concerns of child victims to be presented and considered in proceedings where their personal interests are affected, in a manner consistent with the procedural rules of national law;

(d) Providing appropriate support services to child victims throughout the legal process;

(e) Protecting, as appropriate, the privacy and identity of child victims and taking measures in accordance with national law to avoid the inappropriate dissemination of information that could lead to the identification of child victims;

(f) Providing, in appropriate cases, for the safety of child victims, as well as that of their families and witnesses on their behalf, from intimidation and retaliation;

(g) Avoiding unnecessary delay in the disposition of cases and the execution of orders or decrees granting compensation to child victims.

2. States Parties shall ensure that uncertainty as to the actual age of the victim shall not prevent the initiation of criminal investigations, including investigations aimed at establishing the age of the victim.

3. States Parties shall ensure that, in the treatment by the criminal justice system of children who are victims of the offences described in the present Protocol, the best interest of the child shall be a primary consideration.

4. States Parties shall take measures to ensure appropriate training, in particular legal and psychological training, for the persons who work with victims of the offences prohibited under the present Protocol.

5. States Parties shall, in appropriate cases, adopt measures in order to protect the safety and integrity of those persons and/or organizations involved in the prevention and/or protection and rehabilitation of victims of such offences.

6. Nothing in the present article shall be construed to be prejudicial to or inconsistent with the rights of the accused to a fair and impartial trial.

Article 9

1. States Parties shall adopt or strengthen, implement and disseminate laws, administrative measures, social policies and programmes to prevent the offences referred to in the present Protocol. Particular attention shall be given to protect children who are especially vulnerable to such practices.

2. States Parties shall promote awareness in the public at large, including children, through information by all appropriate means, education and training, about the preventive measures and harmful effects of the offences referred to in the present Protocol. In fulfilling their obligations under this article, States Parties shall encourage the participation of the community and, in particular, children and child victims, in such information and education and training programmes, including at the international level.

3. States Parties shall take all feasible measures with the aim of ensuring all appropriate assistance to victims of such offences, including their full social reintegration and their full physical and psychological recovery.

4. States Parties shall ensure that all child victims of the offences described in the present Protocol have access to adequate procedures to seek, without discrimination, compensation for damages from those legally responsible.

5. States Parties shall take appropriate measures aimed at effectively prohibiting the production and dissemination of material advertising the offences described in the present Protocol.

Article 10

1. States Parties shall take all necessary steps to strengthen international cooperation by multilateral, regional and bilateral arrangements for the prevention, detection, investigation, prosecution and punishment of those responsible for acts involving the sale of children, child prostitution, child pornography and child sex tourism. States Parties shall also promote international cooperation and coordination between their authorities, national and international non-governmental organizations and international organizations.

2. States Parties shall promote international cooperation to assist child victims in their physical and psychological recovery, social reintegration and repatriation.

3. States Parties shall promote the strengthening of international cooperation in order to address the root causes, such as poverty and underdevelopment, contributing to the vulnerability of children to the sale of children, child prostitution, child pornography and child sex tourism.

4. States Parties in a position to do so shall provide financial, technical or other assistance through existing multilateral, regional, bilateral or other programmes.

Article 11

Nothing in the present Protocol shall affect any provisions that are more conducive to the realization of the rights of the child and that may be contained in:

(a) The law of a State Party;

(b) International law in force for that State.

Article 12

1. Each State Party shall, within two years following the entry into force of the present Protocol for that State Party, submit a report to the Committee on the Rights of the Child providing comprehensive information on the measures it has taken to implement the provisions of the Protocol.

2. Following the submission of the comprehensive report, each State Party shall include in the reports they submit to the Committee on the Rights of the Child, in accordance with article 44 of the Convention, any further information with respect to the implementation of the present Protocol. Other States Parties to the Protocol shall submit a report every five years.

3. The Committee on the Rights of the Child may request from States Parties further information relevant to the implementation of the present Protocol.

Article 13

1. The present Protocol is open for signature by any State that is a party to the Convention or has signed it.

2. The present Protocol is subject to ratification and is open to accession by any State that is a party to the Convention or has signed it. Instruments of ratification or accession shall be deposited with the Secretary-General of the United Nations.

Article 14

1. The present Protocol shall enter into force three months after the deposit of the tenth instrument of ratification or accession.

2. For each State ratifying the present Protocol or acceding to it after its entry into force, the Protocol shall enter into force one month after the date of the deposit of its own instrument of ratification or accession.

Article 15

1. Any State Party may denounce the present Protocol at any time by written notification to the Secretary-General of the United Nations, who shall thereafter inform the other States Parties to the Convention and all States that have signed the Convention. The denunciation shall take effect one year after the date of receipt of the notification by the Secretary-General.

2. Such a denunciation shall not have the effect of releasing the State Party from its obligations under the present Protocol in regard to any offence that occurs prior to the date on which the denunciation becomes effective. Nor shall such a denunciation prejudice in any way the continued consideration of any matter that is already under consideration by the Committee on the Rights of the Child prior to the date on which the denunciation becomes effective.

Article 16

1. Any State Party may propose an amendment and file it with the Secretary-General of the United Nations. The Secretary-General shall thereupon communicate the proposed amendment to States Parties with a request that they indicate whether they favour a conference of States Parties for the purpose of considering and voting upon the proposals. In the event that, within four months from the date of such communication, at least one third of the States Parties favour such a conference, the Secretary-General shall convene the conference under the auspices of the United Nations. Any amendment adopted by a majority of States Parties present and voting at the conference shall be submitted to the General Assembly of the United Nations for approval.

2. An amendment adopted in accordance with paragraph 1 of the present article shall enter into force when it has been approved by the General Assembly and accepted by a two-thirds majority of States Parties.

3. When an amendment enters into force, it shall be binding on those States Parties that have accepted it, other States Parties still being bound by the provisions of the present Protocol and any earlier amendments they have accepted.

Article 17

1. The present Protocol, of which the Arabic, Chinese, English, French, Russian and Spanish texts are equally authentic, shall be deposited in the archives of the United Nations.

2. The Secretary-General of the United Nations shall transmit certified copies of the present Protocol to all States Parties to the Convention and all States that have signed the Convention.

B1.2: United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child Optional Protocol on Involvement of Children in Armed Conflict

Entry into force on 12 February 2002

Ratified by South Africa on 24 September 2009

The States Parties to the present Protocol,

Encouraged by the overwhelming support for the Convention on the Rights of the Child, demonstrating the widespread commitment that exists to strive for the promotion and protection of the rights of the child,

Reaffirming that the rights of children require special protection, and calling for continuous improvement of the situation of children without distinction, as well as for their development and education in conditions of peace and security,

Disturbed by the harmful and widespread impact of armed conflict on children and the long-term consequences it has for durable peace, security and development,

Condemning the targeting of children in situations of armed conflict and direct attacks on objects protected under international law, including places that generally have a significant presence of children, such as schools and hospitals,

Noting the adoption of the Rome Statute of the International Criminal Court, in particular, the inclusion therein as a war crime, of conscripting or enlisting children under the age of 15 years or using them to participate actively in hostilities in both international and non-international armed conflict,

Considering therefore that to strengthen further the implementation of rights recognized in the Convention on the Rights of the Child there is a need to increase the protection of children from involvement in armed conflict,

Noting that article 1 of the Convention on the Rights of the Child specifies that, for the purposes of that Convention, a child means every human being below the age of 18 years unless, under the law applicable to the child, majority is attained earlier,

Convinced that an optional protocol to the Convention that raises the age of possible recruitment of persons into armed forces and their participation in hostilities will contribute effectively to the implementation of the principle that the best interests of the child are to be a primary consideration in all actions concerning children,

Noting that the twenty-sixth International Conference of the Red Cross and Red Crescent in December 1995 recommended, inter alia, that parties to conflict take every feasible step to ensure that children below the age of 18 years do not take part in hostilities,

Welcoming the unanimous adoption, in June 1999, of International Labour Organization Convention No. 182 on the Prohibition and Immediate Action for the Elimination of the Worst Forms of Child Labour, which prohibits, inter alia, forced or compulsory recruitment of children for use in armed conflict,

Condemning with the gravest concern the recruitment, training and use within and across national borders of children in hostilities by armed groups distinct from the armed forces of a State, and recognizing the responsibility of those who recruit, train and use children in this regard,

Recalling the obligation of each party to an armed conflict to abide by the provisions of international humanitarian law,

Stressing that the present Protocol is without prejudice to the purposes and principles contained in the Charter of the United Nations, including Article 51, and relevant norms of humanitarian law,

Bearing in mind that conditions of peace and security based on full respect of the purposes and principles contained in the Charter and observance of applicable human rights instruments are indispensable for the full protection of children, in particular during armed conflict and foreign occupation,

Recognizing the special needs of those children who are particularly vulnerable to recruitment or use in hostilities contrary to the present Protocol owing to their economic or social status or gender,

Mindful of the necessity of taking into consideration the economic, social and political root causes of the involvement of children in armed conflict,

Convinced of the need to strengthen international cooperation in the implementation of the present Protocol, as well as the physical and psychosocial rehabilitation and social reintegration of children who are victims of armed conflict,

Encouraging the participation of the community and, in particular, children and child victims in the dissemination of informational and educational programmes concerning the implementation of the Protocol,

Have agreed as follows:

Article 1

Not to be quoted or cited

States Parties shall take all feasible measures to ensure that members of their armed forces who have not attained the age of 18 years do not take a direct part in hostilities.

Article 2

States Parties shall ensure that persons who have not attained the age of 18 years are not compulsorily recruited into their armed forces.

Article 3

- States Parties shall raise the minimum age for the voluntary recruitment of persons into their national armed forces from that set out in article 38, paragraph 3, of the Convention on the Rights of the Child, taking account of the principles contained in that article and recognizing that under the Convention persons under the age of 18 years are entitled to special protection.
- Each State Party shall deposit a binding declaration upon ratification of or accession to the present Protocol that sets forth the minimum age at which it will permit voluntary recruitment into its national armed forces and a description of the safeguards it has adopted to ensure that such recruitment is not forced or coerced.
- States Parties that permit voluntary recruitment into their national armed forces under the age of 18 years shall maintain safeguards to ensure, as a minimum, that:
 - Such recruitment is genuinely voluntary;
 - Such recruitment is carried out with the informed consent of the person's parents or legal guardians;
 - Such persons are fully informed of the duties involved in such military service;
 - Such persons provide reliable proof of age prior to acceptance into national military service.
- Each State Party may strengthen its declaration at any time by notification to that effect addressed to the Secretary-General of the United Nations, who shall inform all States Parties. Such notification shall take effect on the date on which it is received by the Secretary-General.
- The requirement to raise the age in paragraph 1 of the present article does not apply to schools operated by or under the control of the armed forces of the States Parties, in keeping with articles 28 and 29 of the Convention on the Rights of the Child.

Article 4

- Armed groups that are distinct from the armed forces of a State should not, under any circumstances, recruit or use in hostilities persons under the age of 18 years.
- States Parties shall take all feasible measures to prevent such recruitment and use, including the adoption of legal measures necessary to prohibit and criminalize such practices.
- The application of the present article shall not affect the legal status of any party to an armed conflict.

Article 5

Nothing in the present Protocol shall be construed as precluding provisions in the law of a State Party or in international instruments and international humanitarian law that are more conducive to the realization of the rights of the child.

Article 6

- Each State Party shall take all necessary legal, administrative and other measures to ensure the effective implementation and enforcement of the provisions of the present Protocol within its jurisdiction.
- States Parties undertake to make the principles and provisions of the present Protocol widely known and promoted by appropriate means, to adults and children alike.
- States Parties shall take all feasible measures to ensure that persons within their jurisdiction recruited or used in hostilities contrary to the present Protocol are demobilized or otherwise released from service. States Parties shall, when necessary, accord to such persons all appropriate assistance for their physical and psychological recovery and their social reintegration.

Article 7

- States Parties shall cooperate in the implementation of the present Protocol, including in the prevention of any activity contrary thereto and in the rehabilitation and social reintegration of persons who are victims of acts contrary thereto, including through technical cooperation and financial assistance. Such assistance and cooperation will be undertaken in consultation with the States Parties concerned and the relevant international organizations.
- States Parties in a position to do so shall provide such assistance through existing multilateral, bilateral or other programmes or, inter alia, through a voluntary fund established in accordance with the rules of the General Assembly.

Article 8

- Each State Party shall, within two years following the entry into force of the present Protocol for that State Party, submit a report to the Committee on the Rights of the Child providing comprehensive information on the measures it has taken to implement the provisions of the Protocol, including the measures taken to implement the provisions on participation and recruitment.

2. Following the submission of the comprehensive report, each State Party shall include in the reports it submits to the Committee on the Rights of the Child, in accordance with article 44 of the Convention, any further information with respect to the implementation of the Protocol. Other States Parties to the Protocol shall submit a report every five years.

3. The Committee on the Rights of the Child may request from States Parties further information relevant to the implementation of the present Protocol.

Article 9

1. The present Protocol is open for signature by any State that is a party to the Convention or has signed it.

2. The present Protocol is subject to ratification and is open to accession by any State. Instruments of ratification or accession shall be deposited with the Secretary-General of the United Nations.

3. The Secretary-General, in his capacity as depositary of the Convention and the Protocol, shall inform all States Parties to the Convention and all States that have signed the Convention of each instrument of declaration pursuant to article 3.

Article 10

1. The present Protocol shall enter into force three months after the deposit of the tenth instrument of ratification or accession.

2. For each State ratifying the present Protocol or acceding to it after its entry into force, the Protocol shall enter into force one month after the date of the deposit of its own instrument of ratification or accession.

Article 11

1. Any State Party may denounce the present Protocol at any time by written notification to the Secretary-General of the United Nations, who shall thereafter inform the other States Parties to the Convention and all States that have signed the Convention. The denunciation shall take effect one year after the date of receipt of the notification by the Secretary-General. If, however, on the expiry of that year the denouncing State Party is engaged in armed conflict, the denunciation shall not take effect before the end of the armed conflict.

2. Such a denunciation shall not have the effect of releasing the State Party from its obligations under the present Protocol in regard to any act that occurs prior to the date on which the denunciation becomes effective. Nor shall such a denunciation prejudice in any way the continued consideration of any matter that is already under consideration by the Committee on the Rights of the Child prior to the date on which the denunciation becomes effective.

Article 12

1. Any State Party may propose an amendment and file it with the Secretary-General of the United Nations. The Secretary-General shall thereupon communicate the proposed amendment to States Parties with a request that they indicate whether they favour a conference of States Parties for the purpose of considering and voting upon the proposals. In the event that, within four months from the date of such communication, at least one third of the States Parties favour such a conference, the Secretary-General shall convene the conference under the auspices of the United Nations. Any amendment adopted by a majority of States Parties present and voting at the conference shall be submitted to the General Assembly of the United Nations for approval.

2. An amendment adopted in accordance with paragraph 1 of the present article shall enter into force when it has been approved by the General Assembly and accepted by a two-thirds majority of States Parties.

3. When an amendment enters into force, it shall be binding on those States Parties that have accepted it, other States Parties still being bound by the provisions of the present Protocol and any earlier amendments they have accepted.

Article 13

1. The present Protocol, of which the Arabic, Chinese, English, French, Russian and Spanish texts are equally authentic, shall be deposited in the archives of the United Nations.

2. The Secretary-General of the United Nations shall transmit certified copies of the present Protocol to all States Parties to the Convention and all States that have signed the Convention.

B 2: African Charter on the Rights and Welfare of the Child

OAU Doc. CAB/LEG/24.9/49 (1990), entered into force 29 November 1999

PREAMBLE

The African Member States of the Organization of African Unity, Parties to the present Charter entitled 'African Charter on the Rights and Welfare of the Child',

CONSIDERING that the Charter of the Organization of African Unity recognizes the paramountcy of Human Rights and the African Charter on Human and People's Rights proclaimed and agreed that everyone is entitled to all the rights and freedoms recognized and guaranteed therein, without distinction of any kind such as race, ethnic group, colour, sex, language, religion, political or any other opinion, national and social origin, fortune, birth or other status,

RECALLING the Declaration on the Rights and Welfare of the African Child (AHG/ST.4 Rev.I) adopted by the Assembly of Heads of State and Government of the Organization of African Unity, at its Sixteenth Ordinary Session in Monrovia, Liberia, from 17 to 20 July 1979, recognized the need to take appropriate measures to promote and protect the rights and welfare of the African Child,

NOTING WITH CONCERN that the situation of most African children, remains critical due to the unique factors of their socio-economic, cultural, traditional and developmental circumstances, natural disasters, armed conflicts, exploitation and hunger, and on account of the child's physical and mental immaturity he/she needs special safeguards and care,

RECOGNIZING that the child occupies a unique and privileged position in the African society and that for the full and harmonious development of his personality, the child should grow up in a family environment in an atmosphere of happiness, love and understanding,

RECOGNIZING that the child, due to the needs of his physical and mental development requires particular care with regard to health, physical, mental, moral and social development, and requires legal protection in conditions of freedom, dignity and security,

TAKING INTO CONSIDERATION the virtues of their cultural heritage, historical background and the values of the African civilization which should inspire and characterize their reflection on the concept of the rights and welfare of the child,

CONSIDERING that the promotion and protection of the rights and welfare of the child also implies the performance of duties on the part of everyone, REAFFIRMING ADHERENCE to the principles of the rights and welfare of the child contained in the declaration, conventions and other instruments of the Organization of African Unity and in the United Nations and in particular the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child; and the OAU Heads of State and Government's Declaration on the Rights and Welfare of the African Child.

- (a) to assist parents and other persons responsible for the child and in case of need provide material assistance and support programmes particularly with regard to nutrition, health, education, clothing and housing;
- (b) to assist parents and others responsible for the child in the performance of child-rearing and ensure the development of institutions responsible for providing care of children; and
- (c) to ensure that the children of working parents are provided with care services and facilities.

Article 21: Protection against Harmful Social and Cultural Practices

1. States Parties to the present Charter shall take all appropriate measures to eliminate harmful social and cultural practices affecting the welfare, dignity, normal growth and development of the child and in particular:
 - (a) those customs and practices prejudicial to the health or life of the child; and
 - (b) those customs and practices discriminatory to the child on the grounds of sex or other status.
2. Child marriage and the betrothal of girls and boys shall be prohibited and effective action, including legislation, shall be taken to specify the minimum age of marriage to be 18 years and make registration of all marriages in an official registry compulsory.

Article 22: Armed Conflicts

1. States Parties to this Charter shall undertake to respect and ensure respect for rules of international humanitarian law applicable in armed conflicts which affect the child.
2. States Parties to the present Charter shall take all necessary measures to ensure that no child shall take a direct part in hostilities and refrain in particular, from recruiting any child.
3. States Parties to the present Charter shall, in accordance with their obligations under international humanitarian law, protect the civilian population in armed conflicts and shall take all feasible measures to ensure the protection and care of children who are affected by armed conflicts. Such rules shall also apply to children in situations of internal armed conflicts, tension and strife.

Article 23: Refugee Children

1. States Parties to the present Charter shall take all appropriate measures to ensure that a child who is seeking refugee status or who is considered a refugee in accordance with applicable international or domestic law shall, whether unaccompanied or accompanied by parents, legal guardians or close relatives, receive appropriate protection and humanitarian assistance in the enjoyment of the rights set out in this Charter and other international human rights and humanitarian instruments to which the States are Parties.
2. States Parties shall undertake to cooperate with existing international organizations which protect and assist refugees in their efforts to protect and assist such a child and to trace the parents or other close relatives or an unaccompanied refugee child in order to obtain information necessary for reunification with the family.
3. Where no parents, legal guardians or close relatives can be found, the child shall be accorded the same protection as any other child permanently or temporarily deprived of his family environment for any reason.
4. The provisions of this Article apply mutatis mutandis to internally displaced children whether through natural disaster, internal armed conflicts, civil strife, breakdown of economic and social order or howsoever caused.

Article 24: Adoption

- States Parties which recognize the system of adoption shall ensure that the best interest of the child shall be the paramount consideration and they shall:
- (a) establish competent authorities to determine matters of adoption and ensure that the adoption is carried out in conformity with applicable laws and procedures and on the basis of all relevant and reliable information, that the adoption is permissible in view of the child's status concerning parents, relatives and guardians and that, if necessary, the appropriate persons concerned have given their informed consent to the adoption on the basis of appropriate counselling;
 - (b) recognize that inter-country adoption in those States who have ratified or adhered to the International Convention on the Rights of the Child or this Charter, may, as the last resort, be considered as an alternative means of a child's care, if the child cannot be placed in a foster or an adoptive family or cannot in any suitable manner be cared for in the child's country of origin;
 - (c) ensure that the child affected by inter-country adoption enjoys safeguards and standards equivalent to those existing in the case of national adoption;
 - (d) take all appropriate measures to ensure that in inter-country adoption, the placement does not result in trafficking or improper financial gain for those who try to adopt a child;
 - (e) promote, where appropriate, the objectives of this Article by concluding bilateral or multilateral arrangements or agreements, and endeavour, within this framework to ensure that the placement of the child in another country is carried out by competent authorities or organs;
 - (f) establish a machinery to monitor the well-being of the adopted child.

Article 25: Separation from Parents

1. Any child who is permanently or temporarily deprived of his family environment for any reason shall be entitled to special protection and assistance;
2. States Parties to the present Charter:
 - (a) shall ensure that a child who is parentless, or who is temporarily or permanently deprived of his or her family environment, or who in his or her best interest cannot be brought up or allowed to remain in that environment shall be provided with alternative family care, which could include, among others, foster placement, or placement in suitable institutions for the care of children;
 - (b) shall take all necessary measures to trace and re-unite children with parents or relatives where separation is caused by internal and external displacement arising from armed conflicts or natural disasters.
3. When considering alternative family care of the child and the best interests of the child, due regard shall be paid to the desirability of continuity in a child's upbringing and to the child's ethnic, religious or linguistic background.

Article 26: Protection Against Apartheid and Discrimination

1. States Parties to the present Charter shall individually and collectively undertake to accord the highest priority to the special needs of children living under Apartheid and in States subject to military destabilization by the Apartheid regime.

The Committee shall draw inspiration from International Law on Human Rights, particularly from the provisions of the African Charter on Human and Peoples' Rights, the Charter of the Organization of African Unity, the Universal Declaration on Human Rights, the International Convention on the Rights of the Child, and other instruments adopted by the United Nations and by African countries in the field of human rights, and from African values and traditions.

Article 47: Signature, Ratification or Adherence

1. The present Charter shall be open to signature by all the Member States of the Organization of African Unity.
2. The present Charter shall be subject to ratification or adherence by Member States of the Organization of African Unity. The instruments of ratification or adherence to the present Charter shall be deposited with the Secretary-General of the Organization of African Unity.
3. The present Charter shall come into force 30 days after the reception by the Secretary-General of the Organization of African Unity of the instruments of ratification or adherence of 15 Member States of the Organization of African Unity.

Article 48: Amendment and Revision of the Charter

1. The present Charter may be amended or revised if any State Party makes a written request to that effect to the Secretary-General of the Organization of African Unity, provided that the proposed amendment is not submitted to the Assembly of Heads of State and Government for consideration until all the States Parties have been duly notified of it and the Committee has given its opinion on the amendment.
2. An amendment shall be approved by a simple majority of the States Parties

B3: United Nations on Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities

Ratified by South Africa on 30 November 2007

Preamble

The States Parties to the present Convention,

- a. Recalling the principles proclaimed in the Charter of the United Nations which recognize the inherent dignity and worth and the equal and inalienable rights of all members of the human family as the foundation of freedom, justice and peace in the world,
- b. Recognizing that the United Nations, in the Universal Declaration of Human Rights and in the International Covenants on Human Rights, has proclaimed and agreed that everyone is entitled to all the rights and freedoms set forth therein, without distinction of any kind,
- c. Reaffirming the universality, indivisibility, interdependence and interrelatedness of all human rights and fundamental freedoms and the need for persons with disabilities to be guaranteed their full enjoyment without discrimination,
- d. Recalling the International Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights, the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, the International Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination, the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women, the Convention against Torture and Other Cruel, Inhuman or Degrading Treatment or Punishment, the Convention on the Rights of the Child, and the International Convention on the Protection of the Rights of All Migrant Workers and Members of Their Families,
- e. Recognizing that disability is an evolving concept and that disability results from the interaction between persons with impairments and attitudinal and environmental barriers that hinders their full and effective participation in society on an equal basis with others,
- f. Recognizing the importance of the principles and policy guidelines contained in the World Programme of Action concerning Disabled Persons and in the Standard Rules on the Equalization of Opportunities for Persons with Disabilities in influencing the promotion, formulation and evaluation of the policies, plans, programmes and actions at the national, regional and international levels to further equalize opportunities for persons with disabilities,
- g. Emphasizing the importance of mainstreaming disability issues as an integral part of relevant strategies of sustainable development,
- h. Recognizing also that discrimination against any person on the basis of disability is a violation of the inherent dignity and worth of the human person,
- i. Recognizing further the diversity of persons with disabilities,
- j. Recognizing the need to promote and protect the human rights of all persons with disabilities, including those who require more intensive support,
- k. Concerned that, despite these various instruments and undertakings, persons with disabilities continue to face barriers in their participation as equal members of society and violations of their human rights in all parts of the world,
- l. Recognizing the importance of international cooperation for improving the living conditions of persons with disabilities in every country, particularly in developing countries,
- m. Recognizing the valued existing and potential contributions made by persons with disabilities to the overall well-being and diversity of their communities, and that the promotion of the full enjoyment by persons with disabilities of their human rights and fundamental freedoms and of full participation by persons with disabilities will result in their enhanced sense of belonging and in significant advances in the human, social and economic development of society and the eradication of poverty,
- n. Recognizing the importance for persons with disabilities of their individual autonomy and independence, including the freedom to make their own choices,
- o. Considering that persons with disabilities should have the opportunity to be actively involved in decision-making processes about policies and programmes, including those directly concerning them,
- p. Concerned about the difficult conditions faced by persons with disabilities who are subject to multiple or aggravated forms of discrimination on the basis of race, colour, sex, language, religion, political or other opinion, national, ethnic, indigenous or social origin, property, birth, age or other status,
- q. Recognizing that women and girls with disabilities are often at greater risk, both within and outside the home of violence, injury or abuse, neglect or negligent treatment, maltreatment or exploitation,
- r. Recognizing that children with disabilities should have full enjoyment of all human rights and fundamental freedoms on an equal basis with other children, and recalling obligations to that end undertaken by States Parties to the Convention on the Rights of the Child,
- s. Emphasizing the need to incorporate a gender perspective in all efforts to promote the full enjoyment of human rights and fundamental freedoms by persons with disabilities,
- t. Highlighting the fact that the majority of persons with disabilities live in conditions of poverty, and in this regard recognizing the critical need to address the negative impact of poverty on persons with disabilities,

- u. Bearing in mind that conditions of peace and security based on full respect for the purposes and principles contained in the Charter of the United Nations and observance of applicable human rights instruments are indispensable for the full protection of persons with disabilities, in particular during armed conflicts and foreign occupation,
- v. Recognizing the importance of accessibility to the physical, social, economic and cultural environment, to health and education and to information and communication, in enabling persons with disabilities to fully enjoy all human rights and fundamental freedoms,
- w. Realizing that the individual, having duties to other individuals and to the community to which he or she belongs, is under a responsibility to strive for the promotion and observance of the rights recognized in the International Bill of Human Rights,
- x. Convinced that the family is the natural and fundamental group unit of society and is entitled to protection by society and the State, and that persons with disabilities and their family members should receive the necessary protection and assistance to enable families to contribute towards the full and equal enjoyment of the rights of persons with disabilities,
- y. Convinced that a comprehensive and integral international convention to promote and protect the rights and dignity of persons with disabilities will make a significant contribution to redressing the profound social disadvantage of persons with disabilities and promote their participation in the civil, political, economic, social and cultural spheres with equal opportunities, in both developing and developed countries,

Have agreed as follows:

Article 1 - Purpose

The purpose of the present Convention is to promote, protect and ensure the full and equal enjoyment of all human rights and fundamental freedoms by all persons with disabilities, and to promote respect for their inherent dignity. Persons with disabilities include those who have long-term physical, mental, intellectual or sensory impairments which in interaction with various barriers may hinder their full and effective participation in society on an equal basis with others.

Article 2 - Definitions

For the purposes of the present Convention:

- "Communication" includes languages, display of text, Braille, tactile communication, large print, accessible multimedia as well as written, audio, plain-language, human-reader and augmentative and alternative modes, means and formats of communication, including accessible information and communication technology;
- "Language" includes spoken and signed languages and other forms of non-spoken languages;
- "Discrimination on the basis of disability" means any distinction, exclusion or restriction on the basis of disability which has the purpose or effect of impairing or nullifying the recognition, enjoyment or exercise, on an equal basis with others, of all human rights and fundamental freedoms in the political, economic, social, cultural, civil or any other field. It includes all forms of discrimination, including denial of reasonable accommodation;
- "Reasonable accommodation" means necessary and appropriate modification and adjustments not imposing a disproportionate or undue burden, where needed in a particular case, to ensure to persons with disabilities the enjoyment or exercise on an equal basis with others of all human rights and fundamental freedoms;
- "Universal design" means the design of products, environments, programmes and services to be usable by all people, to the greatest extent possible, without the need for adaptation or specialized design. "Universal design" shall not exclude assistive devices for particular groups of persons with disabilities where this is needed.

Article 3 - General principles

The principles of the present Convention shall be:

- a. Respect for inherent dignity, individual autonomy including the freedom to make one's own choices, and independence of persons;
- b. Non-discrimination;
- c. Full and effective participation and inclusion in society;
- d. Respect for difference and acceptance of persons with disabilities as part of human diversity and humanity;
- e. Equality of opportunity;
- f. Accessibility;
- g. Equality between men and women;
- h. Respect for the evolving capacities of children with disabilities and respect for the right of children with disabilities to preserve their identities.

Article 4 - General obligations

1. States Parties undertake to ensure and promote the full realization of all human rights and fundamental freedoms for all persons with disabilities without discrimination of any kind on the basis of disability. To this end, States Parties undertake:

- a. To adopt all appropriate legislative, administrative and other measures for the implementation of the rights recognized in the present Convention;
- b. To take all appropriate measures, including legislation, to modify or abolish existing laws, regulations, customs and practices that constitute discrimination against persons with disabilities;
- c. To take into account the protection and promotion of the human rights of persons with disabilities in all policies and programmes;
- d. To refrain from engaging in any act or practice that is inconsistent with the present Convention and to ensure that public authorities and institutions act in conformity with the present Convention;
- e. To take all appropriate measures to eliminate discrimination on the basis of disability by any person, organization or private enterprise;
- f. To undertake or promote research and development of universally designed goods, services, equipment and facilities, as defined in article 2 of the present Convention, which should require the minimum possible adaptation and the least cost to meet the specific needs of a person with disabilities, to promote their availability and use, and to promote universal design in the development of standards and guidelines;
- g. To undertake or promote research and development of, and to promote the availability and use of new technologies, including information and communications technologies, mobility aids, devices and assistive technologies, suitable for persons with disabilities, giving priority to technologies at an affordable cost;
- h. To provide accessible information to persons with disabilities about mobility aids, devices and assistive technologies, including new technologies, as well as other forms of assistance, support services and facilities;
- i. To promote the training of professionals and staff working with persons with disabilities in the rights recognized in this Convention so as to better provide the assistance and services guaranteed by those rights.

2. With regard to economic, social and cultural rights, each State Party undertakes to take measures to the maximum of its available resources and, where needed, within the framework of international cooperation, with a view to achieving progressively the full realization of these rights, without prejudice to those obligations contained in the present Convention that are immediately applicable according to international law.

3. In the development and implementation of legislation and policies to implement the present Convention, and in other decision-making processes concerning issues relating to persons with disabilities, States Parties shall closely consult with and actively involve persons with disabilities, including children with disabilities, through their representative organizations.

4. Nothing in the present Convention shall affect any provisions which are more conducive to the realization of the rights of persons with disabilities and which may be contained in the law of a State Party or international law in force for that State. There shall be no restriction upon or derogation from any of the human rights and fundamental freedoms recognized or existing in any State Party to the present Convention pursuant to law, conventions, regulation or custom on the pretext that the present Convention does not recognize such rights or freedoms or that it recognizes them to a lesser extent.

5. The provisions of the present Convention shall extend to all parts of federal states without any limitations or exceptions.

Article 5 - Equality and non-discrimination

1. States Parties recognize that all persons are equal before and under the law and are entitled without any discrimination to the equal protection and equal benefit of the law.

2. States Parties shall prohibit all discrimination on the basis of disability and guarantee to persons with disabilities equal and effective legal protection against discrimination on all grounds.

3. In order to promote equality and eliminate discrimination, States Parties shall take all appropriate steps to ensure that reasonable accommodation is provided.

4. Specific measures which are necessary to accelerate or achieve de facto equality of persons with disabilities shall not be considered discrimination under the terms of the present Convention.

Article 6 - Women with disabilities

1. States Parties recognize that women and girls with disabilities are subject to multiple discrimination, and in this regard shall take measures to ensure the full and equal enjoyment by them of all human rights and fundamental freedoms.

2. States Parties shall take all appropriate measures to ensure the full development, advancement and empowerment of women, for the purpose of guaranteeing them the exercise and enjoyment of the human rights and fundamental freedoms set out in the present Convention.

Article 7 - Children with disabilities

1. States Parties shall take all necessary measures to ensure the full enjoyment by children with disabilities of all human rights and fundamental freedoms on an equal basis with other children.

2. In all actions concerning children with disabilities, the best interests of the child shall be a primary consideration.

3. States Parties shall ensure that children with disabilities have the right to express their views freely on all matters affecting them, their views being given due weight in accordance with their age and maturity, on an equal basis with other children, and to be provided with disability and age-appropriate assistance to realize that right.

Article 8 - Awareness-raising

1. States Parties undertake to adopt immediate, effective and appropriate measures:

- a. To raise awareness throughout society, including at the family level, regarding persons with disabilities, and to foster respect for the rights and dignity of persons with disabilities;
- b. To combat stereotypes, prejudices and harmful practices relating to persons with disabilities, including those based on sex and age, in all areas of life;
- c. To promote awareness of the capabilities and contributions of persons with disabilities.

Measures to this end include:

- a. Initiating and maintaining effective public awareness campaigns designed:
 - i. To nurture receptiveness to the rights of persons with disabilities;
 - ii. To promote positive perceptions and greater social awareness towards persons with disabilities;
 - iii. To promote recognition of the skills, merits and abilities of persons with disabilities, and of their contributions to the workplace and the labour market;
- b. Fostering at all levels of the education system, including in all children from an early age, an attitude of respect for the rights of persons with disabilities;
- c. Encouraging all organs of the media to portray persons with disabilities in a manner consistent with the purpose of the present Convention;
- d. Promoting awareness-training programmes regarding persons with disabilities and the rights of persons with disabilities.

Article 9 - Accessibility

1. To enable persons with disabilities to live independently and participate fully in all aspects of life, States Parties shall take appropriate measures to ensure to persons with disabilities access, on an equal basis with others, to the physical environment, to transportation, to information and communications, including information and communications technologies and systems, and to other facilities and services open or provided to the public, both in urban and in rural areas. These measures, which shall include the identification and elimination of obstacles and barriers to accessibility, shall apply to, inter alia:

- a. Buildings, roads, transportation and other indoor and outdoor facilities, including schools, housing, medical facilities and workplaces;
- b. Information, communications and other services, including electronic services and emergency services.

2. States Parties shall also take appropriate measures to:

- a. Develop, promulgate and monitor the implementation of minimum standards and guidelines for the accessibility of facilities and services open or provided to the public;
- b. Ensure that private entities that offer facilities and services which are open or provided to the public take into account all aspects of accessibility for persons with disabilities;
- c. Provide training for stakeholders on accessibility issues facing persons with disabilities;
- d. Provide in buildings and other facilities open to the public signage in Braille and in easy to read and understand forms;
- e. Provide forms of live assistance and intermediaries, including guides, readers and professional sign language interpreters, to facilitate accessibility to buildings and other facilities open to the public;
- f. Promote other appropriate forms of assistance and support to persons with disabilities to ensure their access to information;
- g. Promote access for persons with disabilities to new information and communications technologies and systems, including the Internet;
- h. Promote the design, development, production and distribution of accessible information and communications technologies and systems at an early stage, so that these technologies and systems become accessible at minimum cost.

Article 10 - Right to life

States Parties reaffirm that every human being has the inherent right to life and shall take all necessary measures to ensure its effective enjoyment by persons with disabilities on an equal basis with others.

Article 11 - Situations of risk and humanitarian emergencies

States Parties shall take, in accordance with their obligations under international law, including international humanitarian law and international human rights law, all necessary measures to ensure the protection and safety of persons with disabilities in situations of risk, including situations of armed conflict, humanitarian emergencies and the occurrence of natural disasters.

Article 12 - Equal recognition before the law

1. States Parties reaffirm that persons with disabilities have the right to recognition everywhere as persons before the law.
2. States Parties shall recognize that persons with disabilities enjoy legal capacity on an equal basis with others in all aspects of life.
3. States Parties shall take appropriate measures to provide access by persons with disabilities to the support they may require in exercising their legal capacity.
4. States Parties shall ensure that all measures that relate to the exercise of legal capacity provide for appropriate and effective safeguards to prevent abuse in accordance with international human rights law. Such safeguards shall ensure that measures relating to the exercise of legal capacity respect the rights, will and preferences of the person, are free of conflict of interest and undue influence, are proportional and tailored to the person's circumstances, apply for the shortest time possible and are subject to regular review by a competent, independent and impartial authority or judicial body. The safeguards shall be proportional to the degree to which such measures affect the person's rights and interests.
5. Subject to the provisions of this article, States Parties shall take all appropriate and effective measures to ensure the equal right of persons with disabilities to own or inherit property, to control their own financial affairs and to have equal access to bank loans, mortgages and other forms of financial credit, and shall ensure that persons with disabilities are not arbitrarily deprived of their property.

Article 13 - Access to justice

1. States Parties shall ensure effective access to justice for persons with disabilities on an equal basis with others, including through the provision of procedural and age-appropriate accommodations, in order to facilitate their effective role as direct and indirect participants, including as witnesses, in all legal proceedings, including at investigative and other preliminary stages.
2. In order to help to ensure effective access to justice for persons with disabilities, States Parties shall promote appropriate training for those working in the field of administration of justice, including police and prison staff.

Article 14 - Liberty and security of the person

1. States Parties shall ensure that persons with disabilities, on an equal basis with others:
 - a. Enjoy the right to liberty and security of person;
 - b. Are not deprived of their liberty unlawfully or arbitrarily, and that any deprivation of liberty is in conformity with the law, and that the existence of a disability shall in no case justify a deprivation of liberty.
2. States Parties shall ensure that if persons with disabilities are deprived of their liberty through any process, they are, on an equal basis with others, entitled to guarantees in accordance with international human rights law and shall be treated in compliance with the objectives and principles of this Convention, including by provision of reasonable accommodation.

Article 15 - Freedom from torture or cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment

1. No one shall be subjected to torture or to cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment. In particular, no one shall be subjected without his or her free consent to medical or scientific experimentation.
2. States Parties shall take all effective legislative, administrative, judicial or other measures to prevent persons with disabilities, on an equal basis with others, from being subjected to torture or cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment.

Article 16 - Freedom from exploitation, violence and abuse

1. States Parties shall take all appropriate legislative, administrative, social, educational and other measures to protect persons with disabilities, both within and outside the home, from all forms of exploitation, violence and abuse, including their gender-based aspects.
2. States Parties shall also take all appropriate measures to prevent all forms of exploitation, violence and abuse by ensuring, inter alia, appropriate forms of gender- and age-sensitive assistance and support for persons with disabilities and their families and caregivers, including through the provision of information and education on how to avoid, recognize and report instances of exploitation, violence and abuse. States Parties shall ensure that protection services are age-, gender- and disability-sensitive.
3. In order to prevent the occurrence of all forms of exploitation, violence and abuse, States Parties shall ensure that all facilities and programmes designed to serve persons with disabilities are effectively monitored by independent authorities.
4. States Parties shall take all appropriate measures to promote the physical, cognitive and psychological recovery, rehabilitation and social reintegration of persons with disabilities who become victims of any form of exploitation, violence or abuse, including through the provision of protection services. Such recovery and reintegration shall take place in an environment that fosters the health, welfare, self-respect, dignity and autonomy of the person and takes into account gender- and age-specific needs.
5. States Parties shall put in place effective legislation and policies, including women- and child-focused legislation and policies, to ensure that instances of exploitation, violence and abuse against persons with disabilities are identified, investigated and, where appropriate, prosecuted.

Article 17 - Protecting the integrity of the person

Not to be quoted or cited

Every person with disabilities has a right to respect for his or her physical and mental integrity on an equal basis with others.

Article 18 - Liberty of movement and nationality

1. States Parties shall recognize the rights of persons with disabilities to liberty of movement, to freedom to choose their residence and to a nationality, on an equal basis with others, including by ensuring that persons with disabilities:
 - a. Have the right to acquire and change a nationality and are not deprived of their nationality arbitrarily or on the basis of disability;
 - b. Are not deprived, on the basis of disability, of their ability to obtain, possess and utilize documentation of their nationality or other documentation of identification, or to utilize relevant processes such as immigration proceedings, that may be needed to facilitate exercise of the right to liberty of movement;
 - c. Are free to leave any country, including their own;
 - d. Are not deprived, arbitrarily or on the basis of disability, of the right to enter their own country.
2. Children with disabilities shall be registered immediately after birth and shall have the right from birth to a name, the right to acquire a nationality and, as far as possible, the right to know and be cared for by their parents.

Article 19 - Living independently and being included in the community

- States Parties to this Convention recognize the equal right of all persons with disabilities to live in the community, with choices equal to others, and shall take effective and appropriate measures to facilitate full enjoyment by persons with disabilities of this right and their full inclusion and participation in the community, including by ensuring that:
- a. Persons with disabilities have the opportunity to choose their place of residence and where and with whom they live on an equal basis with others and are not obliged to live in a particular living arrangement;
 - b. Persons with disabilities have access to a range of in-home, residential and other community support services, including personal assistance necessary to support living and inclusion in the community, and to prevent isolation or segregation from the community;
 - c. Community services and facilities for the general population are available on an equal basis to persons with disabilities and are responsive to their needs.

Article 20 - Personal mobility

- States Parties shall take effective measures to ensure personal mobility with the greatest possible independence for persons with disabilities, including by:
- a. Facilitating the personal mobility of persons with disabilities in the manner and at the time of their choice, and at affordable cost;
 - b. Facilitating access by persons with disabilities to quality mobility aids, devices, assistive technologies and forms of live assistance and intermediaries, including by making them available at affordable cost;
 - c. Providing training in mobility skills to persons with disabilities and to specialist staff working with persons with disabilities;
 - d. Encouraging entities that produce mobility aids, devices and assistive technologies to take into account all aspects of mobility for persons with disabilities.

Article 21 - Freedom of expression and opinion, and access to information

- States Parties shall take all appropriate measures to ensure that persons with disabilities can exercise the right to freedom of expression and opinion, including the freedom to seek, receive and impart information and ideas on an equal basis with others and through all forms of communication of their choice, as defined in article 2 of the present Convention, including by:
- a. Providing information intended for the general public to persons with disabilities in accessible formats and technologies appropriate to different kinds of disabilities in a timely manner and without additional cost;
 - b. Accepting and facilitating the use of sign languages, Braille, augmentative and alternative communication, and all other accessible means, modes and formats of communication of their choice by persons with disabilities in official interactions;
 - c. Urging private entities that provide services to the general public, including through the Internet, to provide information and services in accessible and usable formats for persons with disabilities;
 - d. Encouraging the mass media, including providers of information through the Internet, to make their services accessible to persons with disabilities;
 - e. Recognizing and promoting the use of sign languages.

Article 22 - Respect for privacy

1. No person with disabilities, regardless of place of residence or living arrangements, shall be subjected to arbitrary or unlawful interference with his or her privacy, family, home or correspondence or other types of communication or to unlawful attacks on his or her honour and reputation. Persons with disabilities have the right to the protection of the law against such interference or attacks.

2. States Parties shall protect the privacy of personal, health and rehabilitation information of persons with disabilities on an equal basis with others.

Article 23 - Respect for home and the family

1. States Parties shall take effective and appropriate measures to eliminate discrimination against persons with disabilities in all matters relating to marriage, family, parenthood and relationships, on an equal basis with others, so as to ensure that:

- a. The right of all persons with disabilities who are of marriageable age to marry and to found a family on the basis of free and full consent of the intending spouses is recognized;
- b. The rights of persons with disabilities to decide freely and responsibly on the number and spacing of their children and to have access to age-appropriate information, reproductive and family planning education are recognized, and the means necessary to enable them to exercise these rights are provided;
- c. Persons with disabilities, including children, retain their fertility on an equal basis with others.

2. States Parties shall ensure the rights and responsibilities of persons with disabilities, with regard to guardianship, wardship, trusteeship, adoption of children or similar institutions, where these concepts exist in national legislation; in all cases the best interests of the child shall be paramount.

States Parties shall render appropriate assistance to persons with disabilities in the performance of their child-rearing responsibilities.

3. States Parties shall ensure that children with disabilities have equal rights with respect to family life. With a view to realizing these rights, and to prevent concealment, abandonment, neglect and segregation of children with disabilities, States Parties shall undertake to provide early and comprehensive information, services and support to children with disabilities and their families.

4. States Parties shall ensure that a child shall not be separated from his or her parents against their will, except when competent authorities subject to judicial review determine, in accordance with applicable law and procedures, that such separation is necessary for the best interests of the child. In no case shall a child be separated from parents on the basis of a disability of either the child or one or both of the parents.

5. States Parties shall, where the immediate family is unable to care for a child with disabilities, undertake every effort to provide alternative care within the wider family, and failing that, within the community in a family setting.

Article 24 - Education

1. States Parties recognize the right of persons with disabilities to education. With a view to realizing this right without discrimination and on the basis of equal opportunity, States Parties shall ensure an inclusive education system at all levels and life long learning directed to:

- a. The full development of human potential and sense of dignity and self-worth, and the strengthening of respect for human rights, fundamental freedoms and human diversity;
- b. The development by persons with disabilities of their personality, talents and creativity, as well as their mental and physical abilities, to their fullest potential;
- c. Enabling persons with disabilities to participate effectively in a free society.

2. In realizing this right, States Parties shall ensure that:

- a. Persons with disabilities are not excluded from the general education system on the basis of disability, and that children with disabilities are not excluded from free and compulsory primary education, or from secondary education, on the basis of disability;
- b. Persons with disabilities can access an inclusive, quality and free primary education and secondary education on an equal basis with others in the communities in which they live;
- c. Reasonable accommodation of the individual's requirements is provided;
- d. Persons with disabilities receive the support required, within the general education system, to facilitate their effective education;
- e. Effective individualized support measures are provided in environments that maximize academic and social development, consistent with the goal of full inclusion.

3. States Parties shall enable persons with disabilities to learn life and social development skills to facilitate their full and equal participation in education and as members of the community. To this end, States Parties shall take appropriate measures, including:

- a. Facilitating the learning of Braille, alternative script, augmentative and alternative modes, means and formats of communication and orientation and mobility skills, and facilitating peer support and mentoring;
- b. Facilitating the learning of sign language and the promotion of the linguistic identity of the deaf community;
- c. Ensuring that the education of persons, and in particular children, who are blind, deaf or deafblind, is delivered in the most appropriate languages and modes and means of communication for the individual, and in environments which maximize academic and social development.

4. In order to help ensure the realization of this right, States Parties shall take appropriate measures to employ teachers, including teachers with disabilities, who are qualified in sign language and/or Braille, and to train professionals and staff who work at all levels of education. Such training shall incorporate disability awareness and the use of appropriate augmentative and alternative modes, means and formats of communication, educational techniques and materials to support persons with disabilities.

5. States Parties shall ensure that persons with disabilities are able to access general tertiary education, vocational training, adult education and lifelong learning without discrimination and on an equal basis with others. To this end, States Parties shall ensure that reasonable accommodation is provided to persons with disabilities.

Article 25 - Health

States Parties recognize that persons with disabilities have the right to the enjoyment of the highest attainable standard of health without discrimination on the basis of disability. States Parties shall take all appropriate measures to ensure access for persons with disabilities to health services that are gender-sensitive, including health-related rehabilitation. In particular, States Parties shall:

- a. Provide persons with disabilities with the same range, quality and standard of free or affordable health care and programmes as provided to other persons, including in the area of sexual and reproductive health and population-based public health programmes;
- b. Provide those health services needed by persons with disabilities specifically because of their disabilities, including early identification and intervention as appropriate, and services designed to minimize and prevent further disabilities, including among children and older persons;
- c. Provide these health services as close as possible to people's own communities, including in rural areas;
- d. Require health professionals to provide care of the same quality to persons with disabilities as to others, including on the basis of free and informed consent by, inter alia, raising awareness of the human rights, dignity, autonomy and needs of persons with disabilities through training and the promulgation of ethical standards for public and private health care;
- e. Prohibit discrimination against persons with disabilities in the provision of health insurance, and life insurance where such insurance is permitted by national law, which shall be provided in a fair and reasonable manner;
- f. Prevent discriminatory denial of health care or health services or food and fluids on the basis of disability.

Article 26 - Habilitation and rehabilitation

1. States Parties shall take effective and appropriate measures, including through peer support, to enable persons with disabilities to attain and maintain maximum independence, full physical, mental, social and vocational ability, and full inclusion and participation in all aspects of life. To that end, States Parties shall organize, strengthen and extend comprehensive habilitation and rehabilitation services and programmes, particularly in the areas of health, employment, education and social services, in such a way that these services and programmes:

- a. Begin at the earliest possible stage, and are based on the multidisciplinary assessment of individual needs and strengths;
- b. Support participation and inclusion in the community and all aspects of society, are voluntary, and are available to persons with disabilities as close as possible to their own communities, including in rural areas.

2. States Parties shall promote the development of initial and continuing training for professionals and staff working in habilitation and rehabilitation services.

3. States Parties shall promote the availability, knowledge and use of assistive devices and technologies, designed for persons with disabilities, as they relate to habilitation and rehabilitation.

Article 27 - Work and employment

1. States Parties recognize the right of persons with disabilities to work, on an equal basis with others; this includes the right to the opportunity to gain a living by work freely chosen or accepted in a labour market and work environment that is open, inclusive and accessible to persons with disabilities. States Parties shall safeguard and promote the realization of the right to work, including for those who acquire a disability during the course of employment, by taking appropriate steps, including through legislation, to, inter alia:

- a. Prohibit discrimination on the basis of disability with regard to all matters concerning all forms of employment, including conditions of recruitment, hiring and employment, continuance of employment, career advancement and safe and healthy working conditions;
- b. Protect the rights of persons with disabilities, on an equal basis with others, to just and favourable conditions of work, including equal opportunities and equal remuneration for work of equal value, safe and healthy working conditions, including protection from harassment, and the redress of grievances;
- c. Ensure that persons with disabilities are able to exercise their labour and trade union rights on an equal basis with others;
- d. Enable persons with disabilities to have effective access to general technical and vocational guidance programmes, placement services and vocational and continuing training;

- e. Promote employment opportunities and career advancement for persons with disabilities in the labour market, as well as assistance in finding, obtaining, maintaining and returning to employment;
 - f. Promote opportunities for self-employment, entrepreneurship, the development of cooperatives and starting one's own business;
 - g. Employ persons with disabilities in the public sector;
 - h. Promote the employment of persons with disabilities in the private sector through appropriate policies and measures, which may include affirmative action programmes, incentives and other measures;
 - i. Ensure that reasonable accommodation is provided to persons with disabilities in the workplace;
 - j. Promote the acquisition by persons with disabilities of work experience in the open labour market;
 - k. Promote vocational and professional rehabilitation, job retention and return-to-work programmes for persons with disabilities.
2. States Parties shall ensure that persons with disabilities are not held in slavery or in servitude, and are protected, on an equal basis with others, from forced or compulsory labour.

Article 28 - Adequate standard of living and social protection

1. States Parties recognize the right of persons with disabilities to an adequate standard of living for themselves and their families, including adequate food, clothing and housing, and to the continuous improvement of living conditions, and shall take appropriate steps to safeguard and promote the realization of this right without discrimination on the basis of disability.

2. States Parties recognize the right of persons with disabilities to social protection and to the enjoyment of that right without discrimination on the basis of disability, and shall take appropriate steps to safeguard and promote the realization of this right, including measures:

- a. To ensure equal access by persons with disabilities to clean water services, and to ensure access to appropriate and affordable services, devices and other assistance for disability-related needs;
- b. To ensure access by persons with disabilities, in particular women and girls with disabilities and older persons with disabilities, to social protection programmes and poverty reduction programmes;
- c. To ensure access by persons with disabilities and their families living in situations of poverty to assistance from the State with disability-related expenses, including adequate training, counselling, financial assistance and respite care;
- d. To ensure access by persons with disabilities to public housing programmes;
- e. To ensure equal access by persons with disabilities to retirement benefits and programmes.

Article 29 - Participation in political and public life

States Parties shall guarantee to persons with disabilities political rights and the opportunity to enjoy them on an equal basis with others, and shall undertake to:

- a. Ensure that persons with disabilities can effectively and fully participate in political and public life on an equal basis with others, directly or through freely chosen representatives, including the right and opportunity for persons with disabilities to vote and be elected, inter alia, by:
 - i. Ensuring that voting procedures, facilities and materials are appropriate, accessible and easy to understand and use;
 - ii. Protecting the right of persons with disabilities to vote by secret ballot in elections and public referendums without intimidation, and to stand for elections, to effectively hold office and perform all public functions at all levels of government, facilitating the use of assistive and new technologies where appropriate;
 - iii. Guaranteeing the free expression of the will of persons with disabilities as electors and to this end, where necessary, at their request, allowing assistance in voting by a person of their own choice;
- b. Promote actively an environment in which persons with disabilities can effectively and fully participate in the conduct of public affairs, without discrimination and on an equal basis with others, and encourage their participation in public affairs, including:
 - i. Participation in non-governmental organizations and associations concerned with the public and political life of the country, and in the activities and administration of political parties;
 - ii. Forming and joining organizations of persons with disabilities to represent persons with disabilities at international, national, regional and local levels.

Article 30 - Participation in cultural life, recreation, leisure and sport

1. States Parties recognize the right of persons with disabilities to take part on an equal basis with others in cultural life, and shall take all appropriate measures to ensure that persons with disabilities:

- a. Enjoy access to cultural materials in accessible formats;
- b. Enjoy access to television programmes, films, theatre and other cultural activities, in accessible formats;

- c. Enjoy access to places for cultural performances or services, such as theatres, museums, cinemas, libraries and tourism services, and, as far as possible, enjoy access to monuments and sites of national cultural importance.

2. States Parties shall take appropriate measures to enable persons with disabilities to have the opportunity to develop and utilize their creative, artistic and intellectual potential, not only for their own benefit, but also for the enrichment of society.

3. States Parties shall take all appropriate steps, in accordance with international law, to ensure that laws protecting intellectual property rights do not constitute an unreasonable or discriminatory barrier to access by persons with disabilities to cultural materials.

4. Persons with disabilities shall be entitled, on an equal basis with others, to recognition and support of their specific cultural and linguistic identity, including sign languages and deaf culture.

5. With a view to enabling persons with disabilities to participate on an equal basis with others in recreational, leisure and sporting activities, States Parties shall take appropriate measures:

- a. To encourage and promote the participation, to the fullest extent possible, of persons with disabilities in mainstream sporting activities at all levels;
- b. To ensure that persons with disabilities have an opportunity to organize, develop and participate in disability-specific sporting and recreational activities and, to this end, encourage the provision, on an equal basis with others, of appropriate instruction, training and resources;
- c. To ensure that persons with disabilities have access to sporting, recreational and tourism venues;
- d. To ensure that children with disabilities have equal access with other children to participation in play, recreation and leisure and sporting activities, including those activities in the school system;
- e. To ensure that persons with disabilities have access to services from those involved in the organization of recreational, tourism, leisure and sporting activities.

Article 31 - Statistics and data collection

1. States Parties undertake to collect appropriate information, including statistical and research data, to enable them to formulate and implement policies to give effect to the present Convention. The process of collecting and maintaining this information shall:

- a. Comply with legally established safeguards, including legislation on data protection, to ensure confidentiality and respect for the privacy of persons with disabilities;
- b. Comply with internationally accepted norms to protect human rights and fundamental freedoms and ethical principles in the collection and use of statistics.

2. The information collected in accordance with this article shall be disaggregated, as appropriate, and used to help assess the implementation of States Parties' obligations under the present Convention and to identify and address the barriers faced by persons with disabilities in exercising their rights.

3. States Parties shall assume responsibility for the dissemination of these statistics and ensure their accessibility to persons with disabilities and others.

Article 32 - International cooperation

1. States Parties recognize the importance of international cooperation and its promotion, in support of national efforts for the realization of the purpose and objectives of the present Convention, and will undertake appropriate and effective measures in this regard, between and among States and, as appropriate, in partnership with relevant international and regional organizations and civil society, in particular organizations of persons with disabilities. Such measures could include, inter alia:

- a. Ensuring that international cooperation, including international development programmes, is inclusive of and accessible to persons with disabilities;
- b. Facilitating and supporting capacity-building, including through the exchange and sharing of information, experiences, training programmes and best practices;
- c. Facilitating cooperation in research and access to scientific and technical knowledge;
- d. Providing, as appropriate, technical and economic assistance, including by facilitating access to and sharing of accessible and assistive technologies, and through the transfer of technologies.

2. The provisions of this article are without prejudice to the obligations of each State Party to fulfil its obligations under the present Convention.

Article 33 - National implementation and monitoring

1. States Parties, in accordance with their system of organization, shall designate one or more focal points within government for matters relating to the implementation of the present Convention, and shall give due consideration to the establishment or designation of a coordination mechanism within government to facilitate related action in different sectors and at different levels.

2. States Parties shall, in accordance with their legal and administrative systems, maintain, strengthen, designate or establish within the State Party, a framework, including one or more independent mechanisms, as appropriate, to promote, protect and monitor implementation of the present Convention.

When designating or establishing such a mechanism, States Parties shall take into account the principles relating to the status and functioning of national institutions for protection and promotion of human rights.

3. Civil society, in particular persons with disabilities and their representative organizations, shall be involved and participate fully in the monitoring process.

Article 34 - Committee on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities

1. There shall be established a Committee on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities (hereafter referred to as "the Committee"), which shall carry out the functions hereinafter provided.

2. The Committee shall consist, at the time of entry into force of the present Convention, of twelve experts. After an additional sixty ratifications or accessions to the Convention, the membership of the Committee shall increase by six members, attaining a maximum number of eighteen members.

3. The members of the Committee shall serve in their personal capacity and shall be of high moral standing and recognized competence and experience in the field covered by the present Convention. When nominating their candidates, States Parties are invited to give due consideration to the provision set out in article 4.3 of the present Convention.

4. The members of the Committee shall be elected by States Parties, consideration being given to equitable geographical distribution, representation of the different forms of civilization and of the principal legal systems, balanced gender representation and participation of experts with disabilities.

5. The members of the Committee shall be elected by secret ballot from a list of persons nominated by the States Parties from among their nationals at meetings of the Conference of States Parties. At those meetings, for which two thirds of States Parties shall constitute a quorum, the persons elected to the Committee shall be those who obtain the largest number of votes and an absolute majority of the votes of the representatives of States Parties present and voting.

6. The initial election shall be held no later than six months after the date of entry into force of the present Convention. At least four months before the date of each election, the Secretary-General of the United Nations shall address a letter to the States Parties inviting them to submit the nominations within two months. The Secretary-General shall subsequently prepare a list in alphabetical order of all persons thus nominated, indicating the States Parties which have nominated them, and shall submit it to the States Parties to the present Convention.

7. The members of the Committee shall be elected for a term of four years. They shall be eligible for re-election once. However, the term of six of the members elected at the first election shall expire at the end of two years; immediately after the first election, the names of these six members shall be chosen by lot by the chairperson of the meeting referred to in paragraph 5 of this article.

8. The election of the six additional members of the Committee shall be held on the occasion of regular elections, in accordance with the relevant provisions of this article.

9. If a member of the Committee dies or resigns or declares that for any other cause she or he can no longer perform her or his duties, the State Party which nominated the member shall appoint another expert possessing the qualifications and meeting the requirements set out in the relevant provisions of this article, to serve for the remainder of the term.

10. The Committee shall establish its own rules of procedure.

11. The Secretary-General of the United Nations shall provide the necessary staff and facilities for the effective performance of the functions of the Committee under the present Convention, and shall convene its initial meeting.

12. With the approval of the General Assembly, the members of the Committee established under the present Convention shall receive emoluments from United Nations resources on such terms and conditions as the Assembly may decide, having regard to the importance of the Committee's responsibilities.

13. The members of the Committee shall be entitled to the facilities, privileges and immunities of experts on mission for the United Nations as laid down in the relevant sections of the Convention on the Privileges and Immunities of the United Nations.

Article 35 - Reports by States Parties

1. Each State Party shall submit to the Committee, through the Secretary-General of the United Nations, a comprehensive report on measures taken to give effect to its obligations under the present Convention and on the progress made in that regard, within two years after the entry into force of the present Convention for the State Party concerned.

2. Thereafter, States Parties shall submit subsequent reports at least every four years and further whenever the Committee so requests.

3. The Committee shall decide any guidelines applicable to the content of the reports.

4. A State Party which has submitted a comprehensive initial report to the Committee need not, in its subsequent reports, repeat information previously provided. When preparing reports to the Committee, States Parties are invited to consider doing so in an open and transparent process and to give due consideration to the provision set out in article 4.3 of the present Convention.

5. Reports may indicate factors and difficulties affecting the degree of fulfilment of obligations under the present Convention.

Article 36 - Consideration of reports

1. Each report shall be considered by the Committee, which shall make such suggestions and general recommendations on the report as it may consider appropriate and shall forward these to the State Party concerned. The State Party may respond with any information it chooses to the Committee. The Committee may request further information from States Parties relevant to the implementation of the present Convention.

2. If a State Party is significantly overdue in the submission of a report, the Committee may notify the State Party concerned of the need to examine the implementation of the present Convention in that State Party, on the basis of reliable information available to the Committee, if the relevant report is not submitted within three months following the notification. The Committee shall invite the State Party concerned to participate in such examination. Should the State Party respond by submitting the relevant report, the provisions of paragraph 1 of this article will apply.

3. The Secretary-General of the United Nations shall make available the reports to all States Parties.

4. States Parties shall make their reports widely available to the public in their own countries and facilitate access to the suggestions and general recommendations relating to these reports.

5. The Committee shall transmit, as it may consider appropriate, to the specialized agencies, funds and programmes of the United Nations, and other competent bodies, reports from States Parties in order to address a request or indication of a need for technical advice or assistance contained therein, along with the Committee's observations and recommendations, if any, on these requests or indications.

Article 37 - Cooperation between States Parties and the Committee

1. Each State Party shall cooperate with the Committee and assist its members in the fulfilment of their mandate.

2. In its relationship with States Parties, the Committee shall give due consideration to ways and means of enhancing national capacities for the implementation of the present Convention, including through international cooperation.

Article 38 - Relationship of the Committee with other bodies

In order to foster the effective implementation of the present Convention and to encourage international cooperation in the field covered by the present Convention:

- a. The specialized agencies and other United Nations organs shall be entitled to be represented at the consideration of the implementation of such provisions of the present Convention as fall within the scope of their mandate. The Committee may invite the specialized agencies and other competent bodies as it may consider appropriate to provide expert advice on the implementation of the Convention in areas falling within the scope of their respective mandates. The Committee may invite specialized agencies and other United Nations organs to submit reports on the implementation of the Convention in areas falling within the scope of their activities;
- b. The Committee, as it discharges its mandate, shall consult, as appropriate, other relevant bodies instituted by international human rights treaties, with a view to ensuring the consistency of their respective reporting guidelines, suggestions and general recommendations, and avoiding duplication and overlap in the performance of their functions.

Article 39 - Report of the Committee

The Committee shall report every two years to the General Assembly and to the Economic and Social Council on its activities, and may make suggestions and general recommendations based on the examination of reports and information received from the States Parties. Such suggestions and general recommendations shall be included in the report of the Committee together with comments, if any, from States Parties.

Article 40 - Conference of States Parties

1. The States Parties shall meet regularly in a Conference of States Parties in order to consider any matter with regard to the implementation of the present Convention.

2. No later than six months after the entry into force of the present Convention, the Conference of the States Parties shall be convened by the Secretary-General of the United Nations. The subsequent meetings shall be convened by the Secretary-General of the United Nations biennially or upon the decision of the Conference of States Parties.

Article 41 - Depositary

The Secretary-General of the United Nations shall be the depositary of the present Convention.

Article 42 - Signature

Article 43 - Consent to be bound

The present Convention shall be subject to ratification by signatory States and to formal confirmation by signatory regional integration organizations. It shall be open for accession by any State or regional integration organization which has not signed the Convention.

Article 44 - Regional integration organizations

1. "Regional integration organization" shall mean an organization constituted by sovereign States of a given region, to which its member States have transferred competence in respect of matters governed by this Convention. Such organizations shall declare, in their instruments of formal confirmation or accession, the extent of their competence with respect to matters governed by this Convention. Subsequently, they shall inform the depositary of any substantial modification in the extent of their competence.
2. References to "States Parties" in the present Convention shall apply to such organizations within the limits of their competence.
3. For the purposes of article 45, paragraph 1, and article 47, paragraphs 2 and 3, any instrument deposited by a regional integration organization shall not be counted.
4. Regional integration organizations, in matters within their competence, may exercise their right to vote in the Conference of States Parties, with a number of votes equal to the number of their member States that are Parties to this Convention. Such an organization shall not exercise its right to vote if any of its member States exercises its right, and vice versa.

Article 45 - Entry into force

1. The present Convention shall enter into force on the thirtieth day after the deposit of the twentieth instrument of ratification or accession.
2. For each State or regional integration organization ratifying, formally confirming or acceding to the Convention after the deposit of the twentieth such instrument, the Convention shall enter into force on the thirtieth day after the deposit of its own such instrument.

Article 46 - Reservations

1. Reservations incompatible with the object and purpose of the present Convention shall not be permitted.
2. Reservations may be withdrawn at any time.

Article 47 - Amendments

1. Any State Party may propose an amendment to the present Convention and submit it to the Secretary-General of the United Nations. The Secretary-

General shall communicate any proposed amendments to States Parties, with a request to be notified whether they favour a conference of States Parties for the purpose of considering and deciding upon the proposals. In the event that, within four months from the date of such communication, at least one third of the States Parties favour such a conference, the Secretary-General shall convene the conference under the auspices of the United Nations. Any amendment adopted by a majority of two thirds of the States Parties present and voting shall be submitted by the Secretary-General to the General Assembly for approval and thereafter to all States Parties for acceptance.

2. An amendment adopted and approved in accordance with paragraph 1 of this article shall enter into force on the thirtieth day after the number of instruments of acceptance deposited reaches two thirds of the number of States Parties at the date of adoption of the amendment. Thereafter, the amendment shall enter into force for any State Party on the thirtieth day following the deposit of its own instrument of acceptance. An amendment shall be binding only on those States Parties which have accepted it.
3. If so decided by the Conference of States Parties by consensus, an amendment adopted and approved in accordance with paragraph 1 of this article which relates exclusively to articles 34, 38, 39 and 40 shall enter into force for all States Parties on the thirtieth day after the number of instruments of acceptance deposited reaches two thirds of the number of States Parties at the date of adoption of the amendment.

Article 48 - Denunciation

A State Party may denounce the present Convention by written notification to the Secretary-General of the United Nations. The denunciation shall become effective one year after the date of receipt of the notification by the Secretary-General.

Article 49 - Accessible format

The text of the present Convention shall be made available in accessible formats.

Article 50 - Authentic texts

The Arabic, Chinese, English, French, Russian and Spanish texts of the present Convention shall be equally authentic.

B4: Convention on the Elimination of all forms of Discrimination Against Women

Ratified by South Africa on 15 December 1995

The States Parties to the present Convention,

Noting that the Charter of the United Nations reaffirms faith in fundamental human rights, in the dignity and worth of the human person and in the equal rights of men and women,

Noting that the Universal Declaration of Human Rights affirms the principle of the inadmissibility of discrimination and proclaims that all human beings are born free and equal in dignity and rights and that everyone is entitled to all the rights and freedoms set forth therein, without distinction of any kind, including distinction based on sex,

Noting that the States Parties to the International Covenants on Human Rights have the obligation to ensure the equal rights of men and women to enjoy all economic, social, cultural, civil and political rights,

Considering the international conventions concluded under the auspices of the United Nations and the specialized agencies promoting equality of rights of men and women,

Noting also the resolutions, declarations and recommendations adopted by the United Nations and the specialized agencies promoting equality of rights of men and women,

Concerned, however, that despite these various instruments extensive discrimination against women continues to exist,

Recalling that discrimination against women violates the principles of equality of rights and respect for human dignity, is an obstacle to the participation of women, on equal terms with men, in the political, social, economic and cultural life of their countries, hampers the growth of the prosperity of society and the family and makes more difficult the full development of the potentialities of women in the service of their countries and of humanity,

Concerned that in situations of poverty women have the least access to food, health, education, training and opportunities for employment and other needs,

Convinced that the establishment of the new international economic order based on equity and justice will contribute significantly towards the promotion of equality between men and women,

Emphasizing that the eradication of apartheid, all forms of racism, racial discrimination, colonialism, neo-colonialism, aggression, foreign occupation and domination and interference in the internal affairs of States is essential to the full enjoyment of the rights of men and women,

Affirming that the strengthening of international peace and security, the relaxation of international tension, mutual co-operation among all States irrespective of their social and economic systems, general and complete disarmament, in particular nuclear disarmament under strict and effective international control, the affirmation of the principles of justice, equality and mutual benefit in relations among countries and the realization of the right of peoples under alien and colonial domination and foreign occupation to self-determination and independence, as well as respect for national sovereignty and territorial integrity, will promote social progress and development and as a consequence will contribute to the attainment of full equality between men and women,

Convinced that the full and complete development of a country, the welfare of the world and the cause of peace require the maximum participation of women on equal terms with men in all fields,

Bearing in mind the great contribution of women to the welfare of the family and to the development of society, so far not fully recognized, the social significance of maternity and the role of both parents in the family and in the upbringing of children, and aware that the role of women in procreation should not be a basis for discrimination but that the upbringing of children requires a sharing of responsibility between men and women and society as a whole,

Aware that a change in the traditional role of men as well as the role of women in society and in the family is needed to achieve full equality between men and women,

Determined to implement the principles set forth in the Declaration on the Elimination of Discrimination against Women and, for that purpose, to adopt the measures required for the elimination of such discrimination in all its forms and manifestations,

Have agreed on the following:

PART I

Article 1

For the purposes of the present Convention, the term "discrimination against women" shall mean any distinction, exclusion or restriction made on the basis of sex which has the effect or purpose of impairing or nullifying the recognition, enjoyment or exercise by women, irrespective of their marital status, on a basis of equality of men and women, of human rights and fundamental freedoms in the political, economic, social, cultural, civil or any other field.

Not to be quoted or cited

Article 2

States Parties condemn discrimination against women in all its forms, agree to pursue by all appropriate means and without delay a policy of eliminating discrimination against women and, to this end, undertake:

- (a) To embody the principle of the equality of men and women in their national constitutions or other appropriate legislation if not yet incorporated therein and to ensure, through law and other appropriate means, the practical realization of this principle;
- (b) To adopt appropriate legislative and other measures, including sanctions where appropriate, prohibiting all discrimination against women;
- (c) To establish legal protection of the rights of women on an equal basis with men and to ensure through competent national tribunals and other public institutions the effective protection of women against any act of discrimination;
- (d) To refrain from engaging in any act or practice of discrimination against women and to ensure that public authorities and institutions shall act in conformity with this obligation;
- (e) To take all appropriate measures to eliminate discrimination against women by any person, organization or enterprise;
- (f) To take all appropriate measures, including legislation, to modify or abolish existing laws, regulations, customs and practices which constitute discrimination against women;
- (g) To repeal all national penal provisions which constitute discrimination against women.

Article 3

States Parties shall take in all fields, in particular in the political, social, economic and cultural fields, all appropriate measures, including legislation, to ensure the full development and advancement of women, for the purpose of guaranteeing them the exercise and enjoyment of human rights and fundamental freedoms on a basis of equality with men.

Article 4

1. Adoption by States Parties of temporary special measures aimed at accelerating de facto equality between men and women shall not be considered discrimination as defined in the present Convention, but shall in no way entail as a consequence the maintenance of unequal or separate standards; these measures shall be discontinued when the objectives of equality of opportunity and treatment have been achieved.
2. Adoption by States Parties of special measures, including those measures contained in the present Convention, aimed at protecting maternity shall not be considered discriminatory.

Article 5

States Parties shall take all appropriate measures:

- (a) To modify the social and cultural patterns of conduct of men and women, with a view to achieving the elimination of prejudices and customary and all other practices which are based on the idea of the inferiority or the superiority of either of the sexes or on stereotyped roles for men and women;
- (b) To ensure that family education includes a proper understanding of maternity as a social function and the recognition of the common responsibility of men and women in the upbringing and development of their children, it being understood that the interest of the children is the primordial consideration in all cases.

Article 6

States Parties shall take all appropriate measures, including legislation, to suppress all forms of traffic in women and exploitation of prostitution of women.

PART II

Article 7

States Parties shall take all appropriate measures to eliminate discrimination against women in the political and public life of the country and, in particular, shall ensure to women, on equal terms with men, the right:

- (a) To vote in all elections and public referenda and to be eligible for election to all publicly elected bodies;
- (b) To participate in the formulation of government policy and the implementation thereof and to hold public office and perform all public functions at all levels of government;
- (c) To participate in non-governmental organizations and associations concerned with the public and political life of the country.

Article 8

States Parties shall take all appropriate measures to ensure to women, on equal terms with men and without any discrimination, the opportunity to represent their Governments at the international level and to participate in the work of international organizations.

Article 9

1. States Parties shall grant women equal rights with men to acquire, change or retain their nationality. They shall ensure in particular that neither marriage to an alien nor change of nationality by the husband during marriage shall automatically change the nationality of the wife, render her stateless or force upon her the nationality of the husband.
2. States Parties shall grant women equal rights with men with respect to the nationality of their children.

PART IIIArticle 10

States Parties shall take all appropriate measures to eliminate discrimination against women in order to ensure to them equal rights with men in the field of education and in particular to ensure, on a basis of equality of men and women:

- (a) The same conditions for career and vocational guidance, for access to studies and for the achievement of diplomas in educational establishments of all categories in rural as well as in urban areas; this equality shall be ensured in pre-school, general, technical, professional and higher technical education, as well as in all types of vocational training;
- (b) Access to the same curricula, the same examinations, teaching staff with qualifications of the same standard and school premises and equipment of the same quality;
- (c) The elimination of any stereotyped concept of the roles of men and women at all levels and in all forms of education by encouraging coeducation and other types of education which will help to achieve this aim and, in particular, by the revision of textbooks and school programmes and the adaptation of teaching methods;
- (d) The same opportunities to benefit from scholarships and other study grants;
- (e) The same opportunities for access to programmes of continuing education, including adult and functional literacy programmes, particularly those aimed at reducing, at the earliest possible time, any gap in education existing between men and women;
- (f) The reduction of female student drop-out rates and the organization of programmes for girls and women who have left school prematurely;
- (g) The same opportunities to participate actively in sports and physical education;
- (h) Access to specific educational information to help to ensure the health and well-being of families, including information and advice on family planning.

Article 11

1. States Parties shall take all appropriate measures to eliminate discrimination against women in the field of employment in order to ensure, on a basis of equality of men and women, the same rights, in particular:

- (a) The right to work as an inalienable right of all human beings;
 - (b) The right to the same employment opportunities, including the application of the same criteria for selection in matters of employment;
 - (c) The right to free choice of profession and employment, the right to promotion, job security and all benefits and conditions of service and the right to receive vocational training and retraining, including apprenticeships, advanced vocational training and recurrent training;
 - (d) The right to equal remuneration, including benefits, and to equal treatment in respect of work of equal value, as well as equality of treatment in the evaluation of the quality of work;
 - (e) The right to social security, particularly in cases of retirement, unemployment, sickness, invalidity and old age and other incapacity to work, as well as the right to paid leave;
 - (f) The right to protection of health and to safety in working conditions, including the safeguarding of the function of reproduction.
2. In order to prevent discrimination against women on the grounds of marriage or maternity and to ensure their effective right to work, States Parties shall take appropriate measures:
- (a) To prohibit, subject to the imposition of sanctions, dismissal on the grounds of pregnancy or of maternity leave and discrimination in dismissals on the basis of marital status;
 - (b) To introduce maternity leave with pay or with comparable social benefits without loss of former employment, seniority or social allowances;
 - (c) To encourage the provision of the necessary supporting social services to enable parents to combine family obligations with work responsibilities and participation in public life, in particular through promoting the establishment and development of a network of child-care facilities;
 - (d) To provide special protection to women during pregnancy in types of work proved to be harmful to them.
3. Protective legislation relating to matters covered in this article shall be reviewed periodically in the light of scientific and technological knowledge and shall be revised, repealed or extended as necessary.

Article 12

1. States Parties shall take all appropriate measures to eliminate discrimination against women in the field of health care in order to ensure, on a basis of equality of men and women, access to health care services, including those related to family planning.

2. Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph 1 of this article, States Parties shall ensure to women appropriate services in connection with pregnancy, confinement and the post-natal period, granting free services where necessary, as well as adequate nutrition during pregnancy and lactation.

Article 13

States Parties shall take all appropriate measures to eliminate discrimination against women in other areas of economic and social life in order to ensure, on a basis of equality of men and women, the same rights, in particular:

- (a) The right to family benefits;
- (b) The right to bank loans, mortgages and other forms of financial credit;

(c) The right to participate in recreational activities, sports and all aspects of cultural life.

Article 14

1. States Parties shall take into account the particular problems faced by rural women and the significant roles which rural women play in the economic survival of their families, including their work in the non-monetized sectors of the economy, and shall take all appropriate measures to ensure the application of the provisions of the present Convention to women in rural areas.

2. States Parties shall take all appropriate measures to eliminate discrimination against women in rural areas in order to ensure, on a basis of equality of men and women, that they participate in and benefit from rural development and, in particular, shall ensure to such women the right:
 - (a) To participate in the elaboration and implementation of development planning at all levels;
 - (b) To have access to adequate health care facilities, including information, counselling and services in family planning;
 - (c) To benefit directly from social security programmes;
 - (d) To obtain all types of training and education, formal and non-formal, including that relating to functional literacy, as well as, inter alia, the benefit of all community and extension services, in order to increase their technical proficiency;
 - (e) To organize self-help groups and co-operatives in order to obtain equal access to economic opportunities through employment or self employment;
 - (f) To participate in all community activities;
 - (g) To have access to agricultural credit and loans, marketing facilities, appropriate technology and equal treatment in land and agrarian reform as well as in land resettlement schemes;
 - (h) To enjoy adequate living conditions, particularly in relation to housing, sanitation, electricity and water supply, transport and communications.

PART IVArticle 15

1. States Parties shall accord to women equality with men before the law.
2. States Parties shall accord to women, in civil matters, a legal capacity identical to that of men and the same opportunities to exercise that capacity. In particular, they shall give women equal rights to conclude contracts and to administer property and shall treat them equally in all stages of procedure in courts and tribunals.
3. States Parties agree that all contracts and all other private instruments of any kind with a legal effect which is directed at restricting the legal capacity of women shall be deemed null and void.
4. States Parties shall accord to men and women the same rights with regard to the law relating to the movement of persons and the freedom to choose their residence and domicile.

Article 16

1. States Parties shall take all appropriate measures to eliminate discrimination against women in all matters relating to marriage and family relations and in particular shall ensure, on a basis of equality of men and women:

- (a) The same right to enter into marriage;
- (b) The same right freely to choose a spouse and to enter into marriage only with their free and full consent;
- (c) The same rights and responsibilities during marriage and at its dissolution;
- (d) The same rights and responsibilities as parents, irrespective of their marital status, in matters relating to their children; in all cases the interests of the children shall be paramount;
- (e) The same rights to decide freely and responsibly on the number and spacing of their children and to have access to the information, education and means to enable them to exercise these rights;
- (f) The same rights and responsibilities with regard to guardianship, wardship, trusteeship and adoption of children, or similar institutions where these concepts exist in national legislation; in all cases the interests of the children shall be paramount;
- (g) The same personal rights as husband and wife, including the right to choose a family name, a profession and an occupation;
- (h) The same rights for both spouses in respect of the ownership, acquisition, management, administration, enjoyment and disposition of property, whether free of charge or for a valuable consideration.

2. The betrothal and the marriage of a child shall have no legal effect, and all necessary action, including legislation, shall be taken to specify a minimum age for marriage and to make the registration of marriages in an official registry compulsory.

PART VArticle 17

1. For the purpose of considering the progress made in the implementation of the present Convention, there shall be established a Committee on the Elimination of Discrimination against Women (hereinafter referred to as the Committee) consisting, at the time of entry into force of the Convention, of eighteen and, after ratification of or accession to the Convention by the thirty-fifth State Party, of twenty-three experts of high moral standing and competence in the field covered by the Convention. The experts shall be elected by States Parties from among their nationals and shall serve in their personal capacity, consideration being given to equitable geographical distribution and to the representation of the different forms of civilization as well as the principal legal systems.

2. The members of the Committee shall be elected by secret ballot from a list of persons nominated by States Parties. Each State Party may nominate one person from among its own nationals.
3. The initial election shall be held six months after the date of the entry into force of the present Convention. At least three months before the date of each election the Secretary-General of the United Nations shall address a letter to the States Parties inviting them to submit their nominations within two months. The Secretary-General shall prepare a list in alphabetical order of all persons thus nominated, indicating the States Parties which have nominated them, and shall submit it to the States Parties.
4. Elections of the members of the Committee shall be held at a meeting of States Parties convened by the Secretary-General at United Nations Headquarters. At that meeting, for which two thirds of the States Parties shall constitute a quorum, the persons elected to the Committee shall be those nominees who obtain the largest number of votes and an absolute majority of the votes of the representatives of States Parties present and voting.
5. The members of the Committee shall be elected for a term of four years. However, the terms of nine of the members elected at the first election shall expire at the end of two years; immediately after the first election the names of these nine members shall be chosen by lot by the Chairman of the Committee.
6. The election of the five additional members of the Committee shall be held in accordance with the provisions of paragraphs 2, 3 and 4 of this article, following the thirty-fifth ratification or accession. The terms of two of the additional members elected on this occasion shall expire at the end of two years, the names of these two members having been chosen by lot by the Chairman of the Committee.
7. For the filling of casual vacancies, the State Party whose expert has ceased to function as a member of the Committee shall appoint another expert from among its nationals, subject to the approval of the Committee.
8. The members of the Committee shall, with the approval of the General Assembly, receive emoluments from United Nations resources on such terms and conditions as the Assembly may decide, having regard to the importance of the Committee's responsibilities.
9. The Secretary-General of the United Nations shall provide the necessary staff and facilities for the effective performance of the functions of the Committee under the present Convention.

Article 18

1. States Parties undertake to submit to the Secretary-General of the United Nations, for consideration by the Committee, a report on the legislative, judicial, administrative or other measures which they have adopted to give effect to the provisions of the present Convention and on the progress made in this respect:
 - (a) Within one year after the entry into force of the State concerned;
 - (b) Thereafter at least every four years and further whenever the Committee so requests.
2. Reports may indicate factors and difficulties affecting the degree of fulfilment of obligations under the present Convention.

Article 19

1. The Committee shall adopt its own rules of procedure.
2. The Committee shall elect its officers for a term of two years.

Article 20

1. The Committee shall normally meet for a period of not more than two weeks annually in order to consider the reports submitted in accordance with article 18 of the present Convention.
2. The meetings of the Committee shall normally be held at United Nations Headquarters or at any other convenient place as determined by the Committee. (amendment, status of ratification)

Article 21

1. The Committee shall, through the Economic and Social Council, report annually to the General Assembly of the United Nations on its activities and may make suggestions and general recommendations based on the examination of reports and information received from the States Parties. Such suggestions and general recommendations shall be included in the report of the Committee together with comments, if any, from States Parties.
2. The Secretary-General of the United Nations shall transmit the reports of the Committee to the Commission on the Status of Women for its information.

Article 22

The specialized agencies shall be entitled to be represented at the consideration of the implementation of such provisions of the present Convention as fall within the scope of their activities. The Committee may invite the specialized agencies to submit reports on the implementation of the Convention in areas falling within the scope of their activities.

PART VI

Article 23

Nothing in the present Convention shall affect any provisions that are more conducive to the achievement of equality between men and women which may be contained:

- (a) In the legislation of a State Party; or
- (b) In any other international convention, treaty or agreement in force for that State.

Article 24

States Parties undertake to adopt all necessary measures at the national level aimed at achieving the full realization of the rights recognized in the present Convention.

Article 25

1. The present Convention shall be open for signature by all States.
2. The Secretary-General of the United Nations is designated as the depositary of the present Convention.
3. The present Convention is subject to ratification. Instruments of ratification shall be deposited with the Secretary-General of the United Nations.
4. The present Convention shall be open to accession by all States. Accession shall be effected by the deposit of an instrument of accession with the Secretary-General of the United Nations.

Article 26

1. A request for the revision of the present Convention may be made at any time by any State Party by means of a notification in writing addressed to the Secretary-General of the United Nations.
2. The General Assembly of the United Nations shall decide upon the steps, if any, to be taken in respect of such a request.

Article 27

1. The present Convention shall enter into force on the thirtieth day after the date of deposit with the Secretary-General of the United Nations of the twentieth instrument of ratification or accession.
2. For each State ratifying the present Convention or acceding to it after the deposit of the twentieth instrument of ratification or accession, the Convention shall enter into force on the thirtieth day after the date of the deposit of its own instrument of ratification or accession.

Article 28

1. The Secretary-General of the United Nations shall receive and circulate to all States the text of reservations made by States at the time of ratification or accession.
2. A reservation incompatible with the object and purpose of the present Convention shall not be permitted.
3. Reservations may be withdrawn at any time by notification to this effect addressed to the Secretary-General of the United Nations, who shall then inform all States thereof. Such notification shall take effect on the date on which it is received.

Article 29

1. Any dispute between two or more States Parties concerning the interpretation or application of the present Convention which is not settled by negotiation shall, at the request of one of them, be submitted to arbitration. If within six months from the date of the request for arbitration the parties are unable to agree on the organization of the arbitration, any one of those parties may refer the dispute to the International Court of Justice by request in conformity with the Statute of the Court.
2. Each State Party may at the time of signature or ratification of the present Convention or accession thereto declare that it does not consider itself bound by paragraph 1 of this article. The other States Parties shall not be bound by that paragraph with respect to any State Party which has made such a reservation.
3. Any State Party which has made a reservation in accordance with paragraph 2 of this article may at any time withdraw that reservation by notification to the Secretary-General of the United Nations.

Article 30

The present Convention, the Arabic, Chinese, English, French, Russian and Spanish texts of which are equally authentic, shall be deposited with the Secretary-General of the United Nations.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF the undersigned, duly authorized, have signed the present Convention.

Annexure C: MILLENNIUM DEVELOPMENT GOALS

The MDGs were developed out of the eight chapters of the Millennium Declaration, signed in September 2000. There are eight goals with 21 targets, and a series of measurable indicators for each target.

Goal 1: Eradicate extreme poverty and hunger

- Target 1A: Halve the proportion of people living on less than $1 a day
 - Proportion of population below $1 per day (PPP values)
 - Poverty gap ratio [incidence x depth of poverty]
 - Share of poorest quintile in national consumption
- Target 1B: Achieve Decent Employment for Women, Men, and Young People
 - GDP Growth per Employed Person
 - Employment Rate
 - Proportion of employed population below $1 per day (PPP values)
 - Proportion of family-based workers in employed population
- Target 1C: Halve the proportion of people who suffer from hunger
 - Prevalence of underweight children under five years of age
 - Proportion of population below minimum level of dietary energy consumption

Goal 2: Achieve universal primary education

- Target 2A: By 2015, all children can complete a full course of primary schooling, girls and boys
 - Enrollment in primary education
 - Completion of primary education
 - everyone will get into school

Goal 3: Promote gender equality and empower women

- Target 3A: Eliminate gender disparity in primary and secondary education preferably by 2005, and at all levels by 2015
 - Ratios of girls to boys in primary, secondary and tertiary education
 - Share of women in wage employment in the non-agricultural sector
 - Proportion of seats held by women in national parliament
 - For girls in some regions, education remains elusive
 - Poverty is a major barrier to education, especially among older girls
 - In every developing region except the CIS, men outnumber women in paid employment
 - Women are largely relegated to more vulnerable forms of employment
 - Women are over-represented in informal employment, with its lack of benefits and security
 - Top-level jobs still go to men — to an overwhelming degree
 - Women are slowly rising to political power, but mainly when boosted by quotas and other special measures

Goal 4: Reduce child mortality rates

- Target 4A: Reduce by two-thirds, between 1990 and 2015, the under-five mortality rate
 - Under-five mortality rate
 - Infant (under 1) mortality rate
 - Proportion of 1-year-old children immunized against measles

Goal 5: Improve maternal health

- Target 5A: Reduce by three quarters, between 1990 and 2015, the maternal mortality ratio
 - Maternal mortality ratio
 - Proportion of births attended by skilled health personnel
- Target 5B: Achieve, by 2015, universal access to reproductive health
 - Contraceptive prevalence rate
 - Adolescent birth rate
 - Antenatal care coverage
 - Unmet need for family planning

Goal 6: Combat HIV/AIDS, malaria, and other diseases

- Target 6A: Have halted by 2015 and begun to reverse the spread of HIV/AIDS
 - HIV prevalence among population aged 15–24 years
 - Condom use at last high-risk sex
 - Proportion of population aged 15–24 years with comprehensive correct knowledge of HIV/AIDS
- Target 6B: Achieve, by 2010, universal access to treatment for HIV/AIDS for all those who need it
 - Proportion of population with advanced HIV infection with access to antiretroviral drugs
- Target 6C: Have halted by 2015 and begun to reverse the incidence of malaria and other major diseases
 - Prevalence and death rates associated with malaria
 - Proportion of children under 5 sleeping under insecticide-treated bednets
 - Proportion of children under 5 with fever who are treated with appropriate anti-malarial drugs
 - Incidence, prevalence and death rates associated with tuberculosis
 - Proportion of tuberculosis cases detected and cured under DOTS (Directly Observed Treatment Short Course)

Goal 7: Ensure environmental sustainability

- Target 7A: Integrate the principles of sustainable development into country policies and programs; reverse loss of environmental resources
- Target 7B: Reduce biodiversity loss, achieving, by 2010, a significant reduction in the rate of loss
 - Proportion of land area covered by forest
 - CO₂ emissions, total, per capita and per $1 GDP (PPP)
 - Consumption of ozone-depleting substances
 - Proportion of fish stocks within safe biological limits
 - Proportion of total water resources used
 - Proportion of terrestrial and marine areas protected
 - Proportion of species threatened with extinction
- Target 7C: Halve, by 2015, the proportion of the population without sustainable access to safe drinking water and basic sanitation (for more information see the entry on water supply)
 - Proportion of population with sustainable access to an improved water source, urban and rural
 - Proportion of urban population with access to improved sanitation
- Target 7D: By 2020, to have achieved a significant improvement in the lives of at least 100 million slum-dwellers
 - Proportion of urban population living in slums

Goal 8: Develop a global partnership for development

- Target 8A: Develop further an open, rule-based, predictable, non-discriminatory trading and financial system
 - Includes a commitment to good governance, development, and poverty reduction – both nationally and internationally
- Target 8B: Address the Special Needs of the Least Developed Countries (LDC)
 - Includes: tariff and quota free access for LDC exports; enhanced programme of debt relief for HIPC and cancellation of official bilateral debt; and more generous ODA (Official Development Assistance) for countries committed to poverty reduction
- Target 8C: Address the special needs of landlocked developing countries and small island developing States
 - Through the Programme of Action for the Sustainable Development of Small Island Developing States and the outcome of the twenty-second special session of the General Assembly
- Target 8D: Deal comprehensively with the debt problems of developing countries through national and international measures in order to make debt sustainable in the long term
 - Some of the indicators listed below are monitored separately for the least developed countries (LDCs), Africa, landlocked developing countries and small island developing States.
 - Official development assistance (ODA):
 - Net ODA, total and to LDCs, as percentage of OECD/DAC donors' GNI

Not to be quoted or cited

- Proportion of total sector-allocable ODA of OECD/DAC donors to basic social services (basic education, primary health care, nutrition, safe water and sanitation)
 - Proportion of bilateral ODA of OECD/DAC donors that is untied
 - ODA received in landlocked countries as proportion of their GNIs
 - ODA received in small island developing States as proportion of their GNIs
 - Market access:
 - Proportion of total developed country imports (by value and excluding arms) from developing countries and from LDCs, admitted free of duty
 - Average tariffs imposed by developed countries on agricultural products and textiles and clothing from developing countries
 - Agricultural support estimate for OECD countries as percentage of their GDP
 - Proportion of ODA provided to help build trade capacity
 - Debt sustainability:
 - Total number of countries that have reached their HIPC decision points and number that have reached their HIPC completion points (cumulative)
 - Debt relief committed under HIPC initiative, US$
 - Debt service as a percentage of exports of goods and services
- Target 8E: In co-operation with pharmaceutical companies, provide access to affordable, essential drugs in developing countries
 - Proportion of population with access to affordable essential drugs on a sustainable basis
- Target 8F: In co-operation with the private sector, make available the benefits of new technologies, especially information and communications
 - Telephone lines and cellular subscribers per 100 population
 - Personal computers in use per 100 population
 - Internet users per 100 Population

Annexure D: SUMMARY OF GOVERNMENT OUTCOME DOCUMENTS AND DELIVERY AGREEMENTS

The Cabinet Lekgotla (which is a regular executive planning session) held from 20 to 22 January 2010 adopted the following 12 Outcomes:

- Outcome 1: Improved quality of basic education.
- Outcome 2: A long and healthy life for all South Africans.
- Outcome 3: All people in South Africa are and feel safe.
- Outcome 4: Decent employment through inclusive economic growth.
- Outcome 5: A skilled and capable workforce to support an inclusive growth path.
- Outcome 6: An efficient, competitive and responsive economic infrastructure network.
- Outcome 7: Vibrant, equitable and sustainable rural communities with food security for all.
- Outcome 8: Sustainable human settlements and improved quality of household life.
- Outcome 9: A responsive, accountable, effective and efficient local government system.
- Outcome 10: Environmental assets and natural resources that are well protected and continually enhanced.
- Outcome 11: Create a better South Africa and contribute to a better and safer Africa and World.
- Outcome 12: An efficient, effective and development oriented public service and an empowered, fair and inclusive citizenship.

The President has signed performance agreements with all 34 Cabinet Ministers. In these performance agreements, Ministers were requested to establish an Implementation Forum for each of the twelve outcomes. In each implementation forum Ministers and all other parties responsible for delivering on an outcome, will develop a Delivery Agreement. All departments, agencies and spheres of government involved in the direct delivery process required to achieve an output, should be party to the agreement.

The Delivery Agreement will refine and provide more detail to the outputs, targets, indicators and key activities for each outcome, and identify required inputs and clarify roles and responsibilities. It will spell out who will do what, by when and with what resources.

Delivery Agreements will further unpack each outcome and each output and the requirements to reach the targets. Aspects that will be described in detail include the legislative and regulatory regime, the institutional environment and decision-making processes and rights, the resources needed and re-allocation of resources where appropriate.
